While shooting on the marsh a few miles from Amherst, Wednesday morning, Max Bigney, about eighteen years old, accidentally shot himself in the head. From the story of his companion, a lad named Outton, the injured man was stooping to look for a duck when he had killed and was dragging the gun behind him by the muzzle, when the trigger caught in a stick and discharged the contents of a second barrel into his skull. The charge took effect above the right ear, making a terrible wound. There is practically no hope for his recovery.

Association Men, the International Y. M. C. A. paper, says: Harvard, Yale and scores of College and University Young Men's Christian Associations have written the majority of young men entering those institutions this month, offering freely the friendly services of the Association. The first thing a freshman looks for is a boarding place in the colleges where the dormitories are not large, in this the Y. M. C. A. of the colleges is able to serve him, as lists of rooms have been made up by a committee before college opens. In some of the Western Colleges the Y. M. C. A. men hire express wagons to take up the freshman's baggage without charge or for a nominal charge. For men who work their way through college the Association has an employment bureau and a committee of experienced upper classmen who know how to advise with men who must earn all or part of their way. Instead of being in dread of the Junior and Senior in college the Freshman now comes to look upon him as a personal friend. In this way the college Y. M. C. A. members treat the new men, some of them come days ahead of the opening day in order to make their preparations for the Freshman's reception complete. The Association room becomes a club to the men, and his associates are among its members. In this way the membership of the College Y. M. C. A. is kept up to 4,000 in 650 institutions.

Catarrh of the Nerves.

The above is a name of my own. There is no such term in the Medical Text Books as Catarrh of the Nerves, but it is the best I can think of under which to classify the following train of symptoms.

During the seventeen years I have been studying and treating Catarrh in its many and various forms, I have found many whose system was much run down. No organ of the body was working properly, the blood was poor in quality and deficient in quantity, so much so that it did not nourish and tone up the nervous system properly. Such persons are usually debilitated, despondent, always ready to look on the dark side of things. In short: life has lost its charm.

Very often such people are misunderstood by their friends, who tell them they are not sick, that they only imagine they are unwell, and that if they just brace up they will be all right. All this is very wrong, it only makes the poor suffer worse. Instead of this they should receive the utmost consideration, and all gentleness, kindness and sympathy.

It has been my privilege to treat very large numbers of such persons. My heart always seems to go out to them in their sufferings, and when I have once more retarded them to health, I feel highly gratified and that my life is not being spent in vain, that it is being given for the good of my fellow human beings, and what a number of friends I have thus gained who were formerly my patients. You would be astonished at the numbers of letters I am all the time receiving, thanking me for the good I have done them, for once more bringing brightness back into their lives.

There is one which I will reproduce as it may be of interest to some of your readers. It is a piece of poetry.

And are these years of weary pain
Forever passed away?
These seven long years of weary night
Turned into endless day?

I sometimes think 'tis all a dream,
And I shall on the morrow,
Wake up to all my aches and pains,
The old, old grief and sorrow.

Oh, no! 'tis true I walk abroad,
With peace and heavenly joy,
The sweet songs of the summer birds
No more my nerves annoy.

'Tis by thy aid, my gracious friend,
That I have found relief;
For God has blessed your skillful work
And kept this heavenly peace.

Oh, may thy future life be crowned
With blessings from above,
And may you long be spared on earth
For the great work of love.

How many sickly homes you've cheered,
How many hearts made light;
For sickness reigns no longer there,
And all is calm and bright.

God bless your life, God bless your home,
That home across the sea;
A thousand, thousand thanks I send
For what you've done for me.

Such communications as the above are highly gratifying to me, and are kept among my most valued possessions.

The most common symptoms of Catarrh of the Nerves are as follows:

- Do you get giddy?
- Is your mind dull?
- Is your memory poor?
- Are you easily dazed?
- Do you have headache?
- Are you easily excited?
- Do your temples throb?
- Do your hands tremble?
- Does your heart flutter?
- Are you easily irritated?
- Are you always anxious?
- Do your muscles twitch?
- Is your temper irritable?
- Is your brain "bugged out"?
- Suffer from sleeplessness?
- Are you easily frightened?
- Does not sleep refresh you?
- Do you forget what you read?
- Do you have horrible dreams?
- Does the least thing annoy you?
- If you have some of the above symptoms mark yes or no to each question, cut out and send to me, when I will take pleasure in answering your letter to the best of my ability. Dr. Sproule, B. A., English Catarrh Specialist, 7, 9, 10, 11, and 12 Doane Street, Boston.

The fierce wind and rain storm of Wednesday last made unfavorable external conditions for the opening of the exhibition at Halifax. The remaining days of the week however were favorable and the attendance large. And with fine weather during the present week, the attendance will likely be well sustained. The reports as to the general character of the show are very favorable.
