Fire at Bridgewater.
Halifax, July 10.—Fire broke out shortly after 10 o'clock tonight in L. C. Moore's jewelry store, Bridgewater, and spread swiftly, destroying Johnson's bakery, the Bridgewater Dry Goods store, Barnaby's drug store, Duceff's store, Barnaby's drug store, a barber shop and a tenement house. At midnight the fire was still burning.

There are ninety-seven citizens in the city of New Bedford named Manuel Sylvia.

There are sermons in stones—also in teeth. We'll choose the latter for our text.

But if everyone used Pebecco Tooth Paste there would be no further need of sermons, preachments or parables on the proper care of the teeth.

Pebecco Tooth Paste solves the problem by ridding the mouth of the enamel-destroying acids

PEBECO TOOTH PASTE

"Acid-Mouth" is the dreaded thief which experts now agree is the cause of 95% of all tooth decay. Pebecco Tooth Paste arrests this acidity of the mouth—even destroys the acid-producing bacteria themselves.

You have not settled the problem of your teeth by merely keeping them white, clean and polished. Pebecco Tooth Paste will SAVE them.

J. R. Bradford's Plans.
After instituting the work of community secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Canada at Amherst (N. S.) two years ago, John Bradford has been called to the Montreal association to undertake similar work there and if it proves a success in such a larger centre the same ideas are to be incorporated in Y. M. C. A. work in all the larger cities of Canada, including St. John.

MONTREALER'S WAR AGAINST HAT PIN

Louis S. Davis Carries on Campaign—Suggests Ribbons Tied Under Chin

"Ware of the horrible hateful hatpin. For, according to Louis S. Davis, of Montreal the hatpin is not only trying to tempt and sedit, but a positive menace to human life. Mr. Davis has therefore interested himself and a few others in a campaign against the particular form of feminine hardware, and says he intends to bring the matter before Mayor Lavigne and the city council.

Just to show that he is in earnest Mr. Davis has had printed 20,000 slips containing the following inscription:

Suggested By Law
$50.00 FINE
Unprotected Hat Pins

These slips are stuck up on all the principal streets and upon the windows of street cars. If they do not have the desired effect, a delegation headed by Mr. Davis will demand civic supervision over all feminine headgear.

Mr. Davis is a manufacturer. He is a twentieth century crusader with the courage of his convictions and cheerfully admits that he is a crank on this subject. What he wants is the tip of the hatpin removed.

"I am busy man," said Mr. Davis, "and don't get the time to give a lecture. If I had time I would organize public meetings and parades and arouse public opinion to a realization of the danger of the hatpin. But, the best we can do just now is to distribute slips and perhaps interest the local government in the matter.

"France, Germany and many cities in the United States have found it necessary to get after this hatpin on a regular basis. It is a menace to life and health. My idea is to have women keep their hats on with bows tied underneath the chin. Besides looking so much better than hatpins the bows would be so much safer to others."

Mr. Davis has lived in Montreal for three years, coming from London, England, where he was formerly a member of the London District Council.

WIFE AND HUSBAND IN DUEL

Denver Woman Took This Course to Disprove Charge of Unfaithfulness

Denver, July 11.—Challenging her husband to a "trial by battle" Mrs. Samuel Palasco made good her defense in a duel with knives against an accusation made against her by her husband, until the police who have been summoned by the neighbors, broke the locking doors and separated the combatants. Each received many wounds, which, however were not serious.

According to the story told to the police the combat was deliberately arranged, for the purpose of proving to the neighbors an accusation made by the husband, was false or true.

KIER HARDIE INSOLENT

Sneers at King's Visit to Industrial Districts

London, July 11.—J. Kier Hardie, ex-chairman of the Independent Labor party, has been explaining why he never went to functions at Buckingham Palace.

"I never accept favors," he said, "which I cannot return. The king can ask me to Buckingham Palace, but I cannot ask him to my backyard, so I keep away from him."

Referring to the forthcoming royal visit to Lancashire, Mr. Hardie said that royalty had captured the middle classes and had now set out to capture the workers by parades through the industrial districts. These royal parades and military displays, he added, were part of the game to direct the attention of the workers away from their aims.

MOTOR PATROL SERVICE IN FORESTRY WORK

Victoria, B. C., July 11.—Very satisfactory results are expected from the increased efficiency of the motor patrol boat service of the forestry department of the provincial government. Four of the vessels for the service are now almost ready for the work of protection on the mainland coasts and the shores of Vancouver Island. Three of the boats are thirty-five feet in length and the other fifty-five feet.

As soon as the service will be taken over by rangers, who in the past have had to hire vessels to carry out their duties, they will be used to inspect the logging camps, see that the government regulations are observed in regard to marking, insure that the greatest possible safety devices are employed in lumber camps to guard against the outbreak of fire and also to seize any timber being piloted.

Montreal Moulders on Strike

Montreal, July 10.—Four hundred and fifty iron moulders and coremakers employed by the Mount Royal Iron Works, the Caledonia Iron Works, and the John McDougall Iron Foundry have gone on strike for a nine hour day.

J. MARCUS - 30 Dock St.

NOW HE'S A MODEL HUSBAND

Spending Money Was His Particular Fault But His Wife Taught Him How to Save.

"What a beautiful home you have," said the old friend from another city, who had come for a few days' visit. "I never thought John would have a place like this."

"Neither did I," agreed the hostess, who is John's wife.

"John was always such a spendthrift, as I remember him," commented the friend. "How did he manage this?"

"He didn't," laughed Mrs. John. "I managed it."

"You see," she continued, "when John married me he didn't have a dollar though he was making a good salary. I thought I'd teach him to save after we were married. But you know how it is to reform a man in anything after he's married. You just can't."

"John did love to spend money and have a good time. He wasn't a bit selfish about it. He wanted me to enjoy everything just as much as he did. We always had the nicest kind of an apartment to live in. He called a carriage or taxi whenever we went anywhere together, and insisted that I should do the same thing whenever I wanted one. He was constantly buying me something pretty and we were always taking little trips somewhere."

"I did enjoy it immensely at first. Our folks were poor, you know, and I just revelled in luxuries for a while."

"Then I began to think of the future," she said. "You see, the baby was coming. And I started to worry, for I knew John spent every cent as fast as he got it."

"I spoke to him about buying a home."

"O, wait a while," he said. "We don't want to be tied down to any one place yet."

"I waited. I waited eight years. John's salary was raised several times and as I didn't have extravagant tastes, he had more money to spend than was good for him. He got into fast company and started to drink. He was as good to me, but I saw the end of that sort of thing kept up."

"Several times I'd asked him to buy some property as an investment, if for nothing else."

"I haven't the money to pay for it," he'd say.

"Buy it on time, then," I'd answer.

"I'll never get it paid for," he said.

Finally I got desperate. I took the little money I'd been able to save here and there, and went home with baby. From there I wrote to John that if he didn't buy me a home I wasn't coming back to him.

"A week later I got a wire from him. 'Come and pick out your home. I'll be good!'"

"Well," laughed Mrs. John, "I picked out an expensive one."

"I gambled on John. I knew he had a high sense of honor and that if he started to do a thing he'd carry it out."

"This place has cost him about $50,000 so far, and it's taken so much money that it's kept him hustling to keep up with it. He had to give up his fast company—or, rather, they gave him up when he stopped spending with them. He never touches a drop of liquor now."

"He's been a model man ever since I ran him in debt. And I'm keeping him there until he's too old to change. As soon as he gets near the end of one thing I get him enthusiastic about something else, and he's always working to pay off something."

"He seems to like it, too. I wish you could see the way he swells up with pride when he talks about 'my property.'"

MUST LIVE ON $5 A DAY

Two Chicago Millionaires, With Their Motors to Face the Ordeal

Toronto, July 11.—Motoring millionaires from Chicago are coming to Toronto on August 18 in thirty automobiles. Wealthy business men representing $27,000,000 will make up the party, and each one will do his own driving.

W. E. Stalacker, president of the Chicago Motor Club, imposes this peculiar stipulation.

There is still another rule, even more terrible. Each one is to live on only $5 a day during the 1,000 mile ride. They will picnic along the roadside and no noonday meals will be allowed to be taken in hotels.

A dozen of the men are worth well over the $1,000,000 each, five of them are bankers, and there are three stockyard men, and four brokers. There are two lady drivers, Miss Nell Anderson, and Miss Becker, aged sixteen, who will drive her father, a mining engineer, her mother and sister.

The party will leave Chicago on August 4, going to Indianapolis, Columbus, Cleveland and Buffalo. August 12, Sunday, will be reached the next day. They will go to London on August 14, then back to Detroit.

WOMAN'S CURIOSITY LEADS TO ARRESTS

Long Branch, N. J., July 11.—A woman's curiosity led to the recovery of most of the $50,000 worth of jewelry which were stolen on the evening of July 2 from the home here of Harry L. Haas, a New York lawyer.

It is learned that the arrest of James McIntyre and R. Rhind in Greenwich, Conn., as the alleged principals in the robbery was the result of detective work on the part of Mrs. Eugene Scott, in whose home at Greenwich, Rhind, who was employed as a nurse in a sanitarium at Greenwich, took rooms.

McIntyre visited Rhind and the lady's curiosity was such that she listened while the men were talking. Rhind's room and she heard them discussing. She later told the police the disposition of some jewelry.
