Bible Study and Equipment for Service," to be held at Northfield, Mass., this summer. From this letter we quote the closing paragraphs:

Encouraged by the manifest tokens of God's favor in all the autumn gatherings time the first memorable convocation, and confident of this very thing, that he who met us in power in former days, and who is "able to do exceeding abundantly above all-that we ask or think," will not fail us in the days to come, we have again arranged for a ten days' conference at Northfield, from July 31 to Aug. 9. At this meeting a number of God's honored servants from this and other lands, whose praise is in all the churches, will be present as "helpers of joy" and ministers of grace. Among them are the Rev. A. J. Gordon, D.D., of Boston; Professor Morehead, Major D. W. Whittle, Dr. Charcus Rainsford, of London; Mr. John G. Wooley, Mr. George D. Mackay, of New York; the Rev. Mr. Gumbart, of Boston, and others. The leaders of song will be Mr. Ita D. Sankey and Mr. George C. Stebbins. All Christians who long for a closer communion with God, and more spiritual wisdom, zeal and power to do his work, are most heartily invited to assemble with us.

Board may be obtained at the Seminary buildings during the time of the meetings for $1 50 a day, to secure which please address me. Accomodations may also be obtained at the new hotel, "The Northfield," by applying to the manager, Mr. Samuel Grigg, Yours truly, D. L. Moody.

CHRISTIANITY IN JAPAS.

The following extracts from a private letter written from Tokio, Japan, by the Rev. J. T. Yokoi (best known in this country by the name of J. T. Ise, which he has changed by permission of the Government to that of his father) will have an intorest to our readers. The history of Mr. Yokoi's conversion to Christianity, his studies in this country, and the work he has undertaken in Japan, has already been given in the columns of this paper:

Dr. Neesima's death was a great blow to the cause of Christian education in Japan. We had to send one of our best men to Kyoto

He is yet a young men, but is well read, and has a large experience in exanglistic work and in meeting and coming into contact with the educated men of the country. We pray most carneaty that his administrations will be a success, and under him the school will grow in all things. We are going to add the scientific department at what we had hitherto—e.g., preparatory department of the college-the colleg

Since I got home preaching to a small (on smallness of the meeting-ho of Chrisingly appreciative audience, and I am in every way encouraged that my undortaking will be a success. In a few days a final contract for the purchase of a fine piece of land in the very best locality will be signed, and very seon I will begin to build. The new church will seat probably only 800 people, and that will be sufficient for my present purpose. I feel very grateful for all those who have helped me, and nothing will gratify me better than for me to report to you and others that the new church enterprise was a success.—[J. T. Xoki [J. T. The JEW OF THE NINETERTH CENTURY.
The missionary zeal of the American Protestants is so great that they do not despair of the conversion of the Jews, and pending their pending their conversion they are quite prepared to speak civilly of the descendants of Abraham. An instance of this is afforded in Dr. Stracy's article in the Missionary Review for March.

Review for March.

The change in the position of the Jew within the last half century is one of the most remarkable character. Fifty years ago the Jew was inert and imbedie. Now he exercises a power greater than in the days of David or Solomou. The Jews to-day influence more people, control more bullion, and exercise more legislative power than they did when they had their temple, their land and their sceptre. They have been stationary for eighteen centuries and hunted into obscurity. To-day they attract wider attention than ever before in their history. It is astimated by those who that the second of the secon

As a lamp is more conspicuous in sur-rounding darkness, so a saint in abounding wickedness. A minister of Christ might, with great propriety, begin every sermon with, "I have a message from God to thee."

We are justified, not by giving anything to God of what we do, but by receiving from God what Christ hath done.

Matthew Henry says: The happiest lite on earth is one that is spent in the service of God, and in communion with God.

The blood of the cross is the groundwork of the intercession for us, the spirit's work in us, and the glory prepared for us.

Deep, intense, personal love for Christ, springing out of an apprehension of his boundless love to us, is what we should ardently long after; for what will not love accomplish!

If faith everywhere resists, and every-where outlives all the denials, all the doubts, and all the darkness which oppress mankind, it is that man bears within him-self an imperishable consciousness of the enduring bond which connects him with God and God with him.—(Guizot,

According to the Cologne Gazette, the German doctor Alanus, notorious for his advocacy of vegetarian diet, has become a advocacy of vegetarian diet, has become a pervert, and has returned to a mixed diet of flesh and vegetable food. He owns that one brutal fact has overturned all his theoretical preaching; that after having been a vegetarian for a number of years without feeling any bad or good effects, he suddenly observed that his arteries began to show signs of degeneration. Being still a young man this morbid symptom was not due to old age, therefore Dr. Alanus put it down to vegetarian diet.

Commander Field, R.N., in reply to a representative of the Newcastle Leader, says that under ordinary circumstances it says that under ordinary circumstances it is extremely difficult to get a boy into the British navy at all, and a proof of it is the high medical and social standard required, and which there is no disposition to abate. A proof of this was given by the Commander. He told the writer that at Sunderland between 40 and 50 boys applied for admission into the navy, but only one passed the medical tests. That, he admitted, was somewhat exceptional; but he "never saw"

Mrs. Edith G. Overend, sister-in-law of the rector of Enniskillen, writes to the Dublin Freeman's Journal: I find some of the customs of this country very strange. I am here on a visit from New Zealand, and I am not two days in town till the police have been making inquiries about me, even in such a public place as a bank, as if I were an escaped convict or suspected of felony. Why should I, or any lady, be subjected to such an indignity? Need I say I am a Protestant, and while politics should not deprive me of the liberties of a citizen, they are not Nationalist, for being a colonist I know little of the Irish controversy. But it would be well that colonists and English people should know that British citizens cannot move about in broad daylight without being the subjects of police surveillance.

Marriage in Heligoland, the British island just ceded to Germany, off the coast of which it lies, is, as it ought to be, a weighty matter. For reasons peculiar to the country, rushing into matrimony is not possible. There are so few houses, and the space available for new ones is so restricted, that an engaged couple are obliged to go on courting until a householder dies and a house is thus liberated. No gentleman must give a lady his arm unless and until he is betrothed to her. Once married the young men about town in Heligoland are safe from judicial vengeance for past amatory indiscretions, since an action for breach of promise cannot be brought against a married man. The law is very rarely broken; there are no Irish in the Island. But in Heligoland there is not always prison for "him what steals what isn't his.". The Islanders object to the expense of boarding prisoners. Consequently the jail is usually empty. Thrice happy Heligoland — no lawyer, no breach of promise, no going to jail. No wonder the Germans covet it.
