Additional Local

Messrs. F. A. Johnson of Brockville and Bert Soper of Frankville have embarked in the livery business in the county town.

On Saturday, at Brockville market, "artificial new maple syrup" was offered at $1.25. A manifestation of willingness to purchase, coupled with a little banter, would probably have shown the price, too, to have been tinctured with artificiality.

The proposed extension of the B.W. & N. Railway westward has lately been taking definite shape. Several weeks ago a staff of surveyors left Westport in a Northwesterly direction and now report having surveyed over twenty miles of the country through which it is proposed to run the road.

Miss Mary A. Holmes, Lake Elvida, passed away on Tuesday of last week at the advanced age of seventy-three years. This makes the third death in this home in past eight months. Deceased was the last surviving member of the family of late Richard Holmes, who attained the great age of 101 years.

Dr. Jackson was one of the speakers at the Teachers' Institute meeting in Brockville last week, and is reported by the Recorder as saying: Alcohol is in no true sense either a stimulant or a food. It is not a health-bringer nor a strength-giver. It cures nothing. It is a narcotic and deadens, first, last and always; and it is responsible for more disease, misery, crime and degradation than any other substance in use among the human race.

A copy of the Los Angeles Record of a recent date, received a few days ago, contains cuts showing a grand hospital (cost $25,000), library, pavilion, club houses, etc. in course of erection at Long Beach, Southern California. Dr. H. O. Bates of Chicago, who spent the winter at Long Beach, is a member of the hospital building committee. Mr. R. D. Judson, who is spending the winter in that section, has several times visited that famous winter resort.

The old problem of how best to drain that section of Henry street lying between the A.M.S. and St. Paul's church is again up for consideration. The water now stands 6 inches deep on the sidewalk and the road bed will become so soaked as to make it a mud-hole until late in the season. It has been suggested that a drain be blasted through the crown of the hill, a remedy that would prove at once effective and also relieve the rather congested condition of the drainage at corner of Henry and Wilton streets.

A party of surveyors has been engaged for two or three weeks back running trial lines for a railway to run from Prescott to the Georgian Bay. The men have examined McDonald's Corners, Poland, Watson's Corners and intervening sections and seem favorably impressed with the prospect. The plan is an extension scheme of the Brockville and Westport Railway which Mr. T. B. Caldwell, M.P., actively agitated some time ago.—Lanark Era.

The maple sugar season has not opened very auspiciously. It is found, that the deep snow has drawn nearly all the frost out of the ground, and notwithstanding the week of mild weather and rain we have had, the trees have yielded very little sap. A change to frosty nights and warm days would greatly improve the situation. There is time for a harvest yet. The big run of sap and red-horse suckers is scheduled for the full moon in April, the 19th.

Among the harbingers of spring that floated into town on Monday was the War Correspondent of the Brockville Recorder. His sojourn among the tall timber that skirts Fly Creek in its course through the bosky dells of Junetuck has afforded him time for reflection, and he emerges fully prepared to discuss from his viewpoint the various public questions that are agitating parliamentary circles in this commonwealth. He takes an independent stand on the educational clauses of the autonomy bill, and is prepared to make straight and smooth for Laurier and Borden a path to the peaceful solution of that vexed question.

For several months Mr. Thomas Hagerty of Chantry has been in poor health, so that he was unable to personally carry on the work of his farm. His condition troubled him so that recently evidences of dementia became manifest, and the family kept him under constant surveillance. On Thursday last he escaped their vigilance for a short time and slashed his throat with a pocket-knife, inflicting wounds from which he died shortly after. When found, his mind was clear and he expressed contrition for the act he had committed in a moment of mental aberration. Deceased was an industrious, highly esteemed farmer, and in the great trouble that has come upon the family they have the deep sympathy of the whole community.

Manual Training

A short but pithy paper on manual training was read at the meeting of Brockville Teachers' Institute by Mr. A. F. Hagerman. He considered its greatest value lay in its great adaptability for character-forming of the right sort. Originality of process, carefulness, neatness, accuracy and thoughtfulness should be insisted on. He did not lay great stress on the practical value side of this subject, though it does possess such a feature—Recorder.

Death of George Empey

With sincere sorrow, residents of Addison and Greenbush neighborhoods learned of the death on Friday last of Mr. George Empey. He had been ailing for about a year, so that his death was not unexpected. He was 67 years of age, and nearly the whole of his useful life had been spent in that vicinity. He is survived by his wife, who was a Miss Percival of Chantry, four sons, Benson, Howard and Waldo of the Canadian West and Percival at home, and Mrs. Mort Topping of Athens. Deceased was deservedly held in high esteem, and the bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of all. There was a very large attendance at the funeral service held in Addison Methodist church on Sunday. The pastor was assisted in the service by Rev. R. F. Oliver of Frankville, who added his tribute of praise and esteem to the worth of deceased. The remains were placed in the vault at Athens and will be interred at Wolford.

The Late Peter Brown

Very sudden was the call from this life that Mr. Peter Brown of Addison received on Wednesday last. He had been in poor health all winter, but his condition was not considered serious. On Wednesday he was sitting at the window conversing with his mother, apparently as well as usual. Mrs. Brown left the room for a few minutes and on returning found him dead in his chair. Years before a doctor had pronounced the condition of his heart to be such that his tenure of life was very uncertain, and though he did not speak of this, the thought was no doubt frequently in his mind. Of a gentle, obliging disposition, Peter had many friends and no enemies, and news of his sudden demise was received with regret throughout the neighborhood, wherein his forty years of life had been spent. He was a son of the late Ezekiel Brown, and leaves to mourn his death his mother, a brother, Philander Brown of Watertown, N.Y., and a sister, Mrs. Clow of Dakota. The funeral, which was very largely attended, was held on Friday last. An impressive service was conducted in the Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. H. W. Barnett, and interment was made in Elbe cemetery.

About 10.30 on Saturday last the fire alarm called out our fire fighting appliances to deal with a blaze that had started in the bakery of Mr. M. H. Eyre. The hose reel was run out and taken to the scene of the fire. Mr. Freeman was speedily at the engine house with his team, but hitching it to the engine occupied several minutes and drawing it over the heavy roads was also a slow operation. When the engine arrived at the Mill street tank a couple of men with shovels were strenuously but vainly endeavoring to find the opening thereto, which was buried beneath a foot of snow. At length they were successful, and the suction pipe was dropped in. About this time it was discovered that the hose had been laid with the wrong end to the engine. To reverse this was not an easy or rapid operation, and by the time it was accomplished and the water started through it the fire had been extinguished by a bucket brigade.

The fire was discovered before it had made much headway, and though the interior of the attic near the chimney was badly charred the damage on the whole is slight. How it started is not known.

There are a number of valuable morals that might be drawn from the inability of citizens to render any assistance with the fire fighting outfit on this occasion, but they are so obvious as not to require pointing out. We might just say, in response to criticisms offered in connection therewith, that it is not now and never has been the duty of any officer of the corporation to see that the different tanks are accessible in winter. Spasmodic efforts have been made along this line, but no one person has ever been charged with the responsibility.
