THIS IS SAD. Writing from Pretoria under dete of March 23, the New York World's special correspondent, Howard C. Hillegas, says that hundreds of Boers are casting about for a suitable country to which they can go if they find it desirable. State Secretary Reitz said: "If the English take these republics and raise the Union Jack over them, I will take my family to America.

THE BOER STRENGTH. Referring to the size of the Boer army, the same writer assumes that $6,000 men are under arms today, and "But it must be taken into account that every Boer is an army unto himself, and that every one is mounted on a fleet horse, which can sustain itself on the grass it finds everywhere, and that there is no extensive commissariat to prevent the Boer from dashing up, delivering a blow, and escaping in time to prevent the enemy from doing much damage to him."

KRUGER'S ONLY HOPE.

New York, May 3 .- Howard C. Hilledated Pretoria, March 26, which says, in part: "President Kruger knows as well as any other person in the Transvaal, and perhaps better than anybody, that the Boers' opportunity of winning this war by force of arms long since passed. He will not say a word, except to his closest friends, about how he happens to see a settlement that will satisfy both contestants-a settlement that appears to the lay mind as inconceivable as the supposition that the British will withdraw all their forces from the country to-He will talk to newspaper men for hours on every conceivable topic except this, but to every question on this topic he will reply simply:

"Wait and see."
"State Secretary Reitz will tell one that the president expects the war to end through the mediation or intervention of other countries, but Kruger has many secrets that is never confided to his state secretary."
"Three months are President Stevn

ed to his state secretary."

"Three months ago President Steyn suggested to Kruger that a deputation be sent to Europe and America to arouse sympathy with the Boers, and, if possible, to stir up intervention. Kruger replied that Dr. Leyds was better than a dozen deputations, but two weeks ago, because of Leyds' inability to do anything of importance, the Transvaal executive gave his consent. The German steamship Kalser was in Delagoa Bay on her way to Europe, when the decision to send a deputation was reached, and three men—A. D. W. Wolmaranz, a member of the Transvaal executive council; C. H. Wessels, the executive council; C. H. Wessels, the president of the Free State Volksraad, and A. Fischer, a member of the Free State executive council—were sent to Lorenzo Marquez in a special train.

The instructions telegraphed to the deputation, if carried out by the three man are President Krugar's only become men, are President Kruger's only hope. If they succeed in doing what they are sent to do, President Kruger's proph-ecy will be fulfilled. This prophecy, addressed to his troops in Natal early in on with as much courage as you have been fighting. Continue for two months longer, and I will guarantee that we will have a peace that will be honor-

The only hope the Transvaal has is reposed in the deputation, and one supreme effort is being made to prevent the British army from setting foot on Transvaal soil until Wolmaranz, Wessels and Fischer have carried out their plans. Then Kruger will sue for peace and depend upon France, Germany and Russia for the assistance he requires in order that this, his latest and only unfulfilled prophecy, may be realized."

The audience little suspected that the gayety and sprightliness in his portrayal were but the mask of a grief that threatened to drive the actor's lines from his mem-ory and disorganize the presentation of the first production of the play in Chicago. When Wayne entered his dressingroom and began making up for his part in the night's performance, he took with him the knowledge that there was little hope of his wife's recovery, since she had undergone a serious operation. Just before the curtain rang up word came that she probably would die before morning.

Between his appearances on the stage he was at a telephone keeping in touch with the news from the hospital of his wife's condition. Several times the call boy had to lead the excited actor back to the wings and fairly push him on the stage.

At the conclusion of the performance Wayne hardly stopped to alter his make-up before he was speeding to the hospital. He found his wife so weak that she was unable to speak, and scarcely recognized him. At 4 o'clock in the morning, or about four hours after Wayne had reached the hospital, his

Ottawa, May 2.- In the couse today the vote of $141,000 for the fund subscribed to the Ottawa-Hull fire sufferers came up for consideration in its final stage, and finally passed. The question of how the funds could be best administered was also discussed. Mr. Foster, in committee on the measure, said a leading banker had made an excellent suggestion to him, which he thought was calculated to bring about an amelioration in the condition of affairs in the burned district, and to prevent the erection of buildings which would invite conflagration. The suggestion was that a trust be formed, which should have placed at its disposal say $20,000 of date, $122,332—total, $898,172, all charged dition of affairs in the burned distrust be formed, which should have placed at its disposal say $200,000 of the general relief moneys. That trust the general relief moneys. could borrow a million dollars at say 4 per cent. The idea would be to loan money to those who had been property-owners to enable them to rebuild, the loan to cover, say, two-thirds of the cost of the building. No interest to be charged for the first five years, but after five years the same rate of interest to be taken as was paid or the million dollars loan. After the five years, the principal to be paid in ten annual instalments. In this way it would be possible to assists deserving persons to rebuild substantial homes, and work a revolution in the devas-tated district. demned private did. Mr. Borden said it was difficult for him to see what good purpose Col. McLennan expected to serve by bring-ing this matter up in this way. The colonel had himself stated that from his knowledge of British officers he considered that it was impossible for hellton, $75; Clachan, $133 85; Copen-hagen, $70 95; Culloden, $183; Cowal, had he brought it up? McLennan had read, stating that the volunteers who had gone out to South Africa were handed over to the imperial authorities, and that they enlisted as members of the Can-adian militia. This might imply that they were handed over against their will to the imperial authorities for Everybody knew, Dr. Borden said, that the general orders, which were published, gave the exact terms of service upon which the men enlisted, and under which they are now serving. This was a matter of discipline in the imperial army, and he was sure, unless there were reasons of the most serious character, Col. Mc-Lennan would not ask this government to interfere in the slightest way with the question of discipline in the British army.

Col. McLennan said he had not the slightest intention of finding fault with the government, whom he believed desired to do what was right. Mr. Fisher, in reply to Col. Prior, said there was a large amount of smallpox in Republic Camp, south of British Columbia, and that physicians were examining all persons coming into British Columbia. He was aware that a good deal of a mild type of smallpox, known as perambulatory smallpox, exists in the United States. While quarantine officers did not consider it dangerous, they were taking precautions. As to the particular case men-tioned by Col. Prior in Winnipeg, he explained that the patient, a man, pass-ed through quarantine at Victoria, and remained in Vancouver three came east to Winnipeg, but became so ill that he was taken to the general hospital. There the physicians did not recognize the disease as smallpox until after the man's death. # The Secret of Happy Motherhood is Found in the Use of the Great Restorative-DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD—It Makes Women Healthy and Children Robust.

It is the delight of every mother to see the children strong, healthy and happy. She cannot expect them to be so unless she is in perfect health during the expectant period. Then it is that the future health of the child is decided.

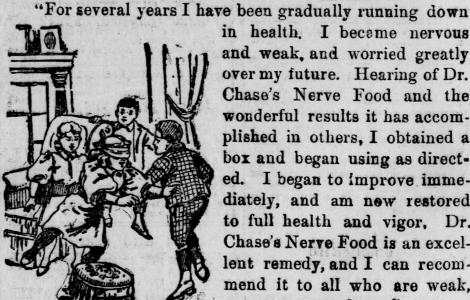

If mothers realized their duty to themselves and to their unborn child, their health would not be so neglected, and there would be tewer weak, puny, nervous children. It is rich, red blood and steady nerves that beget healthy children, and these foundations of good bealth come with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Here are quoted letters which illustrate the wenderful beneficial effects of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food on women and children. It is the greatest restorative knows to physicians today.

Mrs. J. M. Bradley, 100 James St., Ottawa, writes:

Newspapers. [From Newspaperdom:]

Answering the queries of a correspondent, who asks, among other things, 'Can a daily newspaper be published in accord with the teachings of Christ?" the New York Sun asserts that, as a matter of fact, newspapers are just as much in such accord as is any other form of business or the conduct of mankind generally. Indeed, says the Sun, newspapers are governed by principles more elevated than those which the run of men apply to their conduct. "They are better than the public; and their influence, as a whole, is to lead up to a higher moral plane."
