RADIANT WOMANHOOD.

The glory and satisfaction of beau-The glory and satisfaction of beautiful womanhood can be known only to those possessing the unlimited advantages of health. No weak woman can be happy or enjoy half the pleasures of life. Pallid cheeks, sunken eyes, exhausted herves, aft tell of a terrible struggle to keep up. What the weak woman needs is Ferrozone; the weak woman needs is Ferrozone; it renews, restores and vitalizes instantly—it's a "woman's remedy,"—that's why.

Ferrozone makes women strong, plump and healthful because it contains lots of nutriment, the kind that tains lots of nutriment, the kind that forms muscle, sinew, bone and nerve Vitalizing blood courses through the body, making delightful color, happy spirits, true womanly strength. Fifty cents buys a box of Ferrozone in any drug store.

DON QUIXOTE.

The Philosophy of Sancho Panza and the Fame of Cervantes.

The enormous number of proverbial sayings in "Quixote" had much to do with the success of the book, especially in England and France, at a time when ite literary form, and, quite apart from the inexhaustible fund of humorous ac tion contained in the work, Sancho's sententious dicta made the noval as a collection of proverbs alone worth preservation As in the case of so many of Shake-

Panza's saying have become so much a part of our common speech as to sound almost trite when we stumble across them on the printed page. "Diligence is the mother of success" seems obvious is the mother of success' enough, but the man who first enshrin ed it in speech was a genius. "He whom God helps is better off than the man who gets up early" is a bit of worldly experience that comes home even now to many a doubter as to whether we "get our deserts," while Cromwell's "Trust God and keep your powder dry" was anticipated by San-cho's "Pray to God, but hammer away." Another shrewd piece of ebservation from the same source might save many a tradesman from loss to this day, "He who does not mean to pay does not haggle about price," and the homely scrap of philosophy in which Sancho warns the world against stretching out the leg farther than the sheet that covers it is as necessary and pertinent now as it ever was .-- London Chronicle.

A House Moving Feat. A two story brick house, weighing over 200 tons, was successfully moved from Sharpsburg, Pa., to Allegheny, distance of nearly four miles. Most of distance of nearly four miles. Most of the work was done on the water, a huge coal barge being employed for the pur-pose. The house had to pass under four low bridges, and it was necessary at each bridge to scuttle the barge so that it would sink some feet. After each experience of this kind the water was pumped out.

ORIENTAL JEWELRY.

PERSONAL ORNAMENTS MIXED WITH ODD SUPERSTITIONS

Necklaces That Avert the Evil Eye and Beads That Are Potent Charms For Felicity-Legend of the Kash

The oriental's love of luxury, splendor of attire and personal adornment acts as a strong incentive to the eastern jeweler in the production of these ex quisitely carved and multicolored crea-tions over which the modern world raves and marvels. Nor are such deco rations mere ornaments without other use or meaning.

The oriental jeweler, seated upon the floor of his little shop, inhaling the fragrant odors of his pipe and coffee, con ceives his design and jealously envel ops it with mysticism, adding to it the uaint charm of symbol and superstion. The bracelet, the carrings, the necklace, the clasp, the buckle and the button grow step by step into a special ornament according to the rank means, tastes and wants of the wearer, an evidence of class and dignity.

Bracelets are by orientals worn in pairs. Each hand is provided with one, as otherwise jealousy will spring up between the manual members and evil deeds will follow. Earrings are popular among both sexes in certain parts of the orient. The ears are pierced at birth. The perforations are made unnecessarily large so as not to permit a residue of gossip. Then ornaments are offered the ears as consolation. Neck-laces are worn most conspicuously to avert the evil eye and to denote dignity and distinction. Festoon neck-laces seem to have been in vogue from time immemorial, and not infrequently do they adorn the whole chest of the wearer. In India the men often bor row their wives' necklaces to decorate themselves with. Masculine vanity of certain sects of the Persians far exceeds that of women, and, aside from wearing earrings and necklaces, they almost monopolize the tiny seed pearls by stringing them in their beards, each

Beads are among the earliest forms of ornaments and are considered po-tent charms for felicity, as these are often cut and sold by priests or sheiks, who maintain themselves solely by this means. The pear shaped drop so much in vogue in Europe and America is of decidedly oriental origin and has attached to it a quaint myth. The Kaa-ba stone in Mecca has this peculiar shape, and, according to the theory of the Mohammedans, this stone was the actual guardian angel who was sent to watch over Adam in Eden and was present at his fall. As a punishment for not having more vigilantly executed his trust the angel was changed into a stone and hurled from paradise, Most Mohammedans wear pearl shaped pendants made of wood or some pre-cious stone as a reminder of Allah's wrath, and these are held among the in the same esteem as is the cross among the Christians. Armlets are regarded as caste marks and are worn only by women. Anklets have a healing power and so are worn not as ornaments only. Little tinkling bells are often attached to these, which lend a pleasing sound to an approach ing step and serve to denote the su periority and rank of the wearer and thus in passing render due homage. An Arabian poet describes these as "the awakeners of dormant senses

Rings are worn in great profusion and are made of all sorts of metals. However, they invariably have ex-quisitely carved or openwork shanks. Even the stones have their symbols and are worn accordingly. In the orient no prejudice exists against Signet rings were of great importance among the earlier orientals, and even to the present day letters are rarely otherwise signed by those who send Thus the authenticity of all and communications, even merchants' bills, depends wholly upon an impression of a signet ring. The occupation of the seal cutter is regarded 4s one of great trust and danger. Such a person is obliged to keep a register of every ring seal he makes, and if one be lost or stolen from the party for whom it was cut his life would for whom it was cut his life would answer for making another just like it. The loss of a signet ring is regarded as a disastrous calamity, and the alarm which an oriental exhibits at the loss of the signet can only be understood by a reference to these circumstances, as the seal cutter is always obliged to alter the real date at which the seal was cut. The only resource of a per-son who has lost his seal is to have another made with new date and to write to his correspondents to inform them that all accounts, contracts and communications to which his former signet is affixed are null from the day on which it was lost.

While looking over the Burdock Blood Bitters Almanac, I read about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and decided to give it a trial. When I had used about half a bottle, I found it was doing me good, so kept on until I had taken two bottles. It is the best cure for a cold I ever heard of."
