"The idea held for many years was that Rossland ores would not concentrate, and that tailings could not be profitably treated by any of the standard systems of extraction of gold values. We have been conducting a series of careful experiments during the last years to devise a means of treating the ores by concentration first and afterwards by some chemical method vis made various abortive efforts to get which will extract the metals from the tailings. We have succeeded beyond our expectations. Our laboratory tests, owed by 100 experimental charges, put through the mill at Silica, on Sheep creek, satisfies us that we can treat at a profit ores showing a smelter's gross say value as low as $5 per ton. This is about $5 lower than ore that will stand the cost of smelting. TO ERECT 200-TON MILL.

"As a result of the success of our ex periments, our directors have decided to erect a 200-ton mill, as a preliminary, to be followed by such enlargements as will enable us to treat War Eagle and Centre Star ores by a process combining concentration and cyanlding. We have not yet decided at what point the mill will be located, but tions are on foot which will settle that question within two weeks. Meanwhile the machiniery has been ordered and the lumber has been seasonig for some time. The structure will bers being damp and almost fireprost in most instances.
