EDUCATIONAL WORK.

Report for the Quarter Ending March 31st, 1900.

TOKYO.

THE recent promotion examinations in the school show that good classwork has been done through the year. Three girls were graduated from the full course. Two of these having been supported by the Society, enter at once on their duties as helpers—one going to Kofu to assist in the school work there, and one to Nagano. We hoped that the third, though a full-pay pupil, would remain with us as a helper for a time, but her father has called her home. She has been in the school twelve years, and we trust has developed a Christian character that will enable her to walk in the straight path of right through the difficulties and temptations which we know she must now meet. As these girls go out from the school we look with
