Polo Team Coming.

LONDON, May 11.—Baron Wimborne, manager of the English polo team, which has challenged for the international polo trophy, held by the United States, today decided to sail for America May 23 with a polo team composed of Mr. Tomkinson, Major J. Y. D. Bingham, Major F. W. Barrett and Major C. F. Hunter. Lord Wimborne's efforts since the weakness of his team was made apparent to induce some other team to undertake the task of trying to capture the polo challenge cup from America having failed, he decided to make the best of a bad bargain and take the team over himself. The ponies, numbering 35, will be sent along a week earlier.

A Cornwall despatch says that Eliwin Sommerville, who played a portion of last season with the Cornwall Lacrosse Club, has signed with the Torontos and will report in the Queen City in a day or two. Sommerville went to Toronto last spring and participated in a practice or two, but returned home and spent the balance of the summer here. Sommerville will make the second Cornwall boy on the Torontos, as Henry Donihee is also a member of that team. Mr. Uptergrove has been after Sommerville for some time.

At a meeting of the executive of the Lake Shore Bowling Association, the following members were present: J. Hall, Port Credit; T. A. Mitchell, Long Branch; A. E. Stovel, Lorne Park; R. Lind, Oakville; C. A. Bonnick, Long Branch; H. Hastings, Mimico.

It was decided to hold the competition for the T. M. Harris trophy for doubles on June 13 at Lorne Park, play starting at 1.30 p.m. Entries to close June 6, and the competition for the Cameron trophy on June 27 and July 4 at Long Branch, play starting at 1.30 p.m.

The draw was then made for the Cameron trophy: Long Branch v, Lorne Park, Port Credit v. Mimico, Oakville, bye.

It was also decided to hold a consolation series in conjunction with the Cameron trophy, entries to close June 20.

aminations.

The recent examinations at the German schools were again, as each year, accompanied with numerous instances of boys killing themselves, either thru fear that they would not pass or because of mortification at failure. On a single day three suicides of students, all less than 18 years old, were reported, and the body of one who had drowned himself some days earlier, was recovered. These instances were in Greater Berlin alone.

One of the boys threw himself in front of a train because he had not been promoted to a higher class. A suicide by drowning was that of a 1/-year-old boy, who was shortly to try the examination entitling him to discharge his fillitary duties with one year's service. According to his teachers there was no doubt that he would have passed, as he was unusually capable and intelligent.

The fixed bureaucratic scheme of life for the average German, whilst not explaining such suicides, throws some light on the youths' actions. Fallure to be graduated from school is a very serious thing. To become a "beamter." that is, a public official, is the goal of a great percentage of young Germans, for the official enjoys many privileges not granted to the non-official German. He has a certain tenure, a retiring pension and other material advantages, and enjoys especial protection under the law of insults, it being a much graver crime to insult an official than a private citizen.

But for those who have failed in their school work there is no chance to become state officials. Even in private life they find it almost impossible to secure responsible positions with mercantile firms and they are, of course, debarred from entering the learned professions. It is not altogether strange that the German youth is disposed to take a grave view of his failure.

It is not only students in the schools who kill themselves before or after examinations. A man of 22, who had been studying legal procedure, reached the point where he was to take his examination for advancement to court clerk. He repeatedly told his friends he over the Zabern affair of last autumn has finally borne fruit in the shape of a new regulation governing the conduct of

The regulation, which has already received the approval of the emperor, does away with the famous cabinet order, under which Colonel Von Reuter justified his intervention in local affairs and ais imprisonment of Zabern citizens. This ancient order provided that if the commander of troops "decides, according to duty and conscience, that the civil authorities are delaying too long their requisition for troops, in view of the fact that they are no longer able to restore order, it is his duty and his right to intervene without the requisition of the civil authorities, and to assume command, and the civil authorities must obey his orders."

The new regulation provides that the military forces may not intervene without requisition except "in cases of pressing danger for the public security when the civil authorities, as a result of uncontrollable circumstances, are not in a position to issue the requisition." In other words, so long as the civil authorities are still in power, troops may not intervene without a direct request.

The Liberal press is inclined to consider the regulation a decided victory for constitutionalism. It regrets, however, that such an important regulation, affecting the rights of all citizens, can still be made in Germany without consulting the Reichstag, and is somewhat disquieted over a new provision covering the cases in which a soldier may make use of his weapons. To cases where life, limb or property is threatened by an unlawful attack are added cases of "an attack upon honor." This is a most elastic problem, and critics of the new order recall that Lieuterant von Fornstar justified his sabring of a lame shoemaker by declaring that he acted in defence of his threatened honor.

Dr. Starckolitzky, who has been lecturing before the medical society at Blagovestchensk on the spread of the morph a habit in the Amur territory, said children were addicted to it before reaching their teens. In one prison, satistics showed that of every 1000 prisoners about 200 were morphia victims. The same proportion was found among hospital patients. A large number of morphia "clubs" existed at Blagovestchensk, and it was a common sight to see morphia-maniacs making injections in the open streets.
