THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 3, 1910. THE UNITED STATES ELECTIONS.

On Tuesday next the Republicans and Democrats of the United States will again engage in their annual strugsle for electoral mastery. The con-flict this time is of unusual import-ance, since it is generally conceded that the emerging house of representatives will differ much in complexion and still more in temper and policy from that it will succeed. Some indeed confidently affirm that a Democratic majority is practically already assured and will obtained by the revolt of states which have been consistently Repub-lican. This may be too confident an anticipation, but it is certain that the outlook for the party hitherto in power is less hopeful than it has been in many years. The old leaders are thoroly discredited, not a few of them, including the men who held the Republican machine in the hollow of their hands, have been driven out of active politics. This has in turn reacted injuriously on the administration of President Taft, who identified himself with the stand pat element in the party, and under its influence, essayed the futile attempt of reading the progressives out of official recognition.

On the other hand, the Democrats have signally failed to rise to the height of the opportunity offered by the internal cleavage of their opponents. They are not united themselves and there is little to choose between their conservative section and the corresponding Republicans. The Democrats sadly lack a really great leader, inspired by genuine democratic ideals and of strong enough personality to That a provincial trunk line must impose a real reform policy on the mass of the party. Possibly they may have discovered such a leader in Mr. Woodrow Wilson, now candidate for the governorship of New Jersey, a stamp of public man too seldom seen anywhere on the continent. But whe-ther or not he prove to be the Moses of the Democratic party, who will ul-timately lead it out of the wilderness into the land of promise and the sweets of office, there is at the present noment no popular uprising in its fa-vor. For it is the most significant feaimpose a real reform policy on the the Liberal majority by 571 over the previous poll. In both cases the total poll fell off considerably, but at South thields the opposition vote showed 16 of an increase

These results are decidedly favor able to the government and so far as they go confirm the belief held in responsible quarters that a general election held now or prior to the corona tion in June next would leave the parties in pretty much the same relative position. By-election conditions usually assist the opposition and in both these contests strenuous efforts were made by the tariff reformers to mpress the electors with the need of a change in the fiscal system, but without marked result. The industrial situation in Britain is exceptionally good, and the consequent absence of personal discontent rather discounts arguments of considerable appeal when times are bad and unemployment common. Fortune meantime is on the side of the government, and unless the unexpected happens, it appears likely to remain in power during the notable mperial events that will distinguish 1911, unless the house of lords again compels an appeal to the country over the current year's budget.

MUNICIPAL TELEPHONES.

It is a sign of the times that the board of control was unanimous over the proposal to buy out the Bell Telephone Company. The city has been held back so long by reactionary allermen that the necessary measures now heaped up and requiring attention give some people the impression that too much is being attempted. On the contrary, a great deal is being neglected that ought to be attended to unfortunately for his own prestige, has at once, and only the most urgent and necessary matters are coming to the surface. None of these is more important than the telephone service. Every year renders the problem more difficult. The sooner it is settled the easier will the settlement be for the city. Sir James Whitney, it is to be hoped, will take a sympathetic view of the desires of the city in which he resides. and of many places thruout the province which also want to benefit by whatever legislation may be passed for the purpose of municipalizing the telephone service.

Supreme Court Decisions.

ture of the contest waged from the Atlantic to the Pacific that all the enthuslasm displayed by the masses of the people has been evoked by the declarants of progressive policies and for men only who are believed to be loyal in their support.

This is particularly true of the western States and it is a remarkable fact that the strongest exponents of the new party now in process of formation are westerners. The only notable exception is Ex-President Roosevelt, whose defence of insurgency during his western tour brought into prominence the extraordinary measure of public confidence he enjoys. But it is doubtful whether Mr. Roosevelt is prepared to endorse the advanced platforms of the western insurgents, such, for example, as that adopted by the Wisconsin Republican convention which included among its principal demandsreal downward revision of the tariff, physical valuation of railroads and their more stringent regulation; the initiative and referendum; recall of unsatisfactory elective officiais; protection from interference under antitrust laws with labor unions and farm-. ers' co-operative associations; publicity of campaign contributions and expenditures and limitation of expenses; an anti-lobby law and protection of national resources. The New York State platform framed under Rooseveltian auspices was much more general in its terms and much less extensive in its scope, but it has to be remembered that the east is only beginning to feel the full drift of the progressive spirit Perhaps the most interesting factor in the coming elections and specially in of the executive committee, 84 Spadina-New York will be the attitude of the avenue, or the secretary-treasurer, 347 standpat Republicans. Will they, in order to destroy Roosevelt's prestige and bar progressive advance, support Democratic candidates? It would be a policy of despair-even temporary success would only make certain ultimate defeat more overwhelming.

BRITISH BY-ELECTIONS.

Altho British by-elections do not always afford reliable indications of the general drift of electoral sentiment, have often, indeed, been contradicted by the national verdict, they should not be altogether ignored. The two last, consequent on the elevation Post declares, and the money was used of the late attorney-general to the bench and the appointment of Sir John A. Simon to succeed Sir Rufus Isaacs as solicitor-general, were of more than usual interest. Both occurred in middle and working class constituenciesone. South Shields, in the manufacturing north of England and the other at Walthamstow, an industrial sub-w urb of London. The former remained Liberal by a majority of 2019, a drop of over 1200 from that given at the general election; the latter increased 'year than last year, with fewer cows.

A perennial candidate at municipal and other elections has been adjudge:1 too weak in the intellect to remain outside the institution made and provided for such cases. The wonder is that he never was elected. Not that we would suggest that there are as good fish in the C- as ever were caught.

Mr. Grant Balfour, who recently spent a day at the Muskoka Free Hos-pital for Consumptives, gives his obscrvations of dinner hour with the pa-tients. Over a hundred sat down to the midday meal. There were few who did not show the effect of Muskoka air on the appetite. The bill of fare in-cluded soup, two kinds of meat, potatces, one additional vegetable, ple and pudding. The lady superintendent said to Mr. Balfour that the patients can have two kinds of meat and two kinds of dessert. They have the best creamery butter, the best quality of milk, and all the bread thay can eat, brown and white. To many whose comforts at home have not been the most luxurious, the meals at the hospital are as though they were guests at a fashionable hotel. The lady superintendent intimated that for breakfast porridge and milk, home-made sausages, bacon, potatoes, tcast, fruit, tea, coffee and milk are served. They have eggs three times a The cost of provisions at the Muskoka Free Hospital is one of the heavy items of expense and taxes the treasury.

Friends who are disposed to help this good work in Muskoka may send contributions to Mr. W. J. Gage, chairman King-street west, Toronto.

New York Post Says Roosevelt Accepted Campaign Funds. leg.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 .- The Evening Post this afternoon declares that early in October, 1904, Henry C. Frick, the Pittsburg multi-millionaire, and Ham-ilton McK.
