

THE FABLES AND FANCIES OF MUSICIANS

When listening to the wonderful strains of Beethoven's immortal symphonies and sonatas it is difficult to imagine that they could come from the pen of such an eccentric man. Though musicians are, as a rule, men with many peculiarities, Beethoven was probably the most extraordinary of them all.

He wrote his music in all sorts of places—when dining, walking, or conversing with a friend. Often in the midst of a crowded street he would stop and write furiously for a few minutes on the back of a letter or an envelope, oblivious to the bustling crowd about him. Some of his greatest themes were composed when he was walking alone in the pouring rain; for in the worst weather he was a familiar figure in the streets of Vienna, and though often the object of much ridicule and many gibes, he was profoundly indifferent to his surroundings, as his mind was wholly occupied with his music. His friends were not unaccustomed to have him break off in the midst of a conversation, and begin to write rapidly some motif which had presented itself to him.

This great composer would play for hours at a stretch, and in order to cool his hands, which often became feverish, he would seize a water jug and walk about the room, pouring the water first on one hand and then on the other, utterly ignoring the fact that there was no receptacle to catch it. This was the cause of many of his hasty retreats from his lodgings, for the slightest complaint would cause him to give notice to quit, so puerile was he at times. As a result he sometimes was paying for no fewer than three different lodgings at the same time, which, after an engaging for a month, he had abruptly left in a day.

Though Haydn ranks next to Beethoven on the list of eccentric musicians, still their peculiarities were very unlike. Beethoven lived in the midst of disorder and confusion; while Haydn, on the other hand, was a man of order and neatness. He always rose early to write; for he found his greatest inspiration when the birds were singing in the dewy morning hours. His most extraordinary characteristic, however, was to don his full court dress, with bow tie, hat, and ruffles, and put on his finger a certain ring, before he wrote a line, for he declared that he had not a musical idea unless so attired.

He became engaged to a young woman, and at the request of his future mother-in-law he drew up, in the presence of an attorney, a contract which bound him to marry one of the woman's daughters within three years; the said daughter always having the liberty to refuse the composer if he wished to marry another. But in case Mozart was unable to carry out his intention, through lack of the necessary funds or through the woman's refusal, he pledged himself to support her in the condition of a stranger, no matter where or how she lived, all her life. This support was to be a fixed sum paid quarterly or half yearly.

EDUCATING THE ORIENTALS.

Experiment of Segregation is Working Well in Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 22.—The experiment of segregating the older Orientals in a special class-room for elementary instruction in English is proving a success in Vancouver. The average daily attendance of the Asiatic room is forty. All the pupils are Chinese males, with the exception of half a dozen who hail from Japan. Their ages vary from sixteen to twenty-two years. Four Hindus enrolled at the time of the organization of the class have ceased to attend because they were unable to make headway owing to their lack of knowledge of the English language.

There are three forms, the primer and the first and second reader being taught. Mr. A. E. Barnes, the teacher, finds that from a psychological standpoint the subjects grow more engrossed in interest every day. Chinese and Japanese boys, many of them not even possessing knowledge of the words they utter, display patience, pertinacity and even heroism in their enthusiastic desire to acquire an English education.

The Orientals, on account of their advanced age and the general unsuitability of having them occupy the same classroom as young white children were permitted to go to the same classes as those attended by white children of corresponding age. The children of the rival races no longer harmonize or fraternize. The white boy is physically better endowed than any young Chinese and does not disguise his feeling of superiority. In mental equipment, the Oriental needs the Caucasian on a more even plane.

In the Oriental room three-quarters of the school hours are devoted to language work. Drawing, object lessons, writing and mathematics, including mental arithmetic, are also taught. It is an interesting experience to study the Oriental scholar at close range. His interest in the work is apparent. None of that distraction so frequently witnessed in a school room of white pupils is evident. The Oriental has no time to loaf or to tinkle the ear of the lad in front of him when the teacher's back is turned. He is too desperately in earnest. From noon till night, he is absorbing knowledge with eye and ear.

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 24, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency of the district in which the land is situated. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(A) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(B) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than 80 (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(C) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has resided on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, and upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duty by living with the father (or mother).

(D) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(E) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duty in accordance with the above while living with the parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

SPAT ON THE HOST IN POPE'S PRESENCE

Entire Catholic Rome Incensed by an Act of Sacrilege

Only Way in Which Offence Can be Atoned is for Perpetrators to Join the Church

ROME, April 22.—The entire Catholic population of Rome is incensed at an act of sacrilege that was committed yesterday in the Pope's private chapel during the celebration of the Easter mass by the Pope. The congregation numbered about 200, all after the pattern of the Holy Communion. Among them were two women and a man, who had been admitted on the strong recommendation of the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador to the Vatican.

While the Pope was administering the Sacrament, these three were seen to remove the consecrated bread from their mouths. One of the women was seen actually casting bread on the floor. The Pope was horrified. The offenders were immediately expelled from the chapel. They were recognized by the major-domo's office, where they said they were not Christians and had received the communion of the United Brethren and spat out the Host, not believing it to be consecrated.

The incident, in spite of all efforts at secrecy, became generally known and the Pope wept bitterly. He is convinced that the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador will be recalled, it is said.

Theistine Chapel will not need reconstruction as the act of sacrilege does not constitute profanity. The three persons who offended, say they did not intend any outrage against Catholicism. They say they received the communion mistakenly and did not actually spit out the Host. They only attempted and failed because they were detected.

They now realize the enormity of their act, for which regret the Pope hopes they will receive God's grace and that they will become Catholics, the only way in which they can atone for their offence.

NOAH'S REMARKABLE WIFE.

A clergyman happened to tell his son one Saturday afternoon what lesson he would read in church the next morning. The boy got hold of his father's Bible, found the lesson place and glued together connecting pages.

In consequence the clergyman read "When Noah was 120 years of age he took unto himself a wife, who was here he turned the page—140 cubits long, forty cubits wide, built of gopher wood and covered with pitch in and out."

After reading the passage the clergyman read it again to verify it. Then, pushing back his spectacles, he looked gravely at his congregation and said:

"My friends, this is the first time I ever read that in the Bible, but I accept it as evidence of the assertion that we are fearfully and wonderfully made."—Human Life.

Austria has passed a new law, compelling every possessor of a vote to use it.
