CANADA WOULD FEEL THE PINCH

Canada would suffer severely instead of mightily.

The argument that the farmer and the fisherman would profit by reciprocity was dealt with. Mr. Sifton argued that practically only ten per cent. of the products of the farmer and the fisherman would be sold in the United States. Eighty-five per cent. of the product of Canadian farmers is sold at home. Nova Scotia farmers do not supply the home markets for $4,000,000. If the amount exported from Nova Scotia were kept here a sale for it could be found at home.

Mr. Sifton showed that the American market would take little from Canada. The export of agricultural products from the United States to Canada in 1909 was $428,000,000. The twelve favored nations export much natural products, and these will come into Canada free of duty. This will give the farmers of Canada had an uncertain home market; how things have changed.

Handed Over to Trusts.
Taking the hog market Mr. Sifton showed that the price of hogs would be fixed in Chicago and that farm products in general would be sold at the price fixed in the United States. There the trusts dictate the price to be paid by the consumer and to the farmer. The government of the United States within two years has had to take the trusts in hand, owing to abnormal charges. What the government proposed to do was to force the trusts to pay the price of the goods to the farmer and to hand over our markets to the American trusts. There food is kept in cold storage for three or four years to get a high price. The average consumer in Canada will prefer the evils he now has rather than fly to others he knows of. The trusts of the United States will not be so easily duped. Mr. Sifton said he had observed expansion of factories in Nova Scotia during the last few years. The eastern manufacturers and farmers have a protected market in the west. This should be safeguarded. Governments have broken promises before. Only last year Sir Wilfrid Laurier had said there would be no revision of the tariff without consultation with the people. Yet he had brought down the sweeping changes attendant on reciprocity. The speaker contended that half the farmers in the west do not want reciprocity and these will vote for what in their estimation will be the best interests of Canada. The farmers of the west will be supplied with horses, poultry and dairy products by the western states of the union. The eastern provinces will lose their market for those articles. There cannot be free trade in regard to agricultural products and protection for manufacturers. In six or seven years at the demand of the western farmers continental free trade will ensue. The question now is whether we shall have a commercial union or commercial independence with the United States.

Will Not Increase Market.
The speeches of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. W. S. Fielding were dealt with by Mr. Sifton. Reputable men along the fruit growers say that the removal of duty on apples will not increase the market for Nova Scotia apples in the New York market. The lumbermen think likewise. Mr. Fielding claims that the Nova Scotia fisherman will benefit greatly. This is a free assumption. Gloucester has a free market in all parts of the United

U. S. FRUIT GROWERS' HOPES.

An American fruit-grower from Traverse City, Mich., U.S., who called on a King Street merchant yesterday, stated that he and his brother-in-law, who are in the above locality, and that this season they had shipped a quantity of yellow harvest apples to Chicago, which netted them 15c per crate, holding a bushel, and they were out of the cost of picking, etc.

He stated that they were just looking for a chance at the U.S. market. The lowest these apples sold here in Toronto was 10c to 12c.

PREACHED RECIPROCITY AS ECONOMIC PANACEA.

T. C. Robbette, K.C., Enlarges on the Larger Menu For the Housewife.

AURORA, Sept. 1.—(Special).—Before an audience of several hundred which crowded the town hall here to-night, T. C. Robbette, K.C., Liberal candidate for North York, expounded the doctrine of reciprocity to the artisan and housewife. Mr. Robbette was supported by W. H. Fleury, president of the Fleury Agricultural Implement Works at Aurora, and Sir Alan Aylesworth. The audience, he fairly interested, could scarcely be called enthusiastic, and while historic appeals to the Liberals of the "grand old riding" produced a dull outburst of applause, there was no great expenditure of energy except by the speakers.

But one side of the reciprocity argument was presented all the evening, Mr. Robbette fervidly proclaimed reciprocity as the panacea for all evils political and economic. It would bring the farmer dollars a bushel and enlarge the menu for the housewife. Notwithstanding that the United States was a surplus producer of agricultural products covered by the pact, he insistently argued that Canada must have the market of the republic to consume the wheat overproduction in the west, which in ten years he estimated would amount to over six hundred millions of bushels, not providing, of course, for any increase in home consumption. "If the National Policy was great, reciprocity is greater," he declared.

W. H. Fleury urged reciprocity, which he believed would result in continued prosperity in Canada and also provide a market for the products of his factory. This was the day of emancipation.

The chair was occupied by Mayor Baldwin, Aurora. On the platform were representative Liberals from all parts of the riding.

Property Talk.

Mr. Fleury, who was the first speaker, said that the growth of Aurora during the past ten years had resulted from the maintenance of certain industries in the town, but especially was Canadian prosperity due to the development of the agricultural industry. If the farmer was prosperous, the manufacturer would accordingly be prosperous. The same cause made the implement factory of which he was the head prosperous, but it also contributed to the welfare of other industries, including his own, altogether from local conditions.

The influx of immigration in the west would mean an increase in the wheat production. Forgetting other markets he said: "A large part of that wheat must inevitably go to the United States; it must go there whether we climb over a wall and the farmer pay nothing. It was the duty of the people of Canada to give up reciprocity."

Voting his own sentiments, Mr. Fleury said:

"As far as our factory is concerned I will say that reciprocity would be an immense asset in increasing and enlarging our trade with the west. For that reason—selfish you may believe—we favor reciprocity. In the case, there are many men employed in Aurora who would honestly and fairly, except for small partial considerations, who will vote against himself and his fellow-laborers."

Explaining Himself.

Mr. Robbette was cordially received. He attempted to climb up on an impression that had spread abroad that he was not in favor of reciprocity. His utterances in Toronto last fall were directed at a measure of unrestricted reciprocity not contemplated by the present agreement.

Mr. Robbette censured the Conservative party for their attitude in the past. He said that the Conservative party had been in the habit of making a political issue out of reciprocity, which, if found unsatisfactory, could be abrogated at will.

Enumerating some of the items affected by the schedule Mr. Robbette stated that owing to a trade arrangement, the Canadian farmer had no competition for his hog. The removal of duty would make the American buyer of these hogs a competitor. He charged the Canadian packing concerns with making an immense profit on hams whereby Canadian bacon was sold in the London market several cents cheaper than in Toronto. The same argument applied to beef. The pact proposed to give the luxuries, such as early fruits and vegetables, at a time when the home product could not be procured and at reasonable prices.
