Does Your FOOD Digest Well

When the food is imperfectly digested the full benefit is not derived from it by the body and the purpose of eating is defeated; no matter how good the food or how carefully adapted to the wants of the body it may be. Thus the dyspeptic often becomes thin, weak and debilitated, energy is lacking, brightness, snap and vim are lost, and in their place come duliness, lost appetite, depression and langour. It takes no great knowledge to know when one has indigestion, some of the following sympoms generally exist, viz.: constipation, sour stomach, variable appetite, headache, heartburn, gas in the stomach, etc.

St. Moise, April 30th

Having spent last Sunday at Salmon Lake and not having much to take up my attention I was somewhat surprised to see the number of trains that passed there. From 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. I counted 8 special stand were not carrying any live freight six of them were going north, the first one passing Salmon Lake 2 minutes past 10 o'clock a. m. This goes to palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor ever discovered to act directly upon the either come through or left Campbell ton Sunday morning and at intervals generative organs, positively curin during the whole day. The question disease and restoring health and vigor arises in my mind—What has the Sunday law done? It brings to my mind the fact that we have a class of people that will turn the world upside down to have laws enacted and after they have them won't move one of their fingers to have them in force. I must say I am not much of a believer in is due. force You can force a man to do what is right still I don't say he is any nearer the King of Heaven. 4 signed nocent. If it is to be broken with impunity much the better we never had it. We are simply teaching our people to be law-breakers. I believe there such as carrying live stock or where men are on their way home when Sundan overtakes them, or the running of the maritime express as it is today but I can't see any good reason why men should go or be compelled to go out from there homes on Sunday with loaded freight trains. The question arises-Can railroads be run without so much Sunday work. We certainly think they can. It not, then, the less railways we have the better, or if prosperity is not such as makes us hetter in everyway, the less we have of it the better. Now Sir there are just two classes to blame for this unnecessary runring of trains. They are the men that go out and those that ask them to do so and perhaps the public that look on and say nothing are as much to blame as anyone. I think it a most shocking thing that men will leave their homes to run freight trains on Sunday. The fact is trainmen are so highly paid that it becomes a temptation to them to go out and earn or at least get this big money. Perhaps some will snuff at this charge but let us take the pay out of the thing and see how many would go out, and if they would not go out what then?
