

ness. We earnestly hope and sincerely pray that our CANADIAN DAY-STAR will be crowned with similar success.

II. We deem it proper in this our Introductory Address, to state that we are now entirely disconnected from The Canada Evangelist. Though we have for a number of years past contributed largely to its pages, we deem it expedient, for a number of reasons which we need not mention, to commence the Day-Star, through the medium of which we can express our views without let or hindrance.

III. The ends contemplated by us in the publication of THE CANADIAN DAY-STAR, are all comprehended by, or summed up in the title of the Magazine,—the Exhibition of the Gospel in its Glorious Fulness and Unfettered Freeness. The exhibition of the grand essential truths of Christianity, as held by the Evangelical Union, shall occupy a prominent place in its pages. We are strongly impressed with the importance and necessity of unfolding the truth respecting the love of the Triune God to the whole human family. It shall therefore be our principal aim in this periodical, to present the glorious Gospel in its richness, fullness, freeness, saving and sanctifying power. We humbly trust that the motives which actuate us are love to Jesus and love to souls, and the ultimate ends at which we aim, the extension of the Redeemer's kingdom in the salvation and sanctification of men and the glory of God.

IV. As we have issued the first number of THE CANADIAN DAY-STAR without any preliminary Prospectus heralding its approach, we trust that its own appearance will be a sufficient card of introduction, and that it will be favourably received by those to whom we send it. We shall leave no means untried, and spare no pains to make all the subsequent numbers as good, and, if possible, better than the first. Though we have issued our first number in November, the first volume will include fourteen numbers. We send our first issue of THE CANADIAN DAY-STAR to many who have not yet subscribed for it, and who have had no
