

A POLICE MAGISTRATE.

A Temperance Deputation Approach the County Council on the Subject.

On Wednesday afternoon a deputation appointed at the Scott Act convention went before the county council to urge upon that body the necessity of requesting the Local Government to appoint a police magistrate with salary for this county.

D. D. Wilson, reeve of Seaford, introduced the deputation.

Mayor Williams, of Clinton, the first speaker, said he appeared before the council with great pleasure. He hoped the county council would fulfill the obligations the law intended they were to do. That duty was not a disagreeable duty; it could be made an agreeable one, and it would be in time a most pleasant thing to enforce the Scott Act fully. He did not need to dwell upon the reasons why the law was not enforced. Every man who kept his eyes open knew the reason why. The majority against the Scott Act was so large that if any man had such a vote for parliament or the county council he would not refuse to obey the will of the people and take his seat. (Laughter.) It was said that the expenses would be very great. He believed they would be rather light. For his own part he hoped the police magistrate would not have to issue a summons or do very much business. For a number of years the temperance people had been paying without grudge or complaint their share of expense for criminal business in this county, without being responsible for it, and now it is only fair that they get a portion of the expenditure in their interests. If the act went out of force the office would be abolished. He dwelt upon the injury done to the individual and the community by the use of intoxicants, and again asked the council to grant the request of the temperance majority.

Mr. Thos. McGillicuddy offered the following reasons for the council's acquiescence:—1. The Act had been passed by the two houses of parliament, and had been especially endorsed by the people. 2. A police magistrate is necessary in order to perfect the machinery for its enforcement. 3. The action of the council last year in asking for a police magistrate without a salary implied that. 4. The salary would only amount to about 1 cent a head or 5 cents a voter in the county. 5. The deputation represented the temperance majority. The temperance people were disgusted with the administration of the Scott Act. The council properly enforced until it had been tried at its best and found to be a failure. It was therefore clearly the duty of the council to see that the law was tested at its best, in the public interest. Mr. McGillicuddy also read a petition from the O. T. U. urging the council to act as desired by the Scott Act convention.

Rev. W. Johnson, (Episcopalian) of Goderich, said the council represented an important community. He dwelt more particularly upon the moral aspect of the question, and claimed to speak not as a member of the association but rather as one who sympathized with the movement upon which the Association was based. If this law, passed by the expressed voice of the people, was set at naught, then all law and order might also be set at defiance.

Mr. James Thompson, of Clinton, was glad to see so many of his former colleagues in the county council. As a temperance body the Association was only asking what the law gave the council power to do. The temperance people had rights to demand just as well as had the opponents of the law. The Scott Act people desired help from the council in this matter, with the assurance that if the Act does not work successfully under a salaried police magistrate, the law would be abolished at the end of three years. He defended the action of the police magistrate in resigning. He had to do so much work without salary, and he could not live on air. He pointed out the difficulty of getting magistrates to take cases in Scott Act counties. If the Act were fully enforced, and the convictions were abundant, the police magistrate could put almost enough money into the county funds to pay his own expenses. What was wanted was not a magistrate paid by the temperance people, but one who would deal out even handed justice as a public official. Every law was hardship to somebody, even down to the pig by-law, which in some places caused much trouble. As a temperance man he would never be satisfied until we had the law at its best—and that meant a paid police magistrate. If this was not given until the temperance people would go right on until they got their rights. If the council granted the request he would never again come before them to ask for a similar favor.

Licence Inspector Yates said the only efficient method of working the Scott Act was to have a thoroughly qualified police magistrate. It had been said that the county was full of good magistrates. He had known the magistrates of Huron for over 30 years; but it was very difficult to get magistrates to take cases, because they were so keenly, almost bitterly, contested. The Scott Act was a special law, special in its mode of information, procedure and application, and few magistrates could be expected to be sufficiently familiar with all its provisions to efficiently carry it out to its full intent. There were places in West Huron where it was almost impossible to get magistrates to act. From the conviction of any but a police magistrate there would be an appeal that put cases over until next fall, and no more cases would likely be taken by any such magistrate until the one appealed against was settled. That stopped the wheels of justice and tied the hands of the inspectors. He could sit at the council board, if he were a reeve who had worked and voted against the Act, and yet, without changing principle, vote for a salaried magistrate, because it would be an act of common justice. If after that the Scott Act would not stand upon its own bottom, it could go, for it would not be worth of support. So far it had not a fair chance. He quoted Judge Toms to the effect that the Scott Act being passed, it should be honored and enforced by constables and others as strongly as any other law in the country. With a police magistrate, the people would not be much troubled with paying money for his salary for a year or two, as the fines would pay for the enforcement of the law.

The clerk then read the letter from the Provincial Secretary showing that a police magistrate would only be kept in office in any case during the life of the act.

After thanking the council for the courtesy of an interview the deputation withdrew.

The matter will probably be decided by the council on Friday.

SPORT AT KINTAIL.

The Caledonian Games a Pronounced Success.

The third annual meeting for games and athletic sports, arranged by the Caledonian Society in celebration of the Queen's Birthday, took place at Lake Kintail, on the 24th inst. Queen's weather graced the occasion, the day being fine throughout, except a stiff breeze in the evening which, to some extent, interfered with the boat racing. The whole proceedings were gone through in a highly creditable manner, and were witnessed by a large concourse of spectators from long distances. Light refreshments and music were provided for the company, and a floor was laid for general dancing, which was much taken advantage of during the intervals. The music for this part was supplied by the brothers Frank and Thomas Doyle, whose execution on the violin gave great satisfaction. It is gratifying to note the progress manifested in all the entries, which is evidence of care and attention to practice since last year. The Caledonian Society has reason to be well pleased with its work and with the attendance of its members and artistic exercises. A noticeable improvement has taken place in bag-pipe music and Highland dancing, parts which invariably excite a lively interest. The judges in these branches were: Messrs. Finlayson and McIntosh, Lucknow, and Alexander Fraser, from Scotland. The following is the prize list:

Putting heavy shot (21 lbs)—1st prize, John Matheson, 33 feet, 4 inches; 2d, Jack Mackay, 31 feet, 6 inches; 3d, Alex. Matheson, 29 feet, 9 inches.

Alex. Mackenzie and Murdoch Mackenzie.

John Mackenzie and Duncan Mackay.

Owing to the wind blowing hard, the rowing took place under difficulties, but was a good specimen of oarsmanship. The result of the race was a tie.

The day's proceedings were brought to a successful close, all delighted with the enjoyment.

ON WORK.

"I was off work for two years suffering from kidney disease, and could get no relief, until advised by a friend to try B. B. E. I was cured by two bottles, and consider it a miraculous cure." The above is the substance of a communication from Wm. Tier, of St. Mary's, Ontario.

DANGEROUS.

Mrs. Pointer, of St. Catharines, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Diaber.

Dave Nivins has left here for Stainer. He will be missed by the boys.

Mr. McDonald, of Ingersoll, is on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. J. M. Roberts.

Two of our citizens, Messrs. Smylie and Fitz, have opened out a milling business in Ripley. We wish them success.

PROMOTED.—We are glad to learn that our genial friend, Capt. J. Malouin, has been promoted to the office of first major in the Huron battalion.

IMPROVEMENTS.—B. J. Crawford's new brick block, consisting of store and residence, is fast approaching completion. It is a handsome structure.—The brick work in the new Presbyterian church, owing to inferior workmanship, required to be taken down, but is quickly being rebuilt by first-class masons.—Wm. Finlay, one of our fashionable tailors, is erecting a dwelling house and shop.—Steve Stothers, blacksmith, is also erecting a handsome residence and shop.

Good boy, Steve.—John Martin is building a new driving stable. John has opened out a livery with choice horses and superb rigs.

SCOTT ACT.—Last year we had two licensed shops to sell liquor on medical prescriptions. It was then the nearly universal opinion we had one too many, and so we had. These licenses were taken away last February by the Ontario Government, and since then we have had no licensed shop. In a village like ours where there are two medical men we should at least have one vendor. It is very humiliating and decidedly wrong, especially for those of us who are strong Scott Act, to ask for liquor of men whom we know have no license. We know of several who have been unable to get liquor anywhere in the village for medicinal purposes. An appointment should be made at once, as it is a long way from here to Lucknow or Goderich.
