The indefatigable farmer, notwithstanding the late crops of wheat have failed to a great extent in some districts, through the blight or rust, is again busy in committing to the soil the seed for a future crop, in the expectation of a more favorable result, but we believe that generally, Spring Wheat will be more relied on than heretofore, whether wisely or not, can at present be but a matter of conjecture.

From accounts generally, we fear the root crops will be but light, more especially the carrot, the turnip, and the mangel. The continued drought of August put a stop to their growth in most places, which no future weather will enable them to re- cover, and in this neighbourhood, neither the roots nor the cabbage crop can show to advantage.

PRESERVING PORK.—The Genesee Farmer says: It is wrong to scald old brine for the purpose of salting meat, and that for eight years he assisted in putting down pork and pouring upon it the same brine without once scalding, and the older the brine the sweeter and better was the pork. The brine was always sweet, and had plenty of salt at the bottom. The pork was laid down in the usual manner with salt, and old brine poured back upon it. The advantages are a saving of labour and trouble.

Unfermented Bread.—I have used unfermented bread in my family for some time past. At first we made it by using the quantities of bicarbonate of soda and muriatic acid mentioned in the "Physician's" pamphlet, viz., to 3 lbs. avoirdupois of flour, 9 drachms of bicarbonate of soda, and 11½ fluid drachms of muriatic acid, apothecaries weight. We soon found a very great improvement both in the appearance and flavour of the bread by diminishing the quantities of soda and acid to less than one-third of the foregoing. As however, it was by no means desirable to trust so powerful an acid in the hands of servants, in order to avoid the trouble of having to superintend the weighing and manipulation of the ingredients, I conceived the idea of using a dry acid, which combining with the soda would disengage the carbonic acid gas and produce a tasteless and harmless salt. After a considerable number of trials I have adopted the following mode of making the unfermented bread which is now regularly used in my house. I carefully mix by sifting with the flour first tartaric acid, and next bi- carbonate of soda in the following proportions—viz.: to 14 lbs. avoirdupois of flour, 9 drachms of tartaric acid, and 11 drachms of bicarbonate of soda. Once mixed it will keep any length of time, and is always ready for use. Sufficient cold water to make it into dough rather thinner than ordinary; and immediate baking in a quick oven (either in tins or not) is all that is required to make it into bread. The superiority of this process over the former one is obvious. The bread is of ex- cellent quality, and is much admired by all who have tasted it. I have 10 stons of flour at a time mixed with the two powders, the cost of which of the best quality for that quanti- ty of flour is 1s. 8d., or 1d. for 7 lbs. of flour. For making brown bread it will be found necessary to use larger quantities, viz. 1 drachm of bicarbonate of soda with ¾ of a drachm of tartaric acid to each pound of meal. P., Camberwell.
