First Session of the Conference on Ireland.

Ontario Battleground of Canadian Elections--Elimination Races on To-day--Five Schooners Enter--Cavalry an Essential Arm of the Service.

CAVALRY ESSENTIAL. Speaking at the unveiling of the memorial to fallen Kentish men at Canterbury, Field Marshal Earl Haig of Bemersyde, sharply criticized the proposed disarmament of four Cavalry Regiments, expressing the opinion that such a step was not justified by the lessons of war. Earl Haig said that without mounted men to throw the action southwest of Amiens, on March 27th and 28th, 1918, the result might have been disastrous for the allies. The war has taught emphatically, he said, that cavalry was an essential arm of the service, and could not be replaced by tanks, aeroplanes or heavy guns.

CANADA'S THREE PARTY FIGHT. OTTAWA, Oct. 11. Ontario will be the central battleground of the whole election campaign. Organizers of the three main parties, Government, Liberal and Progressives, agree that it is on the right for the 82 seats of Ontario that success or defeat will chiefly lie, and as day by day reports of nomination conventions come to hand, this fact becomes increasingly evident. The Government and Liberal Opposition are prepared, with the exception of a few seats perhaps to divide the Maritime Provinces. In these three Provinces only four Progressive candidates have so far been officially selected. In Quebec a heavy Liberal majority is conceded. There is but one Progressive chosen. On the prairies the situation completely changes. Although the nominating conventions are but just getting underway, it is obvious that the fight will lie between the Government and Progressives. The Progressives claim that they will win in Ontario almost a solid vote. Over the Rockies the situation changes again. There the Liberals again form the chief opposition to the Government. In British Columbia there have been eight Government candidates selected, four Liberals and only one Progressive. Thus Ontario, with its heavy representation in the House of Commons, and the present uncertainty of its political faith, holds the key. Of all the Provinces it is already the most prolific in selected candidates. Three cornered fights will be common unless indicated candidates drop heavily out of the running before nomination day.

U.S. ELIMINATION RACES. GLOUCESTER, Oct. 11. Fisheries were forgotten in this fishing port today, and the talk was all of to-morrow's ocean race of the schooners for the championship of the New England fleet and the right to represent it at the forthcoming international series at Halifax. Five vessels will seek the honor. Any of them, it was agreed, would do the American fisheries justice. But the interest lay chiefly in the largest of the lot with the best record for runs to the Banks and back, in command to-morrow of Marty Welch, who was skipper of the Esperanto when she won the International Championship last year. "We want a whole sail breeze to show her at her best," Captain Welch said to-day. The Elsie relies exclusively on sail. Other contenders are auxiliary vessels from which the propellers have been stripped or the engines removed, and are considered a representative group, both as to vessels and men. The race will be without handicap or time allowance. There are wide differences between the vessels, however, as shown by the following descriptions:—

Schr. Arthur James, J. J. Matheson, 135 tons, 103.4 length, 24.8 breadth, 10.6 depth, 16 years old. Schr. Elsie G. Silvia, Manuel Silvia, 106 tons, 101.7 length, 23.8 breadth, 10.3 depth, 6 years old. Schr. Ralph Brown, Alvaro Quadrado, 199 tons, 96.4 length, 23.3 breadth, 11.6 depth, 7 years old. Schr. Philip P. Manta, Ben Pina, 71 tons, 81 length, 22.3 breadth, 9.9 depth, 19 years old. Schr. Elsie, Marty Welch, 137 tons, 106.5 length, 25 breadth, 11.3 depth, 11.1 years old.

All vessels racing will carry the maximum crew allowed, 25 men, all bona fide fishermen. The start over the forty mile course will be made at 10 o'clock with the direction depending upon weather conditions.

WHERE THE LAW IS ENFORCED. ST. JOHN, Oct. 11. Incomplete returns from yesterday's plebiscite on the importation of liquor into New Brunswick for personal use gives again 46,000, for 17,000.

GIANTS AND YANKEES TIE. NEW YORK, Oct. 11. Facing the issue with the Yankees by powerful work with the stick, the Giants evaded the world series count to-day by taking the sixth game by a score of 8 to 5. Each club now has won three games, and the battle bids fair to go the limit of nine encounters. Three men with "Babe" Ruth out of the game with an abraded arm, clouded home runs. They were Emil Meusel and Frank Snyder of the Giants, and Chief Fawcett, Ruth's substitute. Fawcett lifted the ball into the left field bleachers with a man aboard in the Yankee's second inning, putting his club on the happy side of the two run margin, after the home runs of Meusel and Snyder had cancelled the three-run advantage the American leaguers had acquired in the first inning. The game ultimately went to the Giants through a hand-erous descent upon pitcher Bob Shawkey in the fourth inning, which netted four runs. The Giants netted an additional tally in the sixth. The batteries were, Giants, Toney, (removed first inning), Barnes and Snyder; Yankees, Harper, (removed second inning), Shawkey and Schang.

THE LONDON CONFERENCE. LONDON, Oct. 11. The Conference of representatives of the British Government and the Sinn Fein, called for the purpose of endeavouring to find a solution for the Irish problem, met at eleven o'clock this morning in the Cabinet Room at 10 Downing Street. After a session lasting until 1 p.m., the Conference was adjourned until later in the afternoon. A communiqué, issued after adjournment was taken, merely said that the first session of the "Conference on Ireland" was held at eleven o'clock. It gave the names of those present and concluded by saying the Conference was adjourned until four o'clock this afternoon. One of the Secretaries who received newspaper men said, "You cannot expect any news for weeks yet."

GIRLS! GROW THICK LONG, HEAVY HAIR WITH "DANDERINE"

Buy a 35-cent bottle of "Danderine". One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and, in a few moments, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous, and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. "Danderine" is the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

Success Nuggets.

Luck never comes to a shirker—it always goes to the worker. The present hour is the decisive hour, and every day is doomsday. It is the man who persists in seeing his ideal, who ignores obstacles, absolutely refuses to see failure, who clings to his confidence in victory, that wins out. Genius has a twin brother by the name of Perseverance. Success is not measured by what a man accomplishes but by the opposition he has encountered and the courage with which he has maintained the struggle against overwhelming odds. Don't waste any time laboring the cause of all your troubles—you're the trouble. Many men fail because they do not see the importance of being kind and courteous to the men under them. Fall on the car, and not on your friends. Nature does not say, "You must not," but she says, "If you do, you must pay the price, for I cannot make it less." Nature does not argue. The way to be happy is to take what you get and do what you can with it.

Venizelos the Valiant.

A STRANGE GREEK LEGEND. Of recent years no event in international politics has so completely surprised the people of this country as the crushing defeat of M. Venizelos in the Greek elections of November last. Of all the great civilians in the war, the reputation of this national hero, this saviour of his country, seemed the most secure. Mr. S. B. Chester, in his most interesting life of the great statesman ends his book with a brief reference to the eclipse of his hero, and makes no attempt at an explanation beyond citing the result of the election as an instance of the blindness of an electorate in the presence of great issues.

A Legend. The career of M. Venizelos is a wonderful story of triumph in the face of terrific odds. Mr. Chester rightly says that no European political leader has had to overcome such obstacles as he set his path. Concerning his birth there is a romantic story. He was born on August 23, 1864, in Crete, at Mouries, a suburb of Chania.

There is a legend that, shortly before his birth, his mother went to the Monastery of the Virgin, near Chania, to pray for a son, promising the Madonna that the child should be born in a cat-bed, after the manner of Christ. The good woman, who is said to have lost her three previous children, duly fulfilled her vow. The legend goes a little beyond the birth of Venizelos, for we learn that when the infant was christened the Abbot of the Monastery of the Virgin, uttering prophetic words, "I baptize thee Eleutherios," he is reputed to have said, "for thou shalt deliver our long-suffering island from the tyranny of the Turks."

Another version of the story connected with his birth was once given by Venizelos himself at a luncheon party in London. He said that his parents, to ward off the fate which had overtaken their other children, were induced to follow a local custom and adopt him as a founding. It was believed by the superstitious that the child would only survive if treated in this fashion. Eleutherios was duly taken away from his mother and deposited, comforted by a heap of dry leaves outside his father's house. Passing by soon afterwards, some friends of the family, who were in the secret, discovered the child, brought him to his parents, and urged that he should be adopted as a founding. Eleutherios survived and prospered.

Clemenceau's Prophecy. More than twenty years ago Venizelos made a great impression on M. Clemenceau. Asked for his impression of Greece, the French statesman replied that his most interesting discovery in Crete—much more interesting than the excavations—was a young advocate named M. Venizelos. "The whole of Europe will be speaking of him in a few years."

Venizelos's rise to power before the war is a story too long to tell here. What he did in the war is familiar to us all.

Don't Fear Disease.

Be of good cheer and you'll never be queer! You need never fear disease! This don't mean that you shouldn't do all in your power to keep healthy. Far from it. But don't study the awful possibilities of the human body unless you want to become a doctor. Even if you should break down—we all do at times—keep a good heart. For if you put yourself at once in the hands of your doctor you will be again well in a very short time. It is not disease doctors dread—it is the patient's fear of his disease. Nature has supplied you with vast armies of stout little fellows to fight your every ailment. These germs guard all your gates; but a force much more powerful to fight disease is your own cheerfulness. Remember that while you're happy you're strong; however weak you may think you are. Fear weakens you physically and morally. It breaks down your natural forces of resistance. Fear Makes People Despair. It does you no harm at all to have
