About twenty-five of the members of Wolfville Division went to Canning last Thursday evening to pay a fraternal visit to the sister society at that place. The visitors were given a bountiful reception and a most pleasant evening was spent. The programme consisted of music, readings, speeches, etc., and at the close refreshments were passed around. Owing to the bad roads it was a late hour when the visitors reached home highly pleased with the reception given them.

Mr L. J. Webster, the popular accountant of the Wolfville agency of the Peoples' Bank of Halifax, left on Monday evening for Halifax, where he will assume a temporary position in the head office. On Saturday evening a number of Mr Webster's friends gathered at the American House to do justice to an oyster supper provided for the occasion by the enterprising proprietor. After the inner man had been satisfied, an hour or two was pleasantly spent with songs and speeches, after which the party broke up singing "For he's a Jelly Good Fellow." During Mr Webster's residence of about two years in Wolfville he has made many friends, all of whom will regret his departure, and wish him every success in his new sphere.
