HOWE'S BIG SHOW TODAY AT MARSH BRIDGE GROUNDS

This is Circus Day and the Kiddies Are Happy — Street Parade Wins Prize

The grounds at the corner of Frederick and Marsh streets were today the centre of attraction for many hundreds of people, the numbers not being limited to the small boy to whom it has long been conceded that Circus Day essentially belongs, but a great many adults who paraded about the grounds as happily and gaily as the smallesturchin on the field. The reason for the air of expectation, interest, and attractiveness pervading the place was that Howe's Big London Shows had established themselves there and there was much to see. The train carrying the cars of the big circus rolled into the city on Saturday night from Montreal so that things had assumed definite shape by early this morning, when it was seen that the barren lots had been transformed into a hive of industry and activity and a villa of tents had been erected upon them. The weather was not ideal for a street parade, but promptly at the scheduled hour there moved forth from the grounds a lengthy line of performers, horses, wagons and the various other features which go to compose a circus the world over.

Along City road to wall, thence to Paradise row and into Mill, up Dock, and King to Charlotte, to Union and Brunsell and then the return via Haymarket Square to the show grounds the big parade meandered, while the streets were lined with large crowds of spectators greatly pleased with the variety of sights. Many favorable comments were heard as the parade proceeded as it wended its way along. It was noticeable that everything was most cleanly and performers, animals and wagons presented a tidy appearance. A fanfare of silver trumpets heralded the approach of the road pageant, four lady riders proceeding in advance handsomely costumed and riding with grace and ease.

Next came a string of cages containing ferocious wild animals in interesting variety, and drawn for the most part by six splendid appearing horses, all fine animals, as regards shape, size and looks. Three hands accompanied the parade together with the familiar old-time calliope. There were also a squad of clowns traveling in parties of half a dozen or so on top of a wagon, or riding alone individually on ponies capering and frisking to the huge delight of the many onlookers. Altogether, it was a very satisfactory street parade and created a most favorable impression with all who saw it.

Amongst the visitors in connection with the show has been Wm. Mitchell of Ottawa and who has made many friends during former trips as advance manager and press agent. The Halifax papers speak highly of the show within the tents. The performances here are to be at two o'clock this afternoon and eight o'clock tonight. The Times is assured that weather need not worry those going for the canvas tents are sunproof and rain proof.

IN THE CHURCHES Following an article in the Maritime Baptist favoring a vested choir nearly all the Baptist clergymen in the city have expressed themselves in favor of the idea. Rev. C. Sinclair, Applegarth of Ontario filled his Wilfred Gavel's pulpit in the Queen Square Methodist church at both services yesterday. Rev. George H. Baker, son of E. P. Baker, of the firm of Randolph & Baker, occupied the pulpit in German street Baptist church in the absence of Rev. F. S. Porter, yesterday morning. Rev. Mr. Baker is at present stationed at Leominster, N. H.

CLOCKS MUST BE KEPT LEVEL The reason why mantelpiece clocks so often get out of order is so obvious that it is strange that attention to it has not been drawn before. A London clockmaker says: "It is because mantelpiece clocks are level. If a clock meant for a mantelpiece is not placed in an exactly horizontal position it is sure to go wrong. When the clock gains or loses because of its slanting position people regularly move the hands forward or backward as the case may be, in order to adjust it. Eventually the clock's hands are moved about so much that the mechanism gets out of order and the clock refuses even to tick."

"Watches and traveling clocks are constructed differently from the stationary clock, and they will go in any position. That is why they are relied upon more than the ornamental clock." —London Mail.

An Albany newspaper sent reporters to 22 churches on last Sunday morning to collect attendance statistics. These churches have approximately 16,000 members, 3025 of whom attended church last Sunday. Of the 3025, 1864 were women, 288 children and 873 men.

The world's greatest collection of postage stamps valued at $5,000,000 and owned by Philippe la Renotiere von Ferry, son of the Duchess de Galliera, is to be given to the Galliera Museum in Paris.

DEATHS HERE IN JULY WERE 78

(Continued from page 1) case, easily communicable to children, while the other two were sorry-looking animals, dirty, emaciated and unkempt. If we multiply this yard and its denizens by some hundreds, perhaps thousands, we will obtain some notion of what a multitude of these animals there is in the city. They are supposed, generally, to be household or domestic animals, but they deserve this name only in a very nominal way. Many of them have long since ceased to owe allegiance to any owner, having been either abandoned, or, of themselves, deliberately taking on a vagabond life.

Hosts of others have been born in an outlandish condition, and have never known an owner or settled domicile. They wander everywhere. No place is too sacred or too sacred for their intrusion. They offend the eye, by day, and they frequently make night a horror and sleep impossible. Cats have a traditional reputation of being useful as destroyers of household vermin, as rats and mice. It is not to be denied that if all the main incentive to hunting, while the abandoned class, from subsisting upon vermin, take as their chief prey, birds, especially nestlings, and fall back upon offal and garbage when the former does not offer. It is, or should be, common knowledge that not only in cities, but in villages and suburban resorts, these animals do a vast amount of destruction of bird-life, that obtains in this country from all other sources put together.

A Graver Indictment But there is a still graver indictment, if possible, to be brought against them. Besides being pestiferous, in towns, to such disease as has been almost entirely destroyed of bird-life, they are susceptible of diphtheria in themselves, and are abundantly capable of carrying the poison of this disease in their fur, and of communicating it to the human being, especially children. Nothing is more common than to see a child pick up a cat and fondle it, often burying the face in its fur, as if unconsciously doing the utmost to invite trouble. It may be that the cat is of the child's own household, familiar in the child's parents, would render it an object of loathing rather than of endearment.

Within the last two years the writer has traced nearly a score of cases of diphtheria to this source, in one or two instances of which the animal itself was affected with, and had actually died of the disease.

Daily Hints For the Cook

CREAMED CARROTS Peel and boil carrots, then cut in small bits. Make a cream of one cup milk, add the pepper constant, even spoonful of flour. Pour over the carrots and let simmer one minute.

BAKED CAULIFLOWER Wash the cauliflower thoroughly, boil in salted water until very tender, drain and break into small pieces. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, blend in 2 tablespoons flour, season with salt and white pepper, add gradually 1 pint of rich milk, cook and stir until smooth and thick, then add the prepared cauliflower. Butter a baking dish, turn in the cauliflower, sprinkle with fine crumbs and grated Parmesan cheese and brown in a hot oven.

SPECIAL PICTURE TREAT; MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS

Gem Will Show Spectacular Three Reel Production on Wednesday and Thursday

In all history no more pathetic figure than beautiful Mary Stuart, the lovely Queen of France and Scotland, whose fate seemed to have marked from childhood as a victim of its cruelty. Her hopeless struggle in the relentless power of the great Queen Elizabeth, the plots and intrigues of the followers of both queens, form one of the most romantic and exciting series of incidents outside of fiction. The picture will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday at the Gem Theatre.

The picture is an Edison masterpiece, presenting gorgeous costumes, lavish staging and an especially strong cast and has received favorable comment everywhere shown. Louis Reeves Harrison, in the Moving Picture World, says of it, "A beautiful spectacle, characterized by exhaustive attention to detail and splendid acting, it ranks with the best of its kind and the handling of those taking part reflects great credit on the director."

The story of Mary Queen of Scots is one of gripping intensity and the Edison players have done full justice to every scene. It is something everyone should see. The picture will be shown at the Gem, the big, cool, theatre, on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

RECENT DEATHS

FALLS DEAD AS SHE PLEADS FOR DIVORCE

Geneva, Aug 3—A Swiss husband and wife were divorced by death at the Tribunal of Chaux de Fonds, Canton of Neuchatel, a few days ago, the case coming to a dramatic end by the wife falling dead at the feet of the husband and the judge.

Mme. Studer was bringing an action for divorce against her husband and according to the usual procedure of the Swiss law, they were obliged to appear before the judge privately to arrange a "reconciliation" if possible. Many cases of this nature under the advice of a kindly judge have been settled out of court, but if the parties do not agree the judge when she swooned and fell unconscious. The doctor on arrival pronounced her dead, the cause being a weak heart and excessive emotion.

Some Persons "Flinch" When Truth Hunts Them

"If any man is able to convince me and show me that I do not think or act right, I will gladly change, for I seek the truth, by which no man was ever injured."—Marcus Aurelius, Roman Emperor.

Some shrink and try to close their eyes and ears to the haunting fact that the little 14 to 3 grains of Caffeine in every average cup of tea or coffee is the demon which relentlessly pursues and starts various ailments, such as biliousness, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, bowel trouble, heart failure, and a long string of aches and ails, taking one form in one person and another in another.

The effect of repeated doses of tea or coffee, on those who are susceptible to caffeine poisoning, is so complex that it is difficult to foretell where its hurt will be most serious; in Heart, Head, Eyes, Nerves or where.

The stroke of trouble will come somewhere if the daily doses are persisted in.

Of course if anyone prefers to treat his body in that way it is useless to suggest relief.

Let him "follow the trail" until badly wounded.

Some go so far they can't get back to health. Others quit the foolish, losing game before fixed chronic disease sets in.

There is a mighty army of sensible ones, however, who have bravely tested the truth with their own bodies to see whether or not it was the truth that tea and coffee caused their ailments.

It's an easy test. Quit tea and coffee absolutely for 10 days. Take Postum hot and well-made and keep track of the change toward health day by day.

It's the most exquisite pleasure in the world to be perfectly well with all the delicate and beautifully adjusted machinery of the body working in harmony, not interfered with by drugs, one of the most insidious and deceptive of which is caffeine in tea and coffee.

This is Truth.

Meet it bravely with head up and a hearty handclasp.

Truth thus made welcome will prove your best friend.

These are facts without regard to our own opinion, or to whether or not you use Postum.

However it is well to consider that famous food-drink because it supplies a hot beverage of deep seal-brown color, which turns to the rich golden-brown when cream is added.

It has a snappy flavor, but there is no "sting" in it, no caffeine or other drug of any sort. It is skillfully manufactured of wheat and a trace of New Orleans molasses.

It comes in two forms. One called Regular Postum, must be boiled full 15 minutes.

The other, Instant Postum, is in powder form and a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water makes the beverage instantly. Grocers keep both kinds.
