

Weather Proverbs (continued)

Some sensitive noses can smell rain—Shakespeare puts it thus:

"A very ancient and fish-like smell."

"When the dew is on the grass Rain will never come to pass."

"When the stars begin to huddle,
The earth will soon become a puddle."

"Heavy frosts generally are followed by fine clear weather."

"When the grass is dry at morning light
Look for rain before the night."

"Sunshine and shower, rain again tomorrow."

"The dews of the evening industriously
shun,
They're the tears of the sky for the loss of the sun."

"A coming storm your shooting corns
presage,
And aches will throb, your hollow
tooth will rage."

"When the wind backs and the weather
glass falls,
Then be on your guard against gales
and squalls."

"The wind in the west suits everyone best."
