THE SITUATION
 The Americans have made further progress on a thirty-three mile front, penetrating to a depth of three miles in some instances. They took much material including two hundred big guns.

British and French forces have both made satisfactory advances.
 The voice is Austria's voice, but the hands are the hands of Germany, can be as truthfully said of the latest peace proposal as Isaac of old said it of Esau. The Kaiser's ally and tool never made the suggestion except at his behest and with his connivance; would not have dared to do so. The truth of the matter is that as the world-be world devastators realize that the fighting is soon likely to be carried to their soil, they are anxious to escape the fate that during four years, they have inflicted on Belgium, a large part of France and other countries. They shall not thus easily avoid the day of reckoning which they have so abundantly earned. The loathsome foe must be brought to his knees in absolute submission. Anything short of that would be to besmear the proud record of the hundreds of thousands who have made heroic surrender of life for the sacred cause of human liberty. A peace with Germany, Austria and Turkey escaping unscathed would be a crime as big as that which in the first place led to the wanton launching of hostilities. The peoples of the Allied lands have made enormous and heartbreaking sacrifices that freedom and justice might prevail, and the iron must be made to enter into the very souls of the apostles of a bastard kultur before the reckoning can be called off.

HON. MR. CARVELL AND PORT DOVER HARBOR
 When it was announced that Hon. Mr. Carvell, Dominion Minister of Public Works, would pay an official visit to Port Dover, in order to inspect the harbor there with a view to improvements, the Courier ventured to point out that he was a man of very direct methods, and that a terse business presentation of the facts would be more likely to appeal to him than anything else. It is a matter for congratulation that the proceedings throughout were characterized by that tone. This was the first visit of the Minister to this portion of Ontario in his official capacity, and it is not too much to say that all with whom he came in contact were much impressed by his practical personality and ready grasp of matters.

As will be seen by the report of proceedings elsewhere in this issue, he did not hesitate to announce that he readily recognized the need of the improvements asked, and gave the assurance that work of repair would be at once commenced. With regard to the larger matter of harbor deepening and so forth, he could, of course, not pledge himself to anything without consultation with his colleagues, but he made the significant statement, "I have formed conclusions which I will endeavor to carry out." What those conclusions are, no one can say very much doubt. The outcome will unquestionably be that Dover harbor will be put in such condition as to fulfil its proper and natural destiny as a port of the most marked value to the people and the industries of this thickly populated portion of the province.
 All concerned are to be heartily congratulated upon the splendid and convincing presentation of the facts, and Mr. Carvell is to be equally felicitated upon the practical and common sense manner in which he grasped the needs and the possibilities.

GERMAN CAMOUFLAGING
 Mr. Morris, American Minister to Sweden, now at home in the United States on leave, warns the American people of the danger of being deceived by reports from Germany tending to encourage the belief that starvation is likely to drive the German people toward revolution. There is no doubt, he says, that in many parts of Germany there is a marked scarcity of food, and that the civilians are reduced to a minimum ration; but the people receive that ration and it is sufficient for subsistence. In the manufacturing districts, where population is congested, there is less food than elsewhere; but it is a mistake, he declares, to believe that this has produced a strong current toward revolution or any general lessening of the loyalty of the people. On the contrary, they still believe in the invincibility of their armies.
 To which it may be added that the idea on the part of quite a few that it is the Kaiser and his associates who have forced the Germans into the war and who are keeping them at it, largely against their will, is all moonshine. The Huns, as a people, were first as keen to get into the fray and the course of the All Highest was just what they ardently desired.

AN AUTOLESS SUNDAY
 The faith of the Dominion fuel department was fully justified by the request that Sunday riding should cease. The few who failed to respond to the suggestion might soon had cause to realize what it means to go against public opinion. The weather for the first Sunday helped of course to somewhat mitigate the denial, but that is no reason to believe that there would have been any less loyal observance of the edict had the day been of an ideal nature. This thing is a part of war service, and as such must appeal to anyone of normal intelligence as a very small sacrifice indeed. Sunday motoring, except in cases of absolute necessity, must stop, and will stop until conditions warrant a resumption.

NOTES AND COMMENT.
 As a matter of fact car owners on Sunday simply did what they auto.
 There wasn't any foot ensemble on Brantford streets yesterday.
 Carvell came and saw and concurred.
 It rains these days just about as easily as it didn't while ago.
 The proposed thanksgiving service in Zion church, in connection with the improved outlook of matters at the front is an eminently proper way in which to mark the dawn of the new era from the Allied standpoint.

Not how little but how much should be the attitude of all citizens of Brantford and Brant county in connection with this week of giving to the Merchant Seafarers and the British Red Cross.
 Germany now has the nerve to offer Belgium a separate peace. It does not take much imagination to divine how soon King Albert and his subjects will kick it down the back stairs route.

BOOZE PARTY BROKEN UP
Police Made Haul of Austrians and Port Wine Saturday Night

The second anniversary of the Ontario Temperance Act was being honored more in the breach than in the observance by a party of Austrians assembled at 100 Dalhousie street, whose revelries were interrupted by the police on Saturday night. The party had taken upon the wine—perfectly good port, too—where it was red until their vision had become obscured by a ruby haze, and a tress for all means approaching the proportions of a miniature riot ensued. Drawn by the sounds of revelry and carouse, a party from the police station, composed of Sgt. Donnelly, Detective Schuler and Constables Tyrell and Taylor, thrust themselves as unbidden guests upon the festivities and took charge of four Austrians (two, six wine bottles (ditto) and a number of empties. The arrival of the police was so timely that a foreign woman, who was one of the combatants on the losing side, raised a cry of "kamerad", embracing one of her rescuers and being restrained only with difficulty from like expression of her gratitude toward the other officers. Her effusive affection, however, was not sufficient to indemnify her against arrest, and she was escorted to the police station after the others, where she delivered an anti-British harangue.
 "English no good," she proclaimed vehemently; Germans good; Austrians good."
 In the police court this morning Steve Vorlich, George Demoyrtych, Louis Chuskevitch and Rosie Grubovich, the quartette arrested, faced charges of drunkenness and having liquor in an unauthorized place, and were remanded for a week.

Your Problems Solved??

 Dr. Linscott in this column will help you solve your heart's problems, religious, marital, social, financial and every other anxious care that perplexes you. NEW CITIZEN—Many thousands of dollars are spent outside of Brantford for goods that our merchants can supply as well as the larger cities, and at as good or better prices. Attractive advertising makes our people think that these special lines cannot be purchased here to as good advantage as elsewhere, and so our good money, in large quantities instead of being spent here goes to enrich larger places. This ought not to be and the people must be made to see that the money can be spent to better advantage at home. Our business men should do more advertising to keep this class of trade.

IN LOVE WITH THE GARDEN—"I've loved my father's daughter in love with his garden," says a young girl. "If your gardener is a man of character your daughter may do worse. If he is not then I would do my best to convince you of the error of your ways. What you may do, short of physical force, she will do for you. I'll keep up her associations with him or my hope is in appealing to her reason."

LABOR'S WAR
 has done very little to meet the wishes of the congress with reference to the increasing of the pensions of soldiers' recommends that the executive be authorized to press for amendments to the industrial disputes investigation act, urges that the committee be entrusted with the work of organizing women workers and suggests that the folly of expecting new industries requiring technical trained men can be successfully conducted in Canada without a progressive policy of technical education be pointed out to the government.
 In conclusion the executive council expresses "particular satisfaction at this gathering in the province of Quebec, the home of our French-Canadian fellow workers as it demonstrates the unity and universality of labor interests."

REPORT OF PARLIAMENT
 The report of President J. C. Walters, on his work as parliamentary representative, states that the record of the last session of parliament, the one-sidedness of the administration of the various departments of government together with the industrial unrest so much in evidence all herald the approach of a new day. Mr. Walters continues: "It is yet to be seen whether the new day will see civilization dead and the world of human beings thrown into a state of chaos; or whether a democracy will be born, such as that of which philosophers and poets have dreamed and sung and for which the slaves and serfs and poverty oppressed of all the ages have struggled."
 Mr. Walters' report gives a synopsis of all legislation dealt with at Ottawa during the last session of parliament and also details of what he has been called upon to play
