BELL ISLAND.

from the Aero Tennis Club, who, accompanied by some members, numbering in all over 100, arrived at Bell Island yesterday. The party left St. John's at 7.30 a.m. and arrived at Bell Island shortly after 9 o'clock. The visitors were met by members of the Bell Island Club's Committee and were escorted to the clubhouse. As the visitors saw the places on the island and passed the morning meeting friends, the 1.30 play started and the order of play was as follows:

Ladies' Doubles.
Miss R. Archibald, Miss K. Casey, Miss R. Grace. Score 6-3.

Gent's Doubles.
T. A. Brien, R. B. LeDrew. Score 9-7, 6-3.

Mixed Doubles.
Mrs. H. D. Archibald, Mr. L. O'Brien. Score 6-1, 7-5.

Ladies' Singles.
Miss G. Oke. Score 6-2.

Gent's Singles.
Mr. E. L. Oke. Score 6-2, 6-4.

Various games were well contested and were interesting to watch. The first series which has been played on Bell Island and the play was a win for the island by 2 to 1. This is the first time that Bell Island has had a win. The club has an ideal site for its courts being conveniently situated in the centre of a wood. The two dirt courts, although only 10 ft. square, are in very good order. The game was played on the grounds between the game the party adjourned to the Club house where dancing indulged in until midnight. The visitors left to join the Plover to return home. Owing to difficulty among the crew, the boat was unable to get away until 11 a.m. and did not arrive here until 1 p.m. The embarkation was made by the Dominion Pier and all of the boats made the descent by means of numerous steps and as it was the experience first impressions may be the best. A most enjoyable day was had by our folks and the members of the Bell Island Club proved to be the best of hosts and many attentions given by the various officials greatly added to the pleasantness of the day. It is hoped that a return game will be held here at a future date.—H.R. Standard, Sept. 1.

WHAT DO THESE WORDS MEAN TO YOU?

Here is something that is rather amusing to try when you have a group of people together. If you are the sort of person who likes to study people's tastes and reactions in their relation to character.

Take a group picture of pretty girls (see any Sunday supplement and you will surely find at least one such picture) and get everyone in your crowd to pick out (independently) the girl he or she thinks is the prettiest. The men as a whole will like a different type than the women.

Some women will pick out their own type of attractiveness (or the type they would be if they were attractive).

A few women will pick out the opposite type.

Some men will pick out their wives' type of charm.

Other men will pick out the opposite.

Altogether, as I said before, these and various other reactions make an interesting study.

And while you are doing it, note the words that are applied to the different types of faces. To my mind there is a very distinct difference in the meaning of the various words that describe feminine charm, and I often wonder if these words have the same value to other people that they have to me.

What "Pretty" Means.

The commonest word, "pretty," seems to me to describe the commonest type of good looks—features that match reasonably well, a clear skin, pretty hair, nothing striking and at the same time nothing objectionable, a general ensemble of well matched features and feminine appeal.

"Handsome" always suggests size to me. I wonder if it is the same with others. When I think of a handsome woman I think of a tall woman well proportioned but inclining rather to overweight than underweight, with well marked features and probably a high color.

What "Good Looking" Means.

A "good looking" woman suggests to me a healthy, well groomed woman with a good figure, a clear skin and good teeth, but lacking the regularity of features that one associates with "handsome" or "pretty."

The woman who is allotted the adjective "charming" or "attractive" is usually ruled out of the "pretty" class by some lack of regularity of feature and yet has something in her face, some charm of expression, some single fine feature that gives her strong appeal.

"Beautiful" Means Most.

"Beautiful," of course, is the golden adjective that sets the supreme crown on woman's brow. Paris gave the apple to the most beautiful goddess and received the most beautiful woman in the world, as his bride.

"Beautiful" means to me all that "prettiness" means with much more added. A homely woman may have moments of beauty but to be a "beauty" a woman must have perfect, or almost-perfect features, lovely coloring and something more. What is the something more? There you have me. There are many words for it, some people call it temperament, others character, others soul. Whatever it is it shines through the features and like the poet's candle "gives a lovely light." You know it when you see it but you do not often see it for there are 10,000 "pretty girls" to one "beautiful" woman.

Very Much Alive.

The Flour Mill proposition which was commented upon by the press some time ago is not a dead one according to reports. The site of the proposed mill is to be in one of the harbors in Random Sound, and the news is going around that those who are lack of the venture purpose to visit the place shortly to acquire further into the suitability of the chosen place. Those who are in touch with the promoters of the venture and who are in favor of it are more than hopeful that the mill will be started and will prove a paying speculation. Flour forms a large part of the food of the people, and the supply of wheat necessary will not cost as much in freight to this country as it does to European centres, while the labor of milling and packing is being given to our people. It is said that those on the back of the venture do not seek any bounty or guarantee from the Colony's revenue.—H.R. Standard.

A Beloved Vamp.
EVERYONE IS FOND OF BETTY BLITHE.

Betty Blithe, whose triumph in the role of vamp in "The Truant Husband," first Rockett special feature, was her title role in "The Queen of Sheba," has brought to the screen a new sort of vamp, and a dangerous sort at that. Dangerous because she makes her vamping so natural, so human, so enticing, so good humored and so wholesome, that the heroines, if there are any, haven't much chance for sympathy.

Betty's very presence is like a breath from a clump of wild crab-apple trees in full bloom. When you look at her she reminds you of the Ta-ra-ra Boom-de-ay song:

"A bright and stylish girl you see,
Belle of good society,
Not too strict, but rather free,
Yet as right as right can be,
Never forward, never bold,
Not too hot and not too cold,
Yet the very thing I'm told
That in your arms you'd like to hold."

Miss Blithe wants the fans to love her, so she just naturally makes her villainary lovable, like a naughty child, and behold a new thing in screencraft—a beloved vamp.

Also Miss Betty is modest. In "Sheba" she wears a costume which she describes as "a creation of dress stuff which, if packed into a trunk, would still leave room enough for my limousine and half a dozen wardrobe trunks." But she doesn't like the dress stuff.

After "Sheba" Miss Blithe will return to the Rocketts.

"The Truant Husband" is the attraction at the Nickel Theatre to night. It is released by the W. W. Hodgkinson Corporation.

Labor Party Selects Woman Candidate.

London.—That the political party which above all parties stands for the hard-fisted sons of toil should put forward as one of its parliamentary candidates a member of the social select and a woman at that, may be regarded as one of the significant signs of the times. It is not because of any dearth of good parliamentary material among its own rank and file that the Labor Party has adopted Miss Edith Picton-Turbervill as its candidate for North Tellington at the next general election. Miss Picton-Turbervill is the daughter of Colonel Picton-Turbervill of Ewenny Priory, Glamorganshire. Among the many claims of long descent, there are few among the British aristocracy who can trace their lineage so far back as can Miss Picton-Turbervill and find such a notable beginning of it. One of her ancestors was Sir Richard Turbervill, one of the 13 knights of William the Conqueror who settled in Wales soon after the conquest.

AN AUTHOR OF REPUTE.

Miss Picton-Turbervill is the author of "Christ and International Life" to which Lord Robert Cecil contributed a preface. Her social work abroad has given her an international reputation. She spent some years in India on behalf of the Young Women's Christian Association, and travelled for it in America and other countries. In stating her reasons for allying herself with the Labor Party, Miss Picton-Turbervill said: "The party has a definite, practical programme. Its policy is founded on Christian principles. It has been the chief champion of woman's entry into politics." If Miss Picton-Turbervill gets into Parliament she will not be on the same side as Lady Astor or Mrs. Wintringham. "My politics are not the same as theirs," she said, "but I am sure that on all things affecting the welfare of women and children we should find ourselves on common ground, although in many cases I would go further than they for the betterment of the working women. For example, I stand definitely for widows' pensions."

English Collieries Expect Coal Demand From Canada.

LONDON.—A question of immediate practical interest, raised in England by the American demand for British coal, is that of the capacity of the British Mining industry to meet the demands with the least injury to the requirements of other customers. The pressure continues to increase, and it is estimated that the American requirement will soon approximate 100,000 tons a day. The tonnage already taken up, however, does not justify that estimate, for the fixtures reported since the boom began represents a deadweight of between 600,000 and 700,000 tons only. A circumstance to be reckoned with in the advent of Canadian business. There are many indications of shortage in the supply of bituminous and anthracite coal from the United States on which Canada, under normal conditions, depends exclusively, and in the event of a continuance of the coal and railway difficulties in the United States, a strong demand for large supplies of English coal from Canada will doubtless soon have to be reckoned with. Coincident with the inquiries from America, there is a growing demand from Germany and the Scandinavian countries for Northumberland, Durham, Yorkshire and Scottish coal. These are markets in which South Wales competes only to an insignificant extent, but the more the northern coal fields export to the Continent of Europe, the less they will have for shipment to America, and the more acute will become the demands from the United States for Welsh coal. This gives rise to the question as to what the Welsh coal-fields can sell to America under existing conditions. The margin for the coal-exporting districts is about 600,000 tons a week. No arbitrary limit can be placed to the quantity which it is possible for the collieries to produce in a seven-hour day, but the circumstances under which trade has been carried on during the past 12 months go to show that it is not possible to improve to any appreciable extent on that quantity.

Springdale St. School, with a special Commercial High School C. H. E. Intermediate Dept., this year, and Preliminary, Primary and Preparatory Departments, will re-open on Monday, Sept. 4th, at 9.30 a.m.; the Junior Departments on Wednesday at 9.30 a.m.
