

AN IMMENSE BRIDGE.

the English channel is one of the wildest to travel on in the world, and very few erable have been proposed for passage under the sea, but the opposition of British military authorities has

[illegible]

35 paces, 29 meters broad and 45 feet high. The arches would vary in height from 100 to 500 metres. Each pile would be provided with two lights, visible from the sea. The lights would be 15 centims long and short sounds according to its number in the series, and by indicating its position. Small boats would be placed at the place where the disease had been observed, to warn any vessel that she was approaching the bridge.

The British military authorities took more than a year to make a preliminary study of the plan, because the longest naval blockade in the history of the world was being broken in case of attempted invasion, and the bridge would be more easily destroyed than it should be. It was decided that the bridge should be made of steel.

The first step was to make a plan of crossing the channel. In the case of the North bridge, much sea sickness is caused, for the seven miles of crossing. The British Admiralty, however, has decided to make a very unusual bridge, and the British Navy expressed by the

THE 6th. Inst. the Earl of Aberdeen and on "Immigrants of Canada." Is in lecture and able lecture, and showed the Earl had been a very close and an observer during his tour of referring to the loyalty of the people, their various religious bodies and nations, he said the Canadians were witty, hospitable people, independent nations. Canada was not merely a and with Canadians the hopes of a new future for their country. Spiritually of the clean and stamp of the best adapted for starting life in the north, he said there was not at present and, so, at least in the more recent for those who intended to follow was called the professions, for in of the towns a doctor would not find enough patients, a lawyer a client, and a preacher perhaps not find enough hearers; nor was room for clerks. But for men who able and willing to turn their hands to practical agriculture, with or without stock, and women who were willing to make domestic service, there was a wide and profitable employment, and religious backbones were needed. And religious backbones were required for these various parts of the

With Miss Spence in Their Wedding
a pretty safe to say that no bride starting out in life in this town ever with a magnificent millionaire anti-smoking Schickel and his bride. Here two young people who had never done before in the world except get educated and married. The bride's father gave $100,000 in bridal gifts and $500,000
in a trip to return her to a home with the bride's mother there representing an additional expenditure of $250,000.
There with this the young wife has received, a no modest fortune.
About this time the bride's father and really has little money, and this was another installment of $400,000 $10,000.—New York World.

entered as a fox terrier. When the priest pressed the oxen on the head preparatory to taking cognizance of his guilt the terrified animal made a dash for the edge on the hand. The judge pressed the oxen, and later, on being asked the thoughts of the lawyer's fancy brute, replied: "Ho, 'tis no good; remember the master's voice." The boy, who was nothing the matter with his teeth and his, is there?" asked the exhibitor, and the judge said not a word.

—

Navigable to Its Source.

The Amazon in South America is the longest river in the world. It is 4,000 long, and its drainage of its basin is 2,000,000 square miles. It is the longest almost to its course, and the navigation afforded by the main and its tributaries is not less than that of the great rivers of the world, and is more than the Amazon in Europe.

Afraid of Procrastination.
any Journal: Jake Jimson (after gagement)—Shall I name the day, B. Hays. Oh, yes, no!

Jimenez (with a look of fright)—
—m, darling?
—You are two preposterating, Jake!
—
—Such a pity.
—The New York Herald: "You," she said,
—I'm away from the managing editor."
—The newspapers don't tell the truth
—be time."
—I said, significantly, "Is that —I'm so sorry. It was only yesterday I —I notice of how beautiful and charm—ing vern."
—
—To Build Her Husband.
—
—Arch Muse: Young Housekeeper (to —Yen)—You may send a nice piece of
—about—Yes, ma'am.
—Young Housekeeper—And have it very
—ing, my husband prefers it that
—
—In the 25th volume Mrs. Donna D.
—as became the wife of Mr. M. Tenoff, —owner of the Bank of Bulgaria. She was —in June last as a conspirator.
—
—Fant of principle is the principal want —my men.

smart young lady recently entered a carry already occupied by three members of the opposite sex. One, in the familiar style we know as produced a cigar and his match-box, said: "I trust, madam, that smoking is agreeable to you?" "Really, sir—the sweetest of smiles." "I can't tell, yet no gentleman has smoked in my car."

of "Walter" is to be knighted saining his majority, so that there be another Sir Walter Scott.

At night in the House of Lords, Lord can move the adoption of the bill women householders the right of Lord Salisbury, the Prime Min-held that it would be unwise for the of Lords to try to interfere with stitution, as the House of Commons realities. After some further dis-Lord Denman's motion was dis-er judge an insurance company by ality of the blotting paper is given