Devotion To The Sacred Heart

The devotion of the Sacred Heart during the month of June is rich in indulgences and spiritual blessings for those who follow the requirements for the gaining of these. Extraordinary indulgences are granted for the solemn dedication of the month. Among the indulgences and blessings which may be gained in connection with the devotion are:

1. A Plenary Indulgence (to be applied to the souls in Purgatory) may be gained on the last Sunday of June in all pious places where the month is celebrated. This means that the faithful can gain a Plenary Indulgence on that day for each visit made to these places. It is not necessary that they should have attended the sermons, neither is Confession or Communion prescribed. It suffices to be in the state of grace.

Those who promote the pious exercise gain an Indulgence of 500 days for every good work done to spread it or help toward a better celebration of the month, and a Plenary Indulgence for each of their Communion during June. All the Indulgences are applicable to the souls in Purgatory.

In 1899 Pope Leo XIII. commissioned His Eminence, Cardinal Mazzella, to write to the Bishops of the world a letter of thanks for their zeal in behalf of the devotion to the Sacred Heart throughout the month of June. In this letter it was stated that the Holy Father commended especially the custom of paying special and public worship to the Divine Heart. To encourage the practice he granted various Indulgences.

All the faithful who honor the Sacred Heart during the month of June by special prayers and pious practices, either publicly or privately, may gain an Indulgence of seven years and seven quarantines once a day. Those who practice this exercise in private each day of the month, or attend the public devotions, at least ten times, may gain a Plenary Indulgence once on the day they choose during June or the first week in July. For this Indulgence Confession and Communion are prescribed, and a visit to some church or public oratory with prayers for the intentions of the Holy Father.

Broadminded People

The same sloppy and stinky sentimentality that tolerates absolute divorce and sanctions legislation in its favor is evidenced in the alleged argument for race suicide or so-called birth-control. Some sociologists are teaching a course of rotten immorality that would make the pagans of ancient Rome blush for shame. The old Romans used to say, "Fiat justitia, ruat cælum"—do right even though the heavens fall. Mere expediency, the real or pretended advantage to individuals, to families, or even to society itself, can never justify disregard of moral principles, writes Rev. H. C. Henzel.

Society women who love poodle dogs and abhor babies are the frequent victims of novelty, sensation and maudlin sentimentality. They regard everything new as true. They send bouquets and scented notes to convicted libertines and wife-murderers. Their

Constipation

THE CAUSE OF MANY ILLS.

Constipation is one of the most frequent, and at the same time one of the most serious of the minor ailments to which mankind is subject, and should never be allowed to continue. A free motion of the bowels daily should be the rule of every one as it is of supreme importance to health that the bowels be kept regular. Keep your bowels properly regulated by the use of MILBURN'S

Blessed Virgin, and made a resolution to recite his Office daily. On Fridays, at nightfall, he might be found going barefooted to make the Stations of the Cross in the town.

His fervent piety won him the grace of a religious vocation. He felt the special call to the Society of Jesus. On September 24, 1816, he was received into the novitiate at Mechin. He made his special vows and was sent to Antwerp to begin the study of philosophy. There he remained a few weeks and set out for Rome to continue the same study, journeying 300 leagues on foot he arrived at the Roman College on December 31, 1818. He studied two years and passed to the third year class in philosophy in 1821.

He was chosen to participate in a philosophical disputation at the Greek College, which then in charge of the Dominicans. He opened the discussion with great perspicuity and erudition. Returning to his own college he was seized with a violent fever, of which he died.

Tercenary of St. John Berchmans

The anniversary of a famous Saint will occur this summer in the 300th anniversary of the death of St. John Berchmans, who passed away at Rome on August 13, 1621.

Though he was only 22 years and five months of age when he died, the life of this Saint is notable among those of the Saints. His piety shone to a remarkable degree in the short time which was his on earth, and he was especially notable for the great care which he took to perform ordinary tasks with extraordinary perfection.

St. John Berchmans was born at Diest in Brabant on March 13, 1599. From an early age his character was carefully trained. He was a favorite with his playmates, brave and open.

It is related that when John was seven years of age, M. Emmerick, his parish priest, remarked that the Lord would work wonders in his soul. While he was living with other boys at M. Emmerick's house he was noted for doing more than his share of work. He was eager to learn, naturally bright, and devoted to study time that he could properly spare from ordinary recreation.

At a very early age he was distinguished for his piety. When he was only about seven years old he made it his practice to rise early and serve two or three Masses with great fervor. He made pilgrimages to the sanctuary of Montaigne, near Diest, reciting the Rosary as he went, or meditating.

When he entered the Jesuit College at Mechin he was enrolled in the Sodality of the

THEY REACH THE KIDNEYS THAT IS WHAT

They are just what that name implies; a medicine for the kidneys, and the kidneys only.

Mrs. Mason, 549 Jones Ave., Toronto, Ont., writes:—"It is with great pleasure I tell you of the relief I have had since using Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered from terrible backaches and headaches, and could not get through my household work without sitting down. One day, while I was resting, a friend came and I told her of the terrible weakness I had. She advised me to get your pills, which I did. They gave me great relief, and now I am well and strong."
