Burt when latter challenged in stretch run. C. W. Burt was on the outside of the leaders all the way; made a game effort entering home stretch, but faltered under a drive. Cooney K. under slight restraint to furlong pole; was on the inside entire trip.

Pulka after forcing a fast early pace, drew away into a commanding lead roundling the far turn. Goldstein took him under restraint at end, and he won with plenty in reserve. Banives closed a big gap from a slow beginning. This colt shows his best form in heavy going. Fearnaught II. crowded back soon after the break, but gained steadily. The gap he closed told on him at end, and he tired.

It's nothing short of remarkable the way we have been handing out winners since the opening at Woodbine. Several of our clients are over a thousand dollars ahead of the game, and all those who stick to us throughout the entire meeting will have more money than they could have accumulated in any other line in two years with the same capital invested.

6 to 10--1 Cinch To-day

This one worked three-quarters in 1.14 3-5 yesterday morning, and was fighting for his head all through the stretch. He only has to go to the post to-day to be declared a winner, as nothing in the race is capable of forcing him to extend himself. You'll certainly miss a good one if you let this trick get away. We never knew of a horse that looked as safe a betting proposition before the race as he does.
