EVANGELISTS STILL DRAWING BIG CROWDS

Second Week of Campaign is Over and No Decline in Interest

The evangelistic services continue to command undiminished audiences. Night after night the people completely fill nine of the largest auditoriums in the city. There has been no falling off either in interest or in attendance. Men and women who ordinarily find it an irksome task to attend the regular session of the church, have for some strange reason grown enthusiastic over their nightly meetings. Regular churchgoers rub shoulders with habitual delinquents, as they night after night crowd their way into the places of meeting.

The man on the street is finding some difficulty in discovering the reason for this enthusiasm. "One man said, 'I thought I knew St. John, and I gave the movement just ten days to run itself out, but my ten days are up, and the people do not seem to be tired yet. I give it up.'"

Another man said: "I do not see why the people got so excited over these meetings. We have preachers of our own, and singers of our own and the people remain indifferent enough to them all. I do not understand why they should suddenly become so interested in these workers."

These remarks were carried to an evangelist and his explanation seemed sensible enough. He said: "You have just as good preachers in St. John as any of us—perhaps better. You have just as good singers, perhaps better. People came to hear us at first because we were strangers, and because they are either interested or curious. But they would very quickly get accustomed to us and weary of us if we simply preached and sang. The interest is maintained because the people see actual results. The actual results of the normal work of the church are not so apparent. The people see what is done night after night. They keep on coming, not because they are interested in the sermons or the singing, but because they are interested in the work. An unsuccessful evangelistic campaign would soon decline in spite of the most eloquent preaching and the best of singing."

Whatever the explanation the fact is apparent that St. John is at the present time very much taken up with one thing.

The meeting in the Bunsell street last night surpassed all previous meetings in its apparent efficiency. The singing was somewhat more hearty than heretofore, and the sole work of Mr. Wood and Miss Conrad was appreciated. The sermon by Mr. Cameron, on "The Joy of the Cross" was a forceful statement of an idea not over-emphasized. The speaker was apparently happy in his theme. Jesus, The Man of Sorrows, he knew, but he knew also Jesus the man who found joy in overcoming, joy in sacrifice, joy in the mystic sense of His Father's approval, and joy in conquest.

A powerful sermon gave point to an unusual appeal. Said the preacher "I have a charge to bring against some of the congregation. Night after night you have come face to face with Jesus and some of you night after night have refused to hear this burden to live his life. Again I bring to you this challenge. I call you to surrender, I call you to conflict. You may say you will not accept the burden. You may think it means too much. I have no easier word. It does mean much. You will have to give up. You will have to bear burdens. It will mean sacrifice. But men it is worth while. Men who say not because the way is too difficult are cowards." With ringing words the preacher forced the people to face the issue and in response to his challenge numbers throughout the house indicated their desire to enter the life of discipleship.

The pastors of the group were enthusiastic over the meeting.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of the uterus, and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking your medicine. It has also helped other women to whom I have recommended it."—Mrs. Henry Clark, Glanford Station, Ontario.

Another woman says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best remedy in the world for women.

Fox Creek, N. B.—"I have always had pains in the loins and a weakness there, and often after my meals my food would distress me and cause soreness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. I am stronger, digestion is better, and I can walk with ambition. I have encouraged many mothers of families to take it, as it is the best remedy in the world for women. You can publish this in the papers."—Mrs. William Bourque, Fox Creek, N. B., Canada.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

ST. ANDREW'S GROUP.

The meeting last evening in St. Andrew's Church was full of deep spiritual interest. The seating capacity of the sanctuary and auditorium was taxed to its utmost capacity. The singing, led by Mr. Allen, grows in interest at every service. At the beginning of the meeting Miss Dorothy Murray played a violin solo, which made a deep impression.

Rev. Dr. Gray announced his subject, "Future Punishment in the Light of Modern Scholarship," and took as his text, Revelation, ch. 2, verse 11. "He that is unjust let him be unjust still, and he that is filthy let him be filthy still." Dr. Gray said this text suggested to him when the type of the character cannot be changed. Here upon earth characters are constantly changed. The drunkard becomes a saint, the harlot becomes a pure. But this text suggests a time when character cannot be changed. The holy man will remain holy and the unrighteous man will remain unrighteous. Some one has said death stereotypes character. There is a great law in the world known as tendency towards fixity. Character is becoming more and more fixed with each passing day. It is easy for a child to change, but hard for a grown person and almost impossible for one that is old. This does not mean that God is unwilling to save men, but that men are incapable of yielding to the forces of good. God is constantly calling. But it seems possible for men to go so low under God, that they cannot hear His voice.

The great question of the future as of the present is not where a man is, but what a man is. Milton has well said, "The mind is its own place, and in itself can make a hell of heaven or a heaven of hell." The thoughts of the future are not in the future, but in a hell, but that men are wicked and sinful. No man will be happy in heaven unless he has the spirit of heaven in his own heart.

At the close of the meeting a number came forward expressing their intention to lead a Christian life hereafter.

NORTH END GROUP.

Again the church was filled to its utmost capacity and the singing enthusiastic and effective. Mr. Lamb sang several solos. Dr. Smith's subject was "The Conversion of a Grate." His text, "And Jesus saw a Phoenician named Levi sitting at the receipt of custom and he said unto him 'Follow me,' and he left all, rose up and followed him." Luke 9:57-62.

The Roman government building in a Gallian town was filled with an ever moving throng of men and women, many of whom were paying their taxes and clerks making out their receipts. No one seemed to notice a small company of men and women who were entering the building as they entered. They were paying their taxes, and they were following a man with a matchless face. As they passed the desk of the chief collector he looked up, caught the eye of the leader of the little company, and heard him say "Follow me." He left all, rose up and followed him. The leader was Jesus, the collector Levi. Levi was a publican, and he was a sinner. He was the black sheep in the holy family. In the language of that day, he was an extortioner and a tax collector. The language of today he was a grifter. The grifter is something like the Scotchman, who says "Follow me." He has everything else he could lay his hands on. Singular it was that Jesus picked out this man, Peter was busy with his greed. But he calls busy men to his service. St. Peter was busy with his nets. Paul was busy persecuting the church. He is calling busy men to St. John. He wants to save them and to use them to bring other men. Will you heed his call?

Many decided to do so for the first time at the close of the service.

CENTENARY CHURCH.

The large audience in Centenary was addressed last evening by Mr. Sykes, who chose for his subject, "Opportunity for Christian Service." The church was likened unto a garden and the members the gardeners. They had a whole lot to do in removing dirt and rubbish and caring for the tender plants and plants committed to them as the children came into membership.

There was much to be done in discouraging unkind, unfair and ungenerous treatment. The church is "a need of workers with sanctified, common sense, who can love and help the discouraged, who can go down to those who are down, and who may be waiting for the kind word and glad hand. The garden wants new life and force. A lot of people will never be reclaimed unless the stronger lives are put up against their weaker ones. Men are Christians who live in their beautiful and comfortable relations. The Christian of God, who never dream of opening their lips to the faces of clay into which they plant seeds of destruction. The church should mobilize and organize its members, but individual responsibility must not be overlooked.

After the address Mr. Nafziger sang very beautifully, "Bearing the Cross."

AT ST. LUKE'S.

St. Luke's Church was again well filled last evening. The Bishop of Fredericton took for his text, "And they shall be mine, saith the Lord of Hosts, in that day when I make up my jewels." This climax is clearly a prophecy of Christ's second coming. This second coming will be unexpected. Christ Himself said, "of that day and hour knoweth no man," no, not the angels of heaven, but My Father only.

"What is the lesson? Beware lest its suddenness should find you unprepared! To the occasional drinker! What if Christ should come and find you at the mercy of your sin? To the business man? What if Christ should come and find you exclusively taken up with the ordinary things of life? Jesus was born in a wayside stable. No antagonism on part of innkeepers, simply no room. Have you no room for Jesus?

"Christ's second coming will be in judgment. First a judgment of complete discrimination. Then shall be discerned between the righteous and the wicked, between him that serveth God and him that serveth not." The day of judgment will mean the lifting from every man of all moral restraints, external only, every prohibition outward law, compulsion of custom, persuasion of pride, power of public opinion, influence of social standards, and each man will stand his own self."

SALE ENDS TUESDAY

last evening, there being a larger percentage of men than on previous evenings. Mr. Winchester directed his remarks more particularly to the men. Technical education was received a great deal of attention today, yet it may be possible for a nation to be too highly trained. The real north of Canada would consist in the powers of endurance of the men of Canada, not the material resources. The race of life calls for the best energy that can be summoned. If Canada is to be a great country, people must cultivate the true idea of sport and as sportsmen should be self-controlled abstainers and sober-minded.

Mr. Matheson's text last evening was, "All things are now ready." If men, he said, are lost, it will not be because the work is not finished. Christ finished the work. He next spoke of those who excuse for not attending the supper. The reason they did not attend the feast was that they had no mind for such things. Their thoughts were all on their own interests. And that is simply the reason why people will not come to the marriage supper of the Lamb today. A man never realizes the consequences of sin or he would never go into it. Mr. Matheson will speak this evening.

ON THE WEST SIDE.
On the West side the City Hall was crowded and a deep interest was manifested in the service. The voluntary services of the Carleton Cornet Band were much appreciated. They and a large choir were led by Rev. F. A. Robinson and furnished the music during the evening. Dr. Rees' subject was "Where shall I spend Eternity?" In connection with this question the speaker pointed out that Eternity was incomprehensible, either in the past or in the future. He closed his appeal to his hearers to decide the question, "Where shall I spend Eternity?" immediately.

FAIRVILLE GROUP.
In Fairville Rev. A. B. Winchester delivered an eloquent address, choosing for his subject, "Opportunity for Christian Service."

AMUSEMENTS
THE ROYAL CHEF.
The Royal Chef will appear at the Opera House Feb. 28th. The music of the play is not only extremely catchy, but has secured the company a reputation with any ever written for a single production. The scenic effects are described as great and the company is usually capable. The locale of "The Royal Chef" is the mythical "Isle of Colos," over which the "Royal Chef" is exalted, dignified, finding his chief has attempted to poison him, he has the usual belated, and orders "Lord Mito," the prime minister, to find him another, before sundown or suffer a like fate. The prime minister fears it is a hopeless task, but just as his time is about up he is saved by the unexpected appearance of a Cook's tour, one "Heinrich Lamphauer" of Chicago, who is at once promoted to the position of "Royal Chef." The new Chef turns out to be a joke-smith, and around him revolves all the incidents that show clever dramatic construction. The opera is staged in fine style both in costume and every accessory required to give it proper setting, while the specialists, chorus, dances and supernumeraries meet every requirement, and in point of quality surpasses any that is usually required in musical comedy.

THE GEM.
Many large audiences witnessed the splendid programme at the Gem last evening. The pictures were the clearest and brightest yet shown, and above all absolutely riskless. This is due to a practically new machine which was installed Friday afternoon, one of the very latest models of machines on the market. This installation is a decided success, and brings out the detail of every picture shown. Another improvement which was a noticeable feature was the change in the electrical display outside the Gem. A new electric sign has been placed up and reflects great credit upon the manager. Mr. F. Triffis, who designed and wired it, the picture shown last night were well received. The headline, "The Samaritan's Courtesy," proved to be an interesting study. "A Visit to Bombay," a highly colored travel picture of the Orient, was most instructive. Mr. Percy Harvey delighted his many admirers by his pleasing voice, and Master Holland was thoroughly enjoyed in orchestral selections.

Had Heart Trouble.
Nerves Were All Unstrung.
Wherever there is any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy, physical breakdown, the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will soon produce a healthy, strong system.

Mr. McGinn, writes: "I wish to tell you what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. Three years ago I was so run down I could not do my own work. I went to a doctor, and he told me I had heart trouble and that my nerves were all unstrung. I took his medicine, as he ordered me to do, but it did me no good. I then started to take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and had only taken one box before I started to feel better, so I continued their use until I had taken several boxes, and I am now strong and well, and able to do my own work. When I commenced taking your pills I weighed 125 pounds, and now weigh 185 and have given birth to a lovely young daughter, who was a happy thing in the family. When I commenced taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I could not go upstairs without resting before I got to the top. I can now go up without any trouble."

Price, 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Commenting Monday the management will have some surprises for the Gem's patrons.

Little Brother's Revenge

(Puck)

As young Smithers moved out the card table he asked, casually: "Where is the bright red table cover you used to have? I always liked that."

"You wouldn't like it now," interposed little Tommy.

"Run away and play, there's a dear."

"I won't," answered little Tommy.

"Hush, Tommy, hush!"

"Won't," answered Tommy again.

And as he was hustled from the room he yelled: "Sister's made a petticoat out of that table cloth!"

HAPPY RESULTS OBTAINED

By the Use of the New Scalp

Antiseptic

It wouldn't take long to number the hairs in the heads of some people, the reason being they haven't many to number. In most instances, however, the fault is their own. A germ at the root soon plays havoc with the most luxuriant growth, and causes it to fade and fall out. A remedy for this has recently been discovered, called Newbro's Headache, that acts by destroying the germ that does the damage, besides removing all impurities from the scalp. In addition it permits new life and vigor to enter the scalp, and happy results are sure to be obtained from its use. Try it. Sold by leading druggists, Send Doc, in stamps for sample to The Herald Co., Detroit, Mich.
