And Openings

The Watsons, generally, have filling an order for 12,000 corn for British Columbia. In which to will be shipped via the Atlantic, the board down through the Pacific, the main line and up the Pacific coast. Here's another claim st. our Canadian railways losing out do your a long haul.

Right-of-way on Provincial Roads
S. L. Squire, deputy minister of highways for Ontario, has announced that a right-of-way rule for through traffic will come into effect at the beginning of next year on provincial highways. This means that all vehicles will be compelled to come to a full stop before entering provincial highways from the intersecting roads.

Nineteen girls entered a contest at Thorold fair for the best head bobbed hair. The prizes were donated by J. H. Thomson, editor of the Thorold Post. Editor Thomson who recently celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his wedding, said: "I am opposed to bobbed hair on principle. If I had a thousand daughters not one would have bobbed hair. The Creator made it that way and I am in favor of it that way." The editor, we assume, has never had a shave or haircut during all his life.

Bands May Get Grants
The Ontario Amateur Bands Association is meeting Premier Ferguson in regard to the proposal to have a bill passed at the next session providing for municipalities assisting bands financially. According to the proposed bill, a municipality, after a favorable vote has been obtained, could assess the property owners up to two mills for funds with which to equip and maintain a civic band at a high standard.

A protest has been raised by some girls against the use of the term "flappers" as applied to themselves. They prefer to be called "moderns." But the name itself is not of so much importance as what it stands for. If the word "flapper" has a bad reputation, the girls should change it and give it a good one. They can do this by showing that while they are cultivating independence and resourcefulness they still possess the girlish qualities which everybody is compelled to admire. Many of the names originally bestowed in derision have come to be regarded as honorable.

The Government of Ontario has decided that shooting of partridge will not be permitted this autumn. It has been recognized that unless drastic action is taken this fine game bird is destined to extinction. In fact it is pretty close to that condition in the older settled parts of the province. But there is still enough of these birds left to replenish the supply if given a chance, and past experiments show that the close season is most helpful. Unfortunately when the partridge was plentiful the slaughter permitted was out of proportion. Hunters shot without limit, a species of waste that is most deplorable. In many parts of the province there are not sufficient wooded areas to give the partridge a chance.

The editor of the Bracebridge Gazette, who knows personally what a political candidate's experiences are, is opposed to canvassing and says personal solicitation of votes should be made illegal. He contends that it is not even a candidate's business how an elector is going to vote. Candidates, he says, should say openly what they have to say, either through the newspapers or at public meetings and the people be left to themselves to act on the information thus gained. The ideas expressed by Mr. Thomas will commend themselves to many. If canvassing were abolished it would undoubtedly increase the value of the opinion registered at the polls, though there would be a danger of less interest being taken in the election and a smaller vote being cast.—Goderich Signal.

An effort is to be made to amend the United States immigration law so that the quota system will apply to Canada. That would mean that only a specified number of Canadian citizens could take up residence in the United States during a year. There is a widespread complaint in Canada, because so many young men find it necessary to move to the United States to obtain employment. If the gate were closed it would be interesting to note the effect upon Canada, because there is virtually no other outlet for excess population and the home labor market in recent years has not been able to absorb the local supply. Either the country's industries would have to be expanded to take care of the offerings or the labor market would become glutted to such an extent that unemployment would become a year-round problem. There is a strong element in the United States which will fight strongly against a quota law being applied to Canadian immigration.

as ready to sacrifice his own country, Engla give Ireland all she wanted she wanted it, not only Dom status but independence. His friends distrusted the honesty of his motive, and the Irish, who are the most self-centred people in the world, shot him, for they could not understand him.

Conservatives, on the other hand, were those who love the homely virtues. Natural affection, in contradistinction to the love of all mankind, will, they assert, exist to the end of time. The love of one's own country—not the love of one's own kind; not the love of one's own kith and kin—not the love of humanity—this was Conservatism. The love of everything with which one had grown up—old creeds, old landmarks, old associations—every kind of home-sense—this was Conservatism.

He cited the case of a college in Oxford that had had inscribed on its roll of honor the names of all its students who had died for King or Kaiser. In the list were included the names of the German Rhodes scholars who had attended the college and had died for the Kaiser in the Great War. It had led to a sharp division of opinion. One party claimed that this was as it should be since heroism characterized both. Others contended that this was not a university in Heaven, but an old English university and that therefore only the names of English heroes should have been included. It was a good illustration of the different mental outlook that would always divide humanity into Liberals and Conservatives.

And what was the moral of it all? The two parties were rooted in human nature and could never conquer or destroy each other. But politics today had become a rough house and a bear garden. No young man would now leave his chosen profession to stump the country in order to gain political success. And yet the moral was not that we should quit politics. Contempt for politics had led to the deterioration of our public bodies. The moral was that we should quit party politics and become the salt of the earth by taking an independent stand and voting on the policies placed before the country at each election.

More Medicines Prohibited
Sale of fully 100 patent medicines has been placed under the ban in Ontario by the provincial board of license commissioners acting in conjunction with federal authorities. The medicines and remedies affected are those containing a high percentage of alcohol and not sufficiently medicated to prevent their use as beverages. Their sale by druggists and other vendors has been declared illegal under the Proprietary and Patent Medicine Act.

The Dr. Williams' Twenty-Eight Prizes in Writing Competit.

Some years ago the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., offered a series of prizes to residents of Ontario and Quebec for the best letters describing benefits obtained through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Hundreds of letters were submitted in this competition, and yet there must have been thousands of other users of the pills who did not avail themselves of the opportunity to win a prize. To all these another letter-writing competition is offered. Thousands have benefited through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills whose cases have not been reported. These will furnish the material for letters to be written in this contest. There is no demand upon the imagination; every letter must deal with facts and facts only.

The Prizes
The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., will award a prize of $25.00 for the best letter received on or before the 21st day of November, 1925, from the residents of these provinces on the subject: "Why I Recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." A prize of $15.00 will be awarded for the second best letter received; a prize of $10.00 for the third best letter, and twenty-five prizes of $2.00 each for the next best twenty-five letters.

The Conditions
The benefit derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills described in the letter may be in the writer's own case, or that of some one in the writer's home.

More than one case may be described in the letter, but every statement must be literally and absolutely true. Every letter must be signed by the full name and correct address of the person sending it. If it describes the case of some person other than the writer of the letter, it must also be signed by the person whose case is described, as a guarantee of the truth of the statements made.

The writer of each letter must give the name of the paper in which he or she saw this announcement. Fine writing will not win the prize unless you have a good case to describe. The strength of the recommendation and not the style of the letter will be the basis of the award. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. shall have the right to publish any letter entered in this contest, if they desire to do so, whether it wins a prize or not.

The contest will close November 21st, 1925, and the prizes will be awarded as soon as possible thereafter. Do not delay. If you know of a good case write your letter NOW. Observe the above conditions carefully or your letter may be thrown out.

Address all letters as follows:—The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., Letter Contest Department.

Anniversary Services of Kerwood United Church

The anniversary services of Kerwood United church were held on Sunday and Monday, Oct. 18th and 19th. The event was unique in that it celebrated the clearing off of all financial encumbrance in connection with the building enterprise. The scheme was commenced in 1920 under the leadership of Rev. C. J. Moorehouse. The following spring a commodious church shed was completed in which the people worshipped until the church was finished. The foundation of the church was also commenced that spring and the edifice was completed in the fall and dedicated for religious worship. This building is one of the finest country churches in these parts. It speaks well of the far seeing vision and faith and splendid sacrifice of the people and it seemed fitting that Rev. C. J. Moorehouse should preside at the services which were to mark the lifting of all financial debt from the building. He preached helpful and eloquent sermons Sunday morning and evening to a church packed to capacity. The choir rendered beautiful music under the leadership of Mrs. Watson, and Miss Marie Jackson delighted the congregation with her harp selections. On Monday evening the Ladies Aid served a fowl supper in the Sunday school rooms of the church. The tables were delightfully decorated and laden with all kinds of appetizing food, which was greatly enjoyed by a large number of people from far and near.

After the supper a pleasing and well-balanced program was given in the auditorium of the church by Misses Joy and Marie Jackson of Comber, and Miss Feltier. For two hours the large audience enjoyed instrumental selections from the piano, harp, violin guitar and several vocal numbers. Congratulatory and encouraging addresses were given by Revs. G. T. Watts of Strathroy, Forbes Kitchener of the Brooke Circuit, Edgar Roulston of Arkona, and C. J. Moorehouse of Clinton.

The financial statement of the building committee was also presented to the people by the treasurer, J. H. Richardson. This statement showed the total receipts to be $23,476.00 and the total expenditures to be $23,450.00. The committee's comments and gratitude for the people's hearty co-operation and abounding generosity were voiced by the chairman, Rev. R. A. Brook, and special mention was made of the splendid leadership given by the Rev. C. J. Moorehouse, during the strenuous days of building.

The whole occasion was a marked success and a fine spirit of loyalty and fellowship was particularly in evidence, and after the devotion was sung it was conceded by all that these anniversary services were the best yet in the history of the church.
