

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Ottawa, May 15.

After one or two unimportant matters had been disposed of, Mr. Huntington rose, and alluding to the delay the House had sanctioned in regard to the investigations of the Pacific Railway Committee, said he had already experienced some of the difficulties and embarrassments he had predicted would follow the denial of his demand for an immediate enquiry.

At this point the Speaker interposed, and suggested without venturing to decide, that the course taken by Mr. Huntington was out of order, as the whole matter had been referred to a Committee.

Mr. Huntington was about to proceed, when Sir John Macdonald rose, and in a very earnest manner, protested against any disclosures being made in the House.

Mr. Holton reminded the Premier that the Committee had, by order of the House, adjourned to the 2nd of July, and therefore it was impossible for Mr. Huntington to take any steps except with the sanction or by order of the House.

Mr. Mackenzie urged that Mr. Huntington had a most undoubted right to be heard, if only in his own justification.

Sir John Macdonald declared he was quite willing to assent to any motion for the assembling of the Committee and receiving and inquiring any documents that might be forthcoming.

Mr. Huntington said this to a certain extent altered his position. He then alluded to the gross assaults made by the Premier on his (Mr. Huntington's) personal character and his social position, and contrasted the imputations then made upon his honour and credibility with the sudden and unexpected declaration of a willingness to accept any motion he might bring forward so long as the evidence might be withheld from the House.

Sir John A. Macdonald again rose, and in an imploring manner besought the House to give its protection to the Government and to refuse to allow the discourse to proceed.

Mr. Cauchon argued that there was no point of order before the chair, and that Mr. Huntington had an undoubted right to proceed.

The Speaker, after first announcing that he was not entitled to rule on the point, concluded his remarks by ruling that Mr. Huntington in reading the documents was out of order.

Mr. Huntington then continued his speech. After making reference to his personal connection with the investigation of the House, he undertaken to carry on, he proceeded to declare he was informed, and he believed the original papers were in the hands of a trustee under such circumstances that there was reason to believe they would be beyond the reach of the Committee when it met on the 2nd of July next.

Mr. Mackenzie moved the first reading of the Interim Election Bill. He announced the withdrawal of the Election Bill, which he said should be printed among the members during recess.

The House went into Committee of Supply, taking first the item of $350,000 for the Pacific Railway survey during the past year.

Mr. Mackenzie complained that no report of the survey had been laid before Parliament during the present session.

Mr. Anglin called attention to the fact that Mr. Sandford Fleming appeared to be acting in the double capacity of engineer to the Government and a Director of the Company.

Mr. Mackenzie pressed for information as to the demand for half a million dollars, and asked was the contract really made seriously, or was it a sham. If the former, why was the Government obliged to undertake the further expense of a survey which was by the Act of Parliament chargeable to the Company itself.

Hon. Mr. Langevin said the money was wanted principally to complete the survey and locate the line between Lake Superior and Red River.

Sir John Macdonald defended the vote. He showed the charge for surveys was the first charge on the capital of the Company, and argued that as the survey staff of the Company was organized, and its supplies provided, it would be a great loss to break it up and compel the Company to commence de novo next year.

had stated about Sir Hugh Allan to be true. The item then passed.

After some other items had been discussed, the House took up the vote of $0.142 for York Road stores, the payment of which was stoutly resisted by Mr. Mackenzie and others, and a division taken.

The item passed, but will be challenged again on concurrence.

Several bills from the Senate were passed, and then the House proceeded to concur in the reports of the Committee of Supply.

BASE BALL NOTES. The Palmerston "Lightfoot" Base Ball Club was re-organized on Friday evening last. The following officers were elected:—S. Ranton, President; J. Cross, Vice-President; H. McEwing, Captain; J. S. Wilson, Sec.-Treas.; W. Ranton, G. Watson and J. J. Reid, Committee.

A base ball match was played at Ganouque yesterday between the Unknowns, of that place, and the St. Lawrence Club, of Kingston, resulting in a victory for the Unknowns. Return match at Kingston next week.

In Philadelphia on Wednesday a very close contest took place between the Philadelphia and Athletics. They were tied on the 9th innings, and played another innings, in which the Athletics were beaten by 1. Philadelphia 5; Athletics 4.

A game was played in Baltimore on Wednesday between the Baltimore and Maryland Clubs. Baltimore 26; Maryland 5.

The Mutuals played with the Washingtons in Washington on Wednesday. Score—Mutuals 6; Washingtons 2.

A game between the Atlantics and Yale College came off on Wednesday, in which the college boys were beaten by a score of 15 to 12.

BASE BALL.—The season of base ball has set in in earnest, and anxious mothers, who have regard for the protection and safety of their sons' limbs, are condemning the game as being anything but a safe or exhilarating exercise.

Mr. Huntington said this to a certain extent altered his position. He then alluded to the gross assaults made by the Premier on his (Mr. Huntington's) personal character and his social position, and contrasted the imputations then made upon his honour and credibility with the sudden and unexpected declaration of a willingness to accept any motion he might bring forward so long as the evidence might be withheld from the House.

Mr. Mackenzie urged that Mr. Huntington had a most undoubted right to be heard, if only in his own justification.

Sir John Macdonald declared he was quite willing to assent to any motion for the assembling of the Committee and receiving and inquiring any documents that might be forthcoming.
