

FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped
By Common Sense
Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ill are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never been broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.

PROPOSED BRIDGE GETS A SET BACK

U. S. War Department Desire Information as to Any Objections to Erected

Bangor, Me., March 24.—Hon. Oscar F. Fellows, of this city counsel for the United States before the International St. John River Commission, has received instructions from the war department of the United States to ascertain whether or not there are any objections known or to be advanced by the commission why the proposed international bridge connecting Van Buren (Me.) with St. Leonards (N. B.) should not be erected.

The Van Buren Bridge Co., which is to construct the bridge, was incorporated under an act of the Maine legislature passed this winter. Congress has passed a bill authorizing the bill and the necessary legislation in the province of New Brunswick was procured some time ago. Those who are interested in the proposition are at a loss to see the aim of the war department at present, as everything in relation to the bridge seemed settled and steps were being taken for the organization of the company.

Mr. Fellows, in his capacity as counsel for the government, has notified the members of the commission and has asked that a hearing be held on the matter at the earliest possible time, as the department is anxious to have a report. It is understood that the commission will hold this hearing at Van Buren, where the bridge is to be located, and that it will be held some time this week. No definite word has yet been received from the Canadian members of the commission.

It is thought among some business people that this looks as if some other railway were trying to hold up the matter but nothing can be learned here on that head.

"MAK' IT PILLS"

How a Shrewd Doctor Knew His Patient Was a Miser

Curious habits of the Aberdeen miser, George Anderson, were described in the Court of Session, Edinburgh, during the hearing of the action by his brother to have the old man's will reduced. A witness said the room in which Anderson lived was very dirty, and she would not have put a dog in the bed. He had a pair of blankets, but they were like coal-bags. When he left his belongings were put in half a dozen sacks, which appeared to contain rubbish, and the room had to be disinfected. According to a neighbor Anderson said he had not much money and he did not know how long he would live. He used to collect cigarette and cigar ends and all sorts of rubbish. He would bring home skins, bones, and potato parings from ash buckets, and when asked what he was going to do with them he said they made grand "tattle soup." With crusts of bread gathered in the same way he made "breadberry," but used buttermilk instead of sweet milk. A cat or dog would not have looked at the crusts he ate. For the defence evidence was given that Anderson had nothing mentally abnormal about him, and that he was shrewd and intelligent in regard to business affairs and investments. His doctor thought Anderson was a sane man. He had an eccentricity: he had a great deal to say about himself; but there were "plenty of other men like that." Anderson, it was stated, had the air of a country-bred man who had been a servant in a good family. But he was a miser of a man. The doctor knew that because when he said to him, "Well, Mr. Anderson, I'll give you a mixture," Anderson would reply, "You couldn't mak' it pills?" The reason for the question was that the pills might cost a penny and the mixture would cost a shilling.

WORLD'S BAL- LOON RECORD

Rene Rumpelmayer Travels Distance of 1,492 Miles

Paris, March 24.—A new world's record for distance in a spherical balloon has been made by Rene Rumpelmayer, who has just completed a successful flight from Paris to a point near Kharkov, European Russia. The distance travelled was 2,400 kilometres, approximately 1,492 miles.

Rumpelmayer accompanied Maurice Renne, pilot of the balloon Picardio, which won the James Gordon Bennett trophy in the International balloon race in 1912. The Picardio on that occasion established a world's record of approximately 1,361 miles.

A FIGHTER IN AFRICA

Brigadier-General Sir W. H. Manning has had a remarkable career. There is probably no one alive who has seen more fighting in tropical Africa than he. Sir William is a short man, spare of figure and with light grey-blue eyes. He is in appearance—as he has proved to be in fact—an ideal commander of native troops. Before he was married Sir William upon one occasion, when questioned why he remained a bachelor, gave as his reason that he could never find a lady who could bring herself to like his town house. "Why what is the matter with it?" asked his questioner. "Nothing whatever, I assure you," he replied, "only, you see, it happens to be situated in the heart of Africa."

Why He Was Late

"What made you so late?"
"I met Smithson."
"Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper."
"I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble."
"Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?"
"Sure, that is what he needs." Sold by all dealers.

Washington, April 2.—Progressive party measures to carry out the 32 pledges in the national reform are to be introduced in both houses in the sixty-third Congress probably by Representative Murdock of Kansas, and Senator Poin-dexter of Washington. They include free use of the Panama Canal by coastwise traffic. Repeal of the Canadian reciprocity act.

TWO GIRL OPERATORS TOLD FLOOD NEWS

Stood to their posts at Dayton and Foneton as long as wires held

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 25.—It remained for two girls to be the real factors in giving to the world the news of the first day of the flood. Both are operators, but in different lines. One, a telephone operator in the main exchange at Dayton, flashed the last tidings that came out of the stricken city by telephone early today, as well as having delivered the news to Governor Cox, which enabled the Executive to grasp the situation and start the rescue work.

The other is the telegraph operator at Foneton, eight miles north of Dayton, who served as a relay operator for the girl in Dayton. Both stood at their posts as long as the wires held, and the woman at Foneton, Mrs. Rena White Eaken, worked all during the day and night.

INTERNATIONAL RAILWAY BOOMING

Mr. Thomas Malcolm, manager of the International Railway was in St. John at the beginning of the week.

While there Mr. Malcolm was interviewed and stated to a press representative that the International has done big business during the year, and has had a successful season. The traffic both in freight and passengers has been very heavy, and it has been found necessary to add to the rolling stock of the line to cope with the business. The traffic between the intercolonial side of the province and from the St. Leonard's side has been heavy; the rapidity with which the country along the line of the railway is developing is increasing the passenger traffic, and a busy season is looked for when the work of getting out the lumber cut is begun.

OVERWORKED DOCTOR

Widow Says Insurance Act Killed Him

The widow of Dr. Tuckett, of East Ham, who had a fatal apoplectic seizure in the street, declared at the inquest that he had been killed through overwork caused by the insurance act.
"Just before he went out," she stated, "he said he had had just enough of it, and it would be the death of him. We have been up till a quarter to two each morning on books. He loved his home, but his patients came first. If it goes on, it will be the death of all the doctors."
The Coroner: "We are all very sorry for you."

CROSSES FOR SERVANTS

German Empress's Rewards for Long Service

The German Empress has embarked enthusiastically on the encouragement of long and faithful service by cooks, housemaids and children's nurses. She has distributed nearly two hundred gold crosses to servants who have been in the same family over forty years. Accompanying the gold cross is an illuminated document, which ends up with the quotation, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant!" A pathetic story is told of an old nurse in Silesia who served in one family 38 years and brought up two generations of children. The nurse had been hoping that she would serve long enough to earn the gold cross. When two years short of the necessary term she got ill and was expected to die. She wrote to the Empress telling her story, and saying that the one disappointment in her life was that she could not earn the cross. Three days later she died. On the morning of her funeral a letter came from the Empress sending the cross.
