exports of corn or of wheat, including flour.

Exports of packing-house products, a third leading group, have increased much more rapidly in the last half century than cotton or cereals. The average value of packing house products exported in 1851-1855 was 10 million dollars a year, and in 1901-1905 it was 183 million dollars, while in 1908 the value was 196 million dollars. The principal items of this group are pork, lard, beef, and oleo oil. As in the case of grain, the greatest exports of lard and pork were in the five-year period, 1896-1900. The exports of lard have increased nearly 8 times as fast as the population of the United States. The average per capita in 1851-1855 was 1.2 pounds a year, while fifty years later in 1901-1905, the average reached 8.6 pounds per capita. Another great increase occurred in per capita exports of pork. The average for 1866-1870 was 1.8 pounds per capita; in 1876-1880 13.6 pounds per capita; and in 1901-1905, 8.4 pounds per capita.

The largest exports of beef and oleo oil (those in 1901-1905) amounted to 408 million pounds a year for beef and 146 million pounds for oleo oil. Since 1905 there has been a marked decline in exports of beef, the average for 1906-1908 being only 349 million pounds a year, or less than for any five-year period since 1886-1890. On the other hand the average exports of oleo oil during the three years ending with 1908 exceeded the average for 1901-1905 by nearly 60 million pounds.

Tobacco, which a century ago was among the most important of our exports, still holds a prominent place. Exports of unmanufactured tobacco have averaged since 1891-1895 more than 300 million pounds a year, with an average yearly valuation of about 30 million dollars. The per capita exports of this product declined from 5.3 pounds in 1851-1855 to 4.1 pounds in 1901-1905, while during 1906-1908 the average was less than 4 pounds.

Exports of fruits increased from $71,000 in 1851 to $20,000,000 in 1904, and subsequently they ranged from $14,000,000 to $17,000,000.

Exports of hops have been irregular. In 1851, 110,000 pounds were exported; in 1855, 4,023,000; in 1860, 273,000; in 1861, 8,836,000; in 1870, 16,356,000; in 1887, 261,000; and, beginning with 1888, amounts ranging from 7,000,000 to 23,000,000 pounds.

Exports of vegetables, which were considerably less than $1,000,000 in the years prior to 1864, ranged from $1,000,000 to $2,400,000 in the years subsequent to 1895.
