DUBLIN.

Mr. Sharman Crawford, in a letter to the Times on the land agitation in Ireland, urges that as sedition is the outcome of the condition of Ireland, the relation of landlord and tenant there becomes emphatically an Imperial question, and until the Irish tenant is secured by law against the chance of capricious eviction, or the alternative of paying an unfair rent, no permanent settlement of that question is practicable: On Sept. 11th, a shocking accident oc-curred on the Great Southern and West-curred on the Great Southern and Western Railway between the Northwall and Kingsbridge terminus, Dublin, by which two laborers in the employment of the company, named Patrick Clarke, aged 50, residing at 10 Kennedy's Cottages, Jame's street, and Anthony Hogan, aged 35, residing at the same place, lost their lives. They, it appears, were returning from their dinner through the tunnel which passes under the Phænix Park, and were proceeding to their work at Blackhorse lane, where they had been employed, when a goods train coming from the Northwall in the direction of Kingsbridge suddenly overtook them. suddenly overtook them.

An inquest was field by the Dubin city coroner, on September 15th, at 96 Upper Dorset street on the body of Mrs. Anna Maria Graham. The evidence showed that the deceased accidentally set fire to her bed, and was found dead in her bed, evidently from suffocation.

WEXFORD.

A cruel outrage took place at Old Ross, on September 13th, upon the farm of a man named Poole. A horse was found nearly dead which had been terribly cut and houghed. The cause is alleged to be Poole's refusal to sign a petition to Lord Carew for a reduction of rent.

KILDARE.

On Sept. 15th, a farmer named Edward Cholmney was accidentally killed on the railway crossing near his residence at Derryoughta, midway between Athy and Kildare.

His agent, Mr. Dougell, was present on the occasion, as were also the Sub-Sheriff, the rent-warner, and a number of bailiffs. One of the farmers evicted, named McInteggart, held about 59 acres of land which had been in the family generation after genera-tion for the last 120 years. In or about the year 1760, the foundation-stone was laid of the house from which he was evicted. His rent raised in 1874 from £60 12s. to £81 10s., the valuation being He offered Lord Gormanstown hi old rent, which was refused.

CORK.

The sheriff's officer, accompanied by a posse of police from the Kanturk constabulary station, proceeded to the lands of Banmore, near Freemount, on Sept. 10th, for the purpose of evicting from his holding a man named Daniel Cussen, on the property of Captain Leonard Leader, Ashgrove. The house occupied by Cussen was thrown down by the bailiffs, and he and his family put on the roadside. The and his family put on the roadside. The liveliest sympathy was evinced by a large crowd that assembled on the scene. On the night of September 12th, several winds of hay, the property of the man Hayes, living near Lismore, who, it is alleged, immediately went into the possession of the farm of Cussen, were thrown, scattered, and entirely destroyed. The occurrence has created quite a sensation in this district. The scene of the wreck was visited by Sub-Inspector Kerrin directly been obtained as to who the perpetrators

On Sept. 15th, some Cork bailiffs, accompanied by bailiffs from Fermony, called at the police barrack at the latter place, and claimed a constabulary escort to protect them in distraining for rent on the farm of Jeremiah Maye, of Garryrose, Britway. The Government short-hand writer, J. Stringer, was in attendance, but was not accommodated on the platform. A resolution was passed deprecating the condition of agricultural laborers, and affirming the necessity of legislation for their amelioration. A reolution was also adopted establishing a branch of the Land League.

Notices have been posted on the property of Mr. Wilson, J. P., Rattoo, Tralee, threatening to any of his tenants who pay rent. Several farmers in the neighborhood have also been threatened with death if they continue to lend their horses and carts, for hire, to convey the constabulary to evictions.

KERRY.

On Sept. 11th, near Causeway, about twelve miles from Tralee, Mr. C. W. On Sunday, September 12th, pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Ennis to a resolution adopted by the Ennis branch of the Clare Land League, a special meeting was held at Kilkishen, for the purpose of denouncing the action of a man in taking, contrary to the rule of the association, a farm which had been surrendered on the ground of excessive rent. Several bands also put in an appearance. About forty constables were on duty in the vicinity. Speeches were delivered, and a resolution passed condemnatory of any person taking a farm surrendered through excessive rack rents. The party in question was censured in strong terms as an enemy of his country, and deserving of the stern condemnation of all who had the welfare of the tenant-farmers at heart.

WATERFORD.

The increasing departure of natives of North Munster for several weeks past for the United States has diminished, but on September 10th the exodus turned in favor of Australia. Over 150 emigrants on the latter day left for the "Fifth Con-tinent," via Waterford. All of them seemed in comfortable circumstances, judging from their dress, and the immense store of luggage they took with GALWAY.

On Sept. 13th, some shopkeepers of the twn of Clifden visited the district of Errismore, for the purpose of serving legal notices on some persons who owed them money. The matter had no reference to land or rent, but related merely to shop goods. A large party, however, were assembled to meet them at Errismore. They made a most violent and savage attack upon a process-server named Dominick McArcy, who accompanied the party. The man sustained panied the party. The man sustained three severe fractures of the skull by blows inflicted from large stones, besides having been knocked down repeatedly, kicked and beaten. On Sept. 27th, a sheriff's bailiff, named

Rodgers, accompanied by a shopkeeper of Claremorris, proceeded to the village of Lagatample, and seized a quantity of oats, the property of a man named Cullinane, against whom the shopkeeper had a decree since the June sessions for goods. They soon came up with the shopkeeper, and, after giving him a sound thrashing, made him pledge himself never again to seize any harvest. A large number of men witnessed the proceedings.

MAYO.

On the morning of September 11th, the inhabitants of the lower part of the town Belmullet, were started by the noise of fallen mortar, the creaking of timbers and a trembling of the earth, which violently shook the houses, and put every article of furniture in motion. every article of furniture in motion. This was followed by several heavy upheavings of the earth, and it seemed, when the earth lifted itself up and settled down again, as if the walls of the houses would crumble to pieces. one of the missionaries, the representative of the Protestant Aid Society, entered in to conversation with a group of English speaking immigrants, and began to discuss the subject of polygamy. He questioned them as to who was the authority for polygamous marriage. A stalwart English man replied:
"Almighty God."

By this time one of the Mormon elders.

By this time one of the Mormon elders discovered what was going on, and rushing into the group he seized the missionary by the arm and shoved him aside. He forbade the missionary to talk to the people. This action attracted a crowd, and the officers of the Garden told the elder that the missionary was catified to talk to the impropresses and entitled to talk to the immigrants, and informed the missionary that he could not talk to the immigrants if he attracted a crowd or they objected to listen to him.
