SIR JOHN AND SIR HECTOR

FOURTH YEAR.

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION OVER

officer that date all the large contracts were taken at the usual rates. Under the circumstances, we have decided as a body, the considering of Sir John Macdonald's land bill. Mr. Ohaston made an attack on the system of granting Northwest lands to speculators, and argued that the best interests of the country demanded that the land should only be sold to actual settlers. He insinuated that the government had encouraged the getting up of colonization companies previous to the last election for party purposes, and had granted large and valuable coal areas and timber limies with a corrupt object in view. He concluded by moving that the bill be recommitted for the offect that no land should be granted to sup but bons fide settlers, and only in such quantity as they could reasonably be expected to callivate.

During his remarks Mr. Charlton referred to Sir John Macdonald as one "well stricken in years." This seemed to have the effect of spurring the premier up to show that all. restion was again fully discussed in the

During his remarks Mr. Charlton referred to Sir John Macdonald as one "well stricken in years." This seemed to have the effect of spurring the premier up to show that although not so young as he used to be, there is plenty of life in him yet, for his reply was the most vigorous speech he has delivered this session, and it was generally remarked that he has not appeared in such good form for a long time. He defended the regulations concerning colonization companies, and said that a few years ago when on the govern, ment side of the house Mr. Charlton had supported the very thing he was now con-demning. He denounced the imputation of improper motives to the government in conction with the grants of Northwest land as ignoble and ungentlemanly, and concluded by declaring the amendment idoitic. Mr. Sproule then rose and emptied the reporters'

After a few remarks by Dr. Bergin, Mr. Charlton replied briefly to Sir John. He resented his being accused of ungentlemanly conduct for doing what he considered to be his duty to his country.

The amendment was lost on a division of 43 wess to 101 nays, and the bill was then reada third sime and passed.

The house then went into supply and passed a number of items.

Several members waited on Sir Leonard Tilley this morning to request him to give a drawback on malt exported to the United States. Sir Leonard did not taink the government could give a drawback, but said he would endeavor to have some change made in the inspection rules that would meet the wishes of the deputation.

There is a good deal of talk in the lobbies over the fact that Sir John Macdonald and Sir Hector Langevin have had serious differences of opinion owing to the latter's action in connection with the Northern railway amalgamation bill.

PARIS, May 2—The minister of foreign HA LTON, May 2. - The bricklayers reaffairs in the senate last night said he believed in the sincerity of the declarations of the Italian foreign minister and Hungarian premier, that no idea of aggression against France was entertained in the formation of the triple alliance. Allegiance, he believed, to the alliance did not in any way change the relations of France with the powers. France must be prudent, for a vanquished country which is regaining strength and condemned to maintain a large defensive force, must not be surprised to find itself expessed to jealousies and distrust.

Mr. Marsh then went on to relate how the young woman had written from Brighton in sking his advice. Considerable correspondence passed between Mr. Marsh and Mr. Titus on the subject. The former went to Cobourg and got the master there to tax the costs of the trial. The master ordered that $1.73 of the money paid to Titus be refunded. Mr. Marsh explained that Mr. Titus did not dare to put in the reasons for demanding the first $200 from his client. The Brighton lawyer saw that he was getting in a tight place and wrote Mr. Marsh asking for time to return the money. He then turned on his client whom he had defended in the mans'aughter case in a remarkable manner. He issued a writ in the name of the father of young Ryan against Miss Wright for damages for the killing of bis sou. There was a stupid irregularity about the issuance of the writ and it was never served. As mentioned above considerable correspondence passed between Mr. Marsh and Mr. Titus. In his letters the former used some good strong English, which the latter passed judgment upon as Mr. Marsh and Mr. Titus. In his letters the former used some good strong English, which the latter passed judgmens upon as threats and attempts to extort blackmail, and Titus accordingly went before a Brighton magistrate and swore out a warrant against Mr. Marsh under the act providing punishment for sending threatening letters to any person.
