

of that brother of yours who are wintering the bees; it is, therefore, difficult for us to advise you as to feeding at this time of the winter. Bees should not be disturbed at this season of the year. If they are wintering outdoors you cannot do much for them. If in the cellar you might give them a little syrup, but you must contrive some way of getting it into the hive or immediately on top. But it must be done very cautiously, so as not to excite them too much. Granulated extracted honey will not do for feed. If you give them anything it must be in liquid form. Of course, you must understand, that all the above is said on the supposition that they must be fed to save their lives. Of this you should be sure. Write us more fully next month.—Ed.]

WORKER BEE.

I got 12 colonies last year which used to kill their bees. I got their honey. I had colonies with them each one a comb of hives with extracting n with syrup made of granulated sugar and I found that I did not know enough. I would like to get the right to give them honey. If I have these four colonies I can increase next fall as the bees do not cost me trouble to go and get them.

What Christmas Present?

Which makes the better Christmas box—the 52 issues of the Youth's Companion, costing only $2.00 for the whole year, or one book, costing $2.00 to $3.00? In quantity, variety and value of reading the Companion excels. Is not such a paper, bringing every week into the home a circle charming stories, articles on a thousand subjects by famous men and women, delightful short sketches, humorous anecdotes, and an infinite variety of other wholesome, entertaining reading—is not such a paper the very one for an appropriate, acceptable Christmas box? Think of it! In a year the Companion gives you as much reading as twenty 400-page books of travel, history, fiction, miscellany, biography and humor, and not a line in it that shakes one's faith in truth and honor, not a phrase that makes light of the things that are sweet and pure. Is it not a Christmas gift worth having—a Christmas gift that is "worth while"?

Send your subscription ($2.00) at once so as to receive free all the issues of the Companion for the remaining weeks of 1909, as well as the Companion's "Venezian" Calendar for 1910, lithographed in thirteen colors and gold.

PRESS BULLETIN

From the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Canada.

If you are interested in farming for profit you have probably noticed that there has been recently a great revival of interest in fruit growing. No other branch of agriculture offers so large a financial return at the present time, and it is because of this fact that large numbers of neglected orchards are being cleaned up, fertilized, pruned and sprayed. Such splendid profits are being realized that wide-awake men are setting out new plantations of the best varieties in the firm belief that they will return a high percentage profit on the capital invested. These men have carefully looked into the situation and any who do likewise will most certainly come to the same conclusion. Ontario possesses beyond all question unrivalled possibilities as a fruit producing province. The climate and soil are unequalled on this continent. Markets have never been fully supplied with strictly high-grade fruit, and are demanding larger quantities each year. To those who are looking for a more profitable line, we earnestly recommend a study of the fruit situation. The best informed and most expert fruit men in the province will be assembled at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, for the special course in Fruit Growing, January 25th to February 4th, 1910. Come and hear them tell their experiences, if you doubt the truth of these statements. And if you are already interested you and your neighbors cannot afford to miss the wealth of practical knowledge and up-to-date information which will be presented at that time. There is money in growing fruit, and this free short course is worth dollars to you and your friends. The program will appear in these columns. Watch for it. For further particulars write J. W. Crow, Department of Horticulture, or President Creelman, O. A. C., Guelph.
