LEADS TAFT But Latter Made Gains Late in Day — Wilson Looks Like Democratic Choice—Result Doubtful.

Columbus, Ohio, May 21.—On the face of the early returns in Ohio's first presidential conference primary today, Col. Roosevelt led the Republican ticket by 3 to 2 over President Taft while Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, led Governor Judson Harmon, of Ohio, on the Democratic ticket by about the same percentage.

Only one of the Democratic ticket does the count represent a direct presidential preference vote. On the Republican ticket the vote computed is the total number of ballots cast in the precincts counted for delegates to the national convention pledged to Col. Roosevelt or President Taft. It was impossible from the early returns to gather an indication of the number of delegates either President Taft or Col. Roosevelt would receive.

President Taft appeared to have carried Cincinnati by a large margin and also Toledo and Dayton among the larger cities. This was more than offset by the vote given Col. Roosevelt in Cleveland, Columbus and other cities.

Gov. Wilson, like Col. Roosevelt, was given his biggest vote in the city of Cleveland and the surrounding counties. Gov. Harmon polled a heavy vote in Columbus, the capital, and also in his home city, Cincinnati. No definite result can be announced, however, until morning.

Being composed of the purest balsams and pine essences, it immediately allays irritations, facilitates the ejection of mucus, soothes and stimulates the lungs and bronchial tubes.

BAD CASE CURED IN TWO DAYS. "I was unfortunate enough to catch a cold from sitting in a draught in my bare head," writes Miss Nora Jenkinson, well known in Sangre Grande, Td. "An acute condition of catarrh developed in my nostrils, and for three days my eyes and nose ran most copiously. The usual remedies entirely failed to relieve. I read in The Mirror newspaper about Catarrhose, and sent to Smith Bros. drug store for a dollar outfit. In two days Catarrhose cleared out my nostrils, cured the sneezing, coughing, and all traces of catarrh."

WHERE CREDIT FOR THE VALLEY ROAD BELONGS

Continued from page one. To argue their case, but argument was scarcely necessary, as Mr. Hazen and his government had already given the matter careful consideration.

The Canadian Northern. This was the beginning of the revival of the agitation for the construction of the Valley Railway. What followed, came about in a most unusual and unexpected manner.

Mr. Hazen had listened to the delegation for an instant. He pledged his support to the project and said the government would guarantee the bonds to the amount of $25,000 a mile, provided an arrangement could be made with the Dominion government to operate the railway as part of the intercolonial system and to pay 40 per cent of the interest on the bonds.

Mr. Hazen also stipulated that the federal government should grant a subsidy of $6,400 towards the construction of the road and to prevent delay he suggested that the project be taken up at once to Ottawa and submit the case to the Dominion government.

At Ottawa, the delegation met with a very pleasant reception and after an attentive hearing from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Pugsley and others who were present, Sir Wilfrid promised "consideration" and the delegation left Ottawa fully persuaded that they had captured both Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Pugsley and that the road was as good as built.

But as days and weeks went by and nothing more was heard from Ottawa, their faith in the promises of the Liberal politicians at Ottawa waned. The session of 1909 was in its last hours when it was too late to pass any legislation before Ottawa was heard from.

Willing For a Conference. Just before the House was prorogued, Mr. Hazen announced that during recess he would endeavor to have a conference with the Federal government and arrange the details by which the railway could be secured for a locality where it was so much needed. He also informed the House that while he favored intercolonial operation, he was not without hope that a private company would construct the railway in conjunction with one of the transcontinental railway systems of Canada.

The Delegation. The Hazen government had too many things to do in straightening out the tangle left by the old government, and the session had been so long delayed by the election that the Valley Railway was not considered at the session of 1908; but it was not dead, by any means. Early in the session of 1909 one of the most formidable delegations that ever visited the Capital arrived in Fredericton from all points of the compass. Apparently there was not a parish from St. John to Edmundston that was not represented.

The delegation came well prepared for the railway. The treatment accorded by the next boat to New York. The doctor was a widower with one son, stricken with brain trouble and rapidly approaching insanity.

Both recovered. The doctor's son rose from his bed a genius and Joseph Warschawski was turned out into the streets of New York a partial imbecile. The doctor's son, says the report, became an eminent novelist and dramatist. Two of his plays have been produced with great success.

Before the matter was finally dealt with, another complication arose. There came a vacancy in the representation of York, and the Valley Railway became a live issue. The Liberals in the House of Commons had become energetic on the Valley Railway question. There was something about the Liberal candidate who had been defeated before he set out to represent the government to do these things became law.

Official of U. S. Steel Corporation States That Was Not Motive in Organization of Bridge Company.

New York, May 21.—Percival Roberts, director of the U. S. Steel Corporation, a member of its finance committee and a defendant in the government suit to dissolve the corporation under the Sherman Anti-Trust act, denied that the formation of the American Bridge Company at the continuation of the hearings today.

Dr. Roberts, who was president of the bridge company when it was taken over by the U. S. Steel Corporation in 1907, admitted that some of the original constituents of the company were competitors, they were combined, he said, solely for the purpose of doing business.

The steel directors were unable to furnish the government lawyers information about the deal from which they had received the company's output amounted to only 25 per cent of the entire output of the country, that this percentage had fallen to about 10 per cent since the company now only owned about 25 plants against 375 independent plants.

There was much dissatisfaction with these decisions and particularly in South Wales where they were considered to have been invariably against the men. It was believed that the government will be appealed to for further legislation to reorganize the boards.

Kenora, May 21.—While playing about the tramway at J. W. Short's mill here, this morning, Orville Eastbrook, aged 10 years was caught in the revolving cutting chain and before the machinery could be stopped he was mangled to death, his left arm and leg being torn from the body.

Mr. C. E. Cramer, farmer, Cramersburg, Sask., writes:—"For fifteen years I had eczema and for about seven years suffered from itching piles. Seven different doctors were consulted in Canada and the United States, with only temporary relief. The eczema started on the legs and there was almost constant itching and smarting. Sometimes I would have to scratch half the night and get little or no rest or sleep. The very first application of Dr. Chase's Ointment brought relief and after the third application the itching stopped entirely. I now believe the cure to be complete and attribute it to Dr. Chase's Ointment and Nerve Food. The latter was used to scratch the blood, while the Ointment healed up the sores. I am ready to take my oath that this statement is true and correct."

Frederick had found a company willing to construct the railway under part three of the bill, and were ready to accept the contract with this company, if the Dominion subsidy of $8,400, which had been voted, was handed over to the company.

While matters were at a deadlock, Mr. Fleming, who earnestly desired that the railway be built, called a conference between the two governments. This time Mr. Pugsley was absent, and the conference resulted in an arrangement. Mr. Pugsley abandoned his impossible specification and agreed to what he very much wanted.

After all his maneuvering neither Mr. Pugsley nor Mr. Carvell was satisfied with the arrangement. The answer to the question of the Dominion government was clearly defined in the policy of the opposition during the last session of 1909. Mr. Pugsley's answer, so often made, at last silenced even Messrs. Upham and Tweed, both of whom had strenuously attacked Mr. Fleming's reply.

The answer was that the act provided for the construction of a railway from St. John to Grand Falls; the subsidy provided by the federal government was for a railway from St. John to Grand Falls; that the contract for construction was for a railway from St. John to Grand Falls and that the contract with the Dominion government was to operate a railway from St. John to Grand Falls.

Dissatisfaction With Decisions of District Boards—Men May Ask Reorganization of the Present System.

London, May 21.—The Miners' Federation met today to discuss with the district boards the various minimum scale decisions throughout the coal fields.

There was much dissatisfaction with these decisions and particularly in South Wales where they were considered to have been invariably against the men. It was believed that the government will be appealed to for further legislation to reorganize the boards.
