

Nature's Greatest Washers

The sea washes the world—Pears' Soap washes its inhabitants!

For over a century, Pears' has been making its way round the world. Ask for it in your local store; it is there! From the Cape to Cairo, in the bazaars of India, throughout Australia, Canada, the U.S., and South America Pears' has made its way with civilization,—on merits!

Pears' Soap is transparent because it is pure; it is the most economical soap because "it wears but does not waste." It cleanses and purifies the skin and freshens up body and mind.

Pears'

is not heavily scented. Its delicate perfume comes from pure natural ingredients; the difference is important,—it means again that Pears' soap is pure.

Preserving Our Inheritance.

That "Government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth" has again become the direct and personal concern of all who are loyal to the democratic ideal.

When its adherents and beneficiaries cease to safeguard it from the assaults of its enemies, democracy—as a governmental system and a social ideal—ceases to properly function.

When the will of law-defying minorities—such as the I. W. W.—can be enforced in sinister disregard of the rights of majorities, and the industrial life of the country paralyzed, little or greatly, it is time for plain speaking.

The marine workers, organized as a branch of the I. W. W., tie up the commerce of the harbor of New York. Their arbitrary action means the endangering of the food supply of six millions of people does not interest these strikers. They issue a statement attacking organized labor and its leaders and calling for "one big union" to replace all existing craft unions. They see in this plan a promise of autocratic power for their own leaders—power which would menace the life of the people far more gravely than would the triumph of political

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Really and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using the well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Spruce for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co. Toronto, Ont.

Lord Nelson's Sword to be Sold.

Patriotic Britons are beginning to shake in their shoes for fear that Lord Nelson's service sword, which is to be sold at auction in London, about the middle of December, may be knocked down to some wealthy American collector, whose long purse will enable him to outbid those whose desire it is to keep this most interesting historical relic in this country. Apart from its association with Nelson, who carried it in some of his fiercest battles, the old weapon has a most curious history. This sword, which was made especially for Lord Nelson, is a plain naval service weapon, 25¼ inches in length, and is still in the original black leather scabbard. It is accompanied by several affidavits vouching for its authenticity. It was evidently not worn by Nelson during the battle of Trafalgar, but was taken from his cabin on the "Victory," by Sir Thomas Hardy, with whom England's greatest admiral was talking when he fell mortally wounded. It was presented by Lady Hamilton to Alderman J. J. Smith, who came to her assistance in her days of bitter adversity. It was he who obtained her release on bail in 1814, from the King's Bench Prison, where she was confined for debt, and who assisted her to escape to Calais. "This will be the first of Nelson's swords to be sold at auction, and it undoubtedly will fetch a goodly sum. Nelson's log-book, sold under the hammer last summer, realized, it may be remembered, $25,000, but it is hardly expected. I was told at Sotheby's yesterday that the sword which is five inches shorter than the regulation length for a naval service sword, is believed to have superseded a still more historic one used by Lord Nelson, which is now in the United Services Museum in Whitehall. Since being presented by Lady Hamilton to Alderman Smith, the weapon has had strange vicissitudes. By Alderman Smith it was given probably in 1830, to one John Kinsley, described as a "constable," who helped to pack up Nelson's personal possessions when, after Lady Hamilton's death, they were handed over to the great sea-fighter's family.

A Prominent Prohibitionist.

The campaign for prohibition in Great Britain undertaken by Mr. Wm. E. Johnson of the United States, is proof of the man's zeal and tireless energy. Prohibition is not a popular cause in the Old Country. Mr. Johnson is, therefore, waging an uphill fight.

A little more than 57 years ago Mr. Johnson was born at Coventry, N.Y., but was educated at the University of Nebraska, and it was in Lincoln, Nebraska, that he began his career as a journalist, which later included a term in New York and in Chicago. Then he entered the service of the Federal Government of the United States, becoming the special agent of the Department of the Interior to enforce the liquor laws in Indian Territory and Oklahoma, and later chief special officer of the United States Indian Service. During three years he secured more than 3,200 convictions against violators of the liquor laws. He was nominated several times for public offices by the Prohibition Party. He has attended several international temperance conventions in Europe and is well known to the temperance workers of his own and other countries.

He has been a prolific writer, but practically all his works are devoted to various phases of the temperance question.

He is a member of the Presbyterian Church, a Free Mason and a Knight of the Pythias. His home is at Westerville, Ohio.

Who Invented Paper?

All the world knows that the Arabs transmitted from India to Europe, through Asia, the figures with which we do our sums, but it is not generally known that we also have them to thank for paper, says Harper's Weekly.

At various times the scholars of different countries have tried definitely to determine the real discoverer of paper in the eleventh century. It is to paper that we owe the renaissance of letters. From time immemorial something answering modern paper was used in China, where it was manufactured from silk. About the middle of the seventh century of our era there seemed to have been established in Arabia a manufactory of paper, and fifty years later the way was discovered to make it from cotton instead of from silk, silk being a rare commodity outside of China at that time, and cotton relatively plentiful. In the reign of Henry II. of France a Greek scholar was sent to Paris to arrange systematically a catalogue of antique manuscripts in the royal library, and a notation in his hand speaks of what was then known as "paper" as originating in Damascus. The later invention of making paper from flax, linen or hemp has been attributed to Italy and Germany, but there is evidence that it existed prior to the fourteenth century.

With the Scissors.

Now it is the Princess Marie, of Roumania, who, rumor has it, will become the bride of the Prince of Wales; but in this case there seems to be some foundation for the statement, for she is a constant visitor at the Royal Palace at Windsor. Princess Marie, who is attending school in London, is 20 years of age and one of the most beautiful girls in Europe.

Although his parole date was reached several months ago, Charles Ortner refuses to leave Sin Sing Prison, N.Y. His sentence was for four years, and he cannot be forcibly ejected from his prison home until the four years expire. The warden told Ortner, convicted of assault in Queens, that he could go, but Ortner continued to hang around the place as if he enjoyed it. A man was needed to tunnel a wall, and Ortner got the job, because he would not run away when he got to the other side of the wall.
