Highway Labor and Highway
Labor law.

This is the season when our local road builders are busy repairing and improving our public highways. In no one branch of industry is there so diversified opinion as there is in the professional nan in the country thinks he knows exactly how our roads should be built or repaired and at the same glime believes that the neighbor does not. The system of expending the road tax is open to many objections as well as the method of expenditure lies in the practice of changing overseers every year and another in the indiscriminate appointment of them without taking into consideration their ability to perform such duty. On overseer believes that the proper way to build roads over dike have seen in the opportunity will widen out the road bed, making it as flat as possible and despening the ditches. One class believes in throwing the dirt from the ditches into the center of the street, while others believe in having it all taken away. Some believe that the proper way to build roads over dike the pr surprise to many that a statute to inconsistent as the highway labor statute appears to be should so long be allowed to remain in our Statute Book. We have no tax of greater magnitude than our statute labor tax and certainly ter. We have some friends here so none that has so diversified a range of we will stay awhile. Rochester has application.
