York's unofficial sailing team finishes second

By BONNIE BOWERMAN

Freezing rain and snow didn't deter anyone including York's own team as the Canadian Intercollegiate Sailing Association (CISA) held the fourth of five fall regattas for the McKruen Trophy at Lakefield College near Peterborough.

Teams from the Royal Military College (RMC), York and McMaster raced around the Gold Cup course using the college's fleet of battered Albacores.

RMC finished first overall despite both its teams capsizing on Saturday. Skippers Bob Adams and Mike Watts sailed extremely well on Sunday to earn the win.

York was represented by Blair

Ruelens and Jeff Atkinson as Team A and Craig Evans and Bonnie Bowerman as Team B. Finishing second overall, the teams sailed consistently and as a result York now qualifies to compete in the Canadian Intercollegiate Championships in Kingston in two weeks.

The boats were rotated after each of the six races to eliminate the possibility of any unfair advantage. Stu Reed and Eugene Duynstee racing for McMaster were plagued by phenomenal bad luck. Finishing third, they had five breakdowns in five different boats including a broken mast.

Because of Thanksgiving, attendance was down with only two universities, RCM and York, having complete A and B teams, which under normal circumstances alternately and combine their points for an overall team standing. McMaster had one team. Queen's which has a strong team was absent. Gord Clew was the only person from U of T. He raced together with Paul Gary from York who originally came along to help officiate.

Ian Brown, Co-ordinator of CISA and a member of the National Sailing Team in 1975 set up the courses and officiated the races. He said "Inter-collegiate racing provided an accelerated learning experience. There are more races which means more practice starting. The courses are shorter so the boats are closer together which makes tactics very important."

There have been informal sailing regattas dating back to the 1930's on an intercollegiate level.

"As a sport — said Brown — it combines all round physical conditioning with mental sharpness."

Sailing is not recognized by the Ontario University Athletic Association (OUAA) as a university sport, though it's an Olympic sport and many universities across Canada sponsor teams. Andre Sobolewski the organizer of York undergraduate sailing activities is still trying to obtain team status and necessary financial support. Looking forward to the finals in Kingston he said, "It's going to be a regatta with the best competition you're going to find anywhere in Canada."

If York were to win, it would be a first. It's possible because there are some very good sailors on campus including Gary Poyntz who with his brother won this year's Canadian Albacore Championship.
