Glorious Hair In 90 Days Or Money Back

Women who wish to stimulate the growth of their hair should use Van Lee's Liquid Soap Shampoo. A glorious head of strong vigorous hair surely follows its consistent use, and consistent use is easy because Van Lee's comes fitted with a patent rubber applicator that feeds the medicament directly to the roots of the hair. And the flexible strips of the applicator bring a healthy circulation of blood to feed the hair roots. Buy your Van Lee's on Friday treatment plan. Money back if it fails.

YESTERDAY'S LATE MESSAGES

PROHIBITION DONE AWAY WITH IN RUSSIA.

MOSCOW, Oct. 5. After eleven years of partial prohibition, Russia became completely free on Sunday. Whiskey, brandy and liquors containing sixty per cent. alcohol, and vodka of forty per cent. strength, again appeared in cafes, restaurants and stores.

SECURITY CONFERENCE OPENS AT LOCARNO.

LOCARNO, Switz., Oct. 5. Security conference sessions are being held in the cantonal court room on the second floor of the Palace of Justice. The inaugural meeting was formally opened by Major Busca, of Locarno. After a speech of welcome he retired, as all sessions of conference are being held in private. The delegates arrived promptly on the hour in automobiles, led by Austin Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, who was followed in turn by the Italian, French and German delegates. M. Vanderveelde, of Belgium, spurred the luxury of a motor car and arrived democratically on foot. Cordons of police held back the crowds about the entrance of the palace.

GERMAN DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE THREATENED.

BERLIN, Oct. 5. President Von Hindenburg, Foreign Minister Stresemann and other members of the Government, received threatening letters prior to the departure of the German delegation to attend the Locarno security conference, it was admitted in official circles today.

RECOGNITION OF CAPITAL AND LABOUR UNIONS IN ITALY.

ROME, Oct. 6. A reciprocal agreement is announced whereby the confederation of Fascist Labour Unions and the general confederation of the industry will recognize each other as the only representatives of workmen and employers respectively in Italy.

GANG WARFARE IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. Two men are dead and a third dangerously wounded as a result of gang warfare in New York's congested East Side.

BOY SHOT DEAD BY PLAYMATE.

GUYSBORO, N.S., Oct. 5. Earl Skinner, aged ten, was shot dead by Philip Clyde, his playmate, in the latter's home here Saturday afternoon. The evidence at the inquest today stated that Clyde, after snapping the gun out of doors a couple of times, turned round and fired at Skinner, blowing the back of his head off and killing him almost instantly. The verdict of the jury concluded, "we cannot exonerate Philip Clyde and we believe the evidence to warrant putting him to trial for causing the death of Earl Skinner."

VAN KILLS ENGINEER.

MONCTON, N.B., Oct. 6. Edwin Bourgeault, thirty, representing the Boston Machinery Company, engaged in installing locomotive heaters on railway freight engines here, died in the local hospital late this afternoon from a smashed skull, caused when he was struck by a passing van while at work this morning.

No Liberal Candidate to Oppose Meighen

PROGRESSIVE CANDIDATE IN THE FIELD.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 2.—(By Canadian Press)—Liberals of the Portage La Prairie federal constituency met in convention here last night and decided not to nominate a candidate to contest the constituency against Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader. The convention decided to support the candidacy of Harry Leader, Progressive candidate, who defeated Mr. Meighen in 1921.

The resolution passed by the convention referred to the "accord with the Liberal views on the tariff," contained in the Progressive platform and stated it was "imperative" that the two low tariff factions in the constituency be united and declared the convention had decided to "unite our forces with those against the high tariff party."

Price of Milk

Editor, Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—In last evening's Telegram you published a letter from an "Unwilling Victim" on the price of milk. As one who sells milk I would like to ask the writer if a milkman has to work for the good of his health. First you have to pay $3.50 a sack for cornmeal, $2.50 for bran; then there is hay, a man's time, bottles, stoppers, wear and tear of horse and wagon. Then take a man with 12 cows: one with the other they don't average two gallons of milk a day; so there is less profit in milk than the writer tries to make the public believe. I would like to see the writer going from door to door in the winter time, in frost and cold, for nine or ten cents a pint. There is nothing about what people have to pay for but goods, it is all about the price of milk. The best way for the writer or any one who thinks they are paying too much for milk is to stop drinking it, as there seems to be a big demand for milk at present.
Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor,
Yours truly,
PRICE OF MILK.

Famous Derby Romances

More fortunes have been lost than won on the Epsom course, I suppose the record loss on a race was when Signorietta won the Derby—and the Oaks—in 1908. The horse, a rank outsider, was owned by the Italian millionaire, Chevalier Ginestelli. He started 100 to 1.

The crowd expected the King's colt, Perinotto's son Ferrer, to win, but the Italian's horse romped home, winning by a couple of lengths. It is an odd fact that Signorietta drew 13 in both the Derby and the Oaks.

One of the biggest sums ever won over the Derby was that which fell into the lap of a girl who was not even on the course. This was Miss Thomas, the Liverpool insurance office clerk, who in 1923 bought a Calcutta Sweep ticket for 1s. 4d., and won the first prize of £114,000.

A very lucky man was the boxer, bookmaker, racehorse owner, John Gully, better known as "The Gamble Chicken," from his prize ring exploits. In 1832 he won both Derby and St. Ledger, winning over £100,000 in the two races. Fifteen years before he had been earning a miserable living as a prize-fighter. He won the Derby again in 1846, and the Oaks as well, and ten years later he again won the Derby, besides carrying off the Two Thousand Guineas.

When Lord Chaplin, as Mr. Chaplin of Blankney, won the sensational Derby, of 1836, with his famous colt Hermit, he won a fortune and ruined a rival. The story runs like some incredible stage melodrama.

The young and dashing Harry Chaplin, a great "buck" sportsman, and man-about-town and an intimate friend of King Edward's, then Prince of Wales, was betrothed to the lovely young daughter of Lord Anglesea, Lady Florence Paget.

But the lady was fickle. After becoming affianced, she lost her heart to the handsome young Marquis of Hastings, and one day, shortly before the wedding day, as Mr. Chaplin and his bride-to-be walked down Regent Street on a shopping expedition together, Lady Florence, explaining she had to go into Swan & Edgar's to arrange for an alteration to her trousseau, left Mr. Chaplin on the pavement.

He waited patiently, but she did not return. Where had she gone? She had eloped with the Marquis! On the Piccadilly side of the shop he awaited her with a carriage, and within an hour she was his Marchioness.

The jilted Harry Chaplin felt himself to be the butt of the town. He conceived a black hate of Lord Hastings—and the Marquis returned his loathing with interest.

Four years later came the Derby of 1866, with Chaplin's colt Hermit, as hot favorite. For three months the trainer slept in the box, fearing foul play; but a fortnight before the great day the horse broke a blood vessel and the betting odds fell away.

No one believed the horse could recover in time. But it was placed on a low diet and nursed, and on race day passed with the rest in the paddock. Snow was falling. No one put a penny on Hermit on the course; Chaplin said nothing. Only he and his trainer and stable manager knew what the colt could do.

The horse got away, after a series of hot starts and amid terrific excitement. Hermit passed the favorite, The Palmer, beyond Tottenham Corner, and came down the straight an easy winner.

Chaplin won £140,000 and two side bets of £30,000 each, whilst his manager won £65,000. The Marquis of Hastings, who had betted against Hermit to the limit, lost £103,000, and was virtually ruined. A year or two later the Marquis committed suicide, and his young widow, then only 24, married another racing man, Sir George Chetwynd.

Do you want a round trip to New York for two or $1000? Round trip to Halifax for two or $250? Trip to Corner Brook or $100? Seventy Five Dollars, Fifty Dollars, Twenty Five Dollars? See ad. this issue.—oct1,31,1925

New Zealand and the British Navy

Proposal to Contribute Another Battle Cruiser Not Favored by Premier. LONDON, Sept. 25.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Christ Church, New Zealand, says the New Zealand Navy League is urging the Government to contribute a third battle cruiser to the British navy.

Premier J. G. Coates, in reply, says that New Zealand's navy defence has increased this year from 8 to 10 shillings, according to the correspondent of the Daily Mail, and that personally he thinks a steady development like this is better than precipitate action, such as the Navy League urges. He points out that constant charges are being made in naval defence, and besides he thinks a thorough reorganization of New Zealand's immigration system is more urgently needed than a third cruiser at the present time.
