GOSSIP.

The Thoroughbred stud belonging to Mr. Joseph Seagram, of Waterloo, Ont., has been recently reinforced by the importation of a select contingent from the Old Country. The lot consists of the stallion, Persistence, and three mares. Permistence is a three-year-old, bred by His Majesty, sired by his famous horse, Persimmon, and out of a mare called Londamia; and the price Mr. Seagram gave for the horse was $5,000, quite the longest figure ever paid for a running horse for Canada.

Probably a comparatively small proportion of people know of the remedial action of the common apple seed in cases where one gets a foreign substance in the eye. Almost everybody has used or heard of "eye stones." The seed of the apple acts in precisely the same Introduce it under the lid and it will travel about until it has found the offending cinder or other harmful object. It gives no discomfort, and will some times stay in the eye twenty-four hours before it has fully done its work .- [Rehoboth Herald.

A "Cockney" farmer is a failure, according to a decision reached by a London Board of Guardians after an experiment just made. Ten able-bodied inmates of a workhouse, clad in appropriate agricultural costumes, were sent, the other day, to Gen. Booth's colony at Hadley Farm. The next morning seven indignant men from Poplar walked into Castle Inn. They called for beer. "They want us to plow and 'arrer," said one, in an outraged tone, "and want to make countrymen o' us. Nice thing, ain't it?" All walked back to London.

In some tropical countries the natives have unique ways of trapping the monkey. One of them, as explained by a traveller, is this:

The hunters walk about in short boots in sight of the monkeys. Then they take the boots off, place some gum in the bottoms and leave them on the ground, withdrawing to a great distance themselves. Presently the monkeys come down from the trees, try on the boots, and when the hunters come after them, the boots stick to them. They are unable to climb and are thus captured.

"Father," asked Tommy the other day, "why is it that the boy is said to be the father of the man?

Mr. Tompkins had never given this subject any thought and was hardly prepared to answer off-hand.

"Why-why," he said, stumblingly, "It's so because it is, I suppose." "Well, pop, since I'm your father, I'm going to give you a ticket for the and half a dollar besides. I always said that if I was a father I wouldn't be so stingy as the rest of them are. Go in, pop, and have a good time while you're young. I never had any chance myself!" Mr. Tompkins gazed in blank amazement at Tommy. Slowly the significance of the hint dawned upon him.

Producing a silver dollar, he said: "Take it, Thomas. When you really do become a father, I hope it won't be your misfortune to have a son who is smarter than yourself."

This fish-story is told by ex-President Cleveland about a shopkeeper in a town visited by the ex-President last summer on a fishing excursion.

For the purpose of advertising fishing rods, which he had for sale, the shopkeeper had a large rod hanging outside his shop, with an artificial fish at the end of it. Late one night a townsman who had been dining a bit too well happened to see this fish. He looked at it, then went cautiously to the door and knocked gently.

"Who's there?" demanded the shopkeeper, from an upper window.

"Sh-h! Don't make a ncise, but come down as quietly as you can," was the reply.

Thinking something serious was the matter, the man dressed and stole, down-matter?" he in-Non. quired.

"Hist Pay you line in quick; you've got a bite " gamonished the bibulcus one.
