Water Baker & Co.'s Cocoa.

Unquestionably the most valuable property of existence is health and everything coducing to a perfect state of health is of interest to the public. In this connection one of the most interesting of the exhibit at the American Institute Fair in New York this year is that of Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast Cocoa and Chocolate preparations. Their method of manufacture, unlike the Dutch process, does not admit the use of any chemicals, dyes or alkalies and therefore produces not only an absolutely pure but an absolute provided by W. Baker & Co. as their trade army of the exhibit in itself is a work of art; the booth, in white and gold basques, pink lace caps and white aprons (the exact costume of Liotard's celebrated painting "La Belle Chocolatiere," adopted by W. Baker & Co. as their trade mark), and the tasteful array of the goods form the most striking attractive exhibit in the whole fair and one that will well repay every visitor's attention. As an American institution fighting the fight of health against adulterated products Walter Baker & Co. deserve the support of every consumer of cocoa and chocolate in this country.

soon as the starter thinks that the moment has arrived for him to start the horses he will press a knob of the apparatus and the flag will drop. The starter may either stand on the ground or be in a vehicle, or on a platform. It is claimed for this invention that no jockey would be favored by position, so far as getting a better sight of the flag is concerned. It would, of course, be necessary to have the apparatus fixed at each of the starting points. A permanent wire runs underground, and on race days it will only be necessary to connect the flag handle with the post, and on the starter taking up his position to connect the wire from his battery with the permanent one underground. Should this invention be found to answer, the starter will have the flag under his own immediate control."
