Woman Suffrage.

MEETING AT HARBOR GRACE.

A deputation from the Newfoundland Women's Suffrage League arrived here from St. John's on Tuesday afternoon last says the Harbor Grace Standard of Friday last, August 11th, to lay before the citizens here the fairness and wisdom of the women of Newfoundland obtaining the power to vote, a right already possessed by the women of the Motherland, Canada, the United States, New Zealand and many other countries. The deputation arrived here at 3:40 p.m. in two motor-cars having left St. John's in the early forenoon. The members were, Mesdames Allan Fraser, Charles Hutton, Vincent Burke, Hector McNeil, Eric Ayre and Misses Southcott, McNeil, Crocker and Kennedy. They proceeded immediately to the Town Hall, the place of meeting. The attendance was perhaps the weak being Regatta week, to the hour being one of work-a-day operations in homes and factories, and of preparation for the forthcoming yearly picnic, was doubtless much smaller than it otherwise would have been. The chair was, on request, taken by Mrs. Higgitt who most pleasingly introduced the different speakers in turn. The addresses were interesting and the subjects, such as Child Welfare, the Reformation of Youth, Education, Nursing, were ably handled, and the point made that, if only the female half of the country were given the same right to deal with these and other matters affecting the good of the home and the general good of women that the male half possess, there would be wonderful progress made in these affairs.

At the close a hearty vote of thanks proposed by the ladies of the delegation, was unanimously given Mrs. Higgitt for so admirably filling the chair, and to Judge Oke for placing the hall at their disposal for the meeting, and a third equally hearty and unanimous vote was accorded the delegation by all present. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem. After partaking of refreshments at a Woodbine Cottage, the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Munn, the visitors proceeded to Carbonara, where, we understand, a very successful meeting was held.

Fashions and Fads.

Flat black braids spells chic in pleasing terms on a combination frock of white negogues and black garbardine. A black rubber coat trimmed with black and white checked trimming makes a rainy day an occasion for smartness.

The newest sporting fad is to wear a bandeau of knitted silk in Roman stripes to match stripes of sweater coat.

Two combinations of materials noted in Paris are black Chantilly lace with silver cloth and black chiffon with a white lace.

A party frock features the circular skirt differently. It is developed in

VEGETARIAN.

Our doctor is a wise old lad, and oft he says to me, "The whole blam'd world is feeling bad, as sickly as can be, because the people are gailots who seem to want disease; they will not live upon the fruits that grow upon the trees. The wholesome turnip they traduce, they shy at beets and prunes; they will not look on onion juice, or pour it in with spoons. They all must have their roast steaks, and victuals fried in grease; and so their forms are filled with aches, which aches destroy their peace. You've eaten many cows, my friends," the good old doc declares, "and pigs and chickens without end, and geese and Belgian hares. And now your bones are full of lime, you are a wreck, no doubt, and you are groaning half the time with rheumatism and gout. If you had eaten pears and plums and rice and lemon peel, you would not have scorbatic fumes, or anthrax in your heel. Right gladly would I now explain the evil of your way, but I must go and see Bill Blaine, who has the cramps to-day. He ate too many apricots, the contents of a can, and now a hot-bellied spasm trots around his inner man."

A very smart suit of marleen with black fox collar and cuffs shows that the vogue for the one-sided treatment is good for the back as well as the front of the garment. Two large soft tucks run down the right side of back of coat, and smaller tucks mark the bottom line of both sleeves and coat.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

The B.I.S. lacked combination and one thing necessary in future games is to corner each man opposing, for they entirely neglected the right wing last night.

Tobin, Higgins, O'Mara are good in the front line. Connolly and Crotty might have done better. Halley at back is sure, but goalkeeper Brown should show a little more sprightliness and not allow the ball to roll through between his legs.

Woodley in goal for C.E.L. saved well on two occasions, and will yet make his mark. Pilot and Hayward are invulnerable backs, but the half-back division requires attention. The forwards know their work, and Ed. Reid has lost nothing for his training in the Old Country, whilst Ralph a series of long panels that are cut in a wide circle.

Over a black skirt is worked a separate jacket of blue, and the costume is completed by a black felt hat feather trimmed in blue.

A long, straight tailleur in arabella has applied motifs of embroidered self material placed below waistline at either side-back.

Evening gowns appear in pastel tints of blue, pink, orchid, or white, and prove that tulle and chiffon are the preferred materials.

A huge enamel buckle is placed at the low waistline of a crepe frock so that it catches the cascade drape that falls below the hem.

A suit-coat of unusual design shows all-over treatment in tinsel, with a short skirt section of moles, and it is girdled with a metal chain.

There is a strong tendency toward the metal effects in evening gowns, many models showing sheath under-dresses of metal cloth veiled in sheer silk.

A great many children are wearing dresses of solid color with bloomers to match, the frocks being trimmed with white ruffles plucked in black.

Charming lingerie sets are made of pastel tinted hankiechiefs, with drawn threads of contrasting color or tiny embroidered flowers as decoration.

A highly interesting coat of crepe marocain is featured in an Egyptian pattern in red, green and gold beads finished with a long fringe of the beads.

MT. EVEREST.

They have not climbed Mt. Everest. Though man have done their level best. They have not reached the snow-capped crest. But still, Success shall follow failure's trails; They have not reached his high domain. But do not think the dream is vain— They will.

"Too high his lofty brow is hung, Too many dangers there are hung To mock the brave and fright the young. They cry, "Impossible!" the doubters say, "A thousand pitfalls bar the way, Men may attempt his peak, but they will die."

One was the far-off northern pole Called an unconquerable goal. But Peary—that intrepid soul— Held fast. And though a thousand men had tried And many a sturdy heart had died, "The pole is reached," the cables cried. "At last!"

Unconquered stands Mt. Everest. Untouched by human foot his crest. But he shall fall with all the rest. In time. Though now he rules in silence there, With men his glory he shall share, For one shall find the way and dare To climb.

This loftiest of mountain kings Shall be another of the things The future with her progress brings. To man. And those who say "It can't be done!" Shall some day see the summit won And end by bravely keeping on. It can.
