Sydney Case Today---Sir Wm, Var SYDNEY, July 31-Sir William Van Horne was seen by a Star representative last evening in his private car. He busily engaged in a game of solitaire, and when the Star suggested that the game was sometimes as hard to win as a lawsuit, he agreed laughingly. "Is it true as stated," the Star asked, "that the Coal Company has a controlling interest in the Steel Co." indeed," he replied, "there "No. absolutely no truth in the report. Admitting they have all the stock and proxies they claim, they would have about one-quarter interest and maybe not that much." He refused to say why the annual meeting was postponed, and referred the Star to Mr. Plummer. Neither would he discuss the situation of the Steel Company .. "Is it true that when Mr. Whitney was president of the two companies he made a losing contract between the companies knowing it was a losing contract?" "The matter will come out in the evidence. I have nothing to say." Sir William does not know how long he will remain in Sydney but it will be some days as he wishes to look over the steel plant, which he has not seen for a number of years. In reply to a question made about some enterprises he is interested in, he said that he is getting old now and wants some time for himself, and he is just now getting out of enterprises. He will go from here to Passamaquody to his summer residence.

When he retires from active life he will remain in Canada which, he says, is good enough for him, and where he will spend the rest of his days. "If I see you at the end of the trial I shall. be glad to give you a better story. I sleep in the car because the noise of the car is something I an used to and

When asked a direct answer by ex ing. "Look here," said Mr. Ritchie, "the common every day witness has to answer on the witness stand, and you will have to do the same." Sir William. replied: "I am perfectly willing to answer your questions. What is it?" Then the question was repeated, and William," said Mr. Ritchie. "if you have no constitutional reason for refusing, I wish you would answer my questions. Some of Mr. Ritchie's ques-tions approached impertinence, so much so that ex-Judge Nesbitt stated that if this manner of examination was persisted in there were some men on the other side who were vulnerable when it came to asking questions. The judge interfered several times and ruled out questions. It was with a great sigh of relief that Sir William slipped The trial promises to become a question of the Coal Company's right to break the contract with the Steel Co. W. B. A. Ritchie, of counsel for the Steel Co., laid it down as a principle of the law that in a contract one side has no right to refuse to carry out its provisions unless the other side does some thing in-consistent with the agreement He claimed when the Stee! Company refused to take some coal, claiming that It was not up to the standard, the Coa Company should not-have neglected to send in a supply, but should have continued as usual, and they would have then a remedy in an action against the Steel Company for refusing to accept the same if the coal was decided to be such as called for by the The connection of the National Trus Company complicated the case. The are trustees for the bondholders, and the ratification of the contract by the provincial government makes the abro gation more serious. The trust people did not, nor were they asked to give their consent to this last breaking o the contract between the two corpora tions. The force of this position can b seen if it is imagined what would hap pen if the Steel and Coal people wish to act in collusion. Supposing the Stee Company had agreed with the Coa Company to break the contract with tradulent intent, the bondholders would have a right to step in and say n They would have a right to be protecte matter as it was upon th strength of the contract remaining in force for the full period of ninet years that the bonds were bought b the people for whom the Trust Con pany is trustees. The contract was good asset of the Steel Co., in-as much as it ensured them a supply of coal for ninety years at reasonab The matter of the car ellation of the agreement then become of vital importance, not only to th Steel management but to the Tru It is thought by a number of person that the battle will hinge around th question as to the right of the Co Company to break the agreement. is the opinion of many that Domini No. 6 is on the Phelan seam, but it doubtful if this will be a factor.
