leaders, the whole were in their appointed positions by eight was put to a division and lost by a majority of 91. o'clock A. M., about a mile in front of Maharajpoor.

I found the Mahrattas had occupied this very strong position during the previous night, by seven regiments of Infantry, with their guns, which they entrenched; each corps having four guns, which they opened on our advances. This obliged me to alter, in some measure, my disposition.

Maj. Gen. Littler's column being exactly in front of Mahaor, I ordered it to advance direct, while Maj. Gen. Valiant's brigade took it in reverse; both supported by Maj. Gen. Dennis's column and two light field batteries.

Your Lordship must have witnessed, with the same pride and pleasure that I did, the brilliant advance of these columns under their respective leaders; the European and native soldiers ap-Pearing emulous to prove their loyalty and devotion. And here I must do justice to the gallantry of their opponents, who received the shock without flinching, their guns doing severe execution. cution as we advanced; but nothing could withstand the rush

Her Majesty's 39th Foot, with their accustomed dash, ably supported by the 56th Reg. N. I., drove the enemy from their guns into the village, bayoneting the gunners at their posts.— Here a most sanguinary conflict ensued, the Mahratta troops after discharging their matchlocks, fought sword in hand with the most determined courage.

General Valiant's brigade, with equal enthusiasm, took Maharajpoor in reverse, and twenty-eight guns were captured by this combined movement; so desperate was the resistance that very few of the defenders of this very strong position escaped. During these operations Brigadier Scott was opposed by a body of the enemy's Cavalry on the extreme left, and made some well-executed charges with the 10th Lt. Cavalry, most ably supported by Capt. Grant's troop of Horse Artillery and 4th Lancers, capturing some guns and taking two standards, thus threatening the right flank of the enemy.

In conformity with the previous instructions Maj. Gen. Valiant supported by the 3rd Cavalry Brigade, moved on the right of the enemy's position at Chonda. During the advance Maj. Gen. Valiant had to take, in succession, three strong entrenched positions, where the enemy defended their guns with frantic desperation; Her Majesty's 40th Reg, losing two successive Commanding of the control o cessive Commanding officers, Major Stopford and Capt Cod-dington, who fell wounded at the very muzzles of the guns, and capturing four regimental standards. This corps was ably and nobly supported by the 2nd Grenadiers, who captured two regimental standards, and by the 16th Grenadiers, under Lieut, Colonels Hamilton and M'Laren; too much praise cannot be given to these three regiments.

Major-Gen. Littler, with Brig. Wright's brigade, after sing the right of the enemy's position at Maharajpoor, steadily advanced to fulfil his instructions of attacking the main position at Chonda in front, supported most ably by Capt. Grant's troop of Horse Artillery, and the 1st Regt. of Light Carel. Light Cavalry; this column had to advance under a very severe fire, over very difficult ground, but when within a short distance, again the again the rush of the 29th Regt., as before, under Maj. I witnessed with much pride, the rapidity of the three troops of Horse Artillery, which hore a conspicuous part in this well contested action; their leaders promptly brought them forward in every available position, and the precision of their fire was admirable. With the two Light Field Batteries I had every reason to be pleased; they well supported the high character of the Bengal Art. Early in the morning, requisitions were made to the military authorities from two quarters for troops; from the Magistrates, for the purpose of preserving the general peace of the town and from the Returning Officer, with the like purpose of preserving the general communications of the different districts with each other, menaced and interrupted by hordes of ruffians party they hustled and obstructed, and, if they persevered, and even sometimes when they did not, most brutally maltreated though of horse artillery, and who charged by my orders a considerable body of the enemy's infantry, who were moving off from the right position of Maharajuoor. Two gun's and two standards rewarded this charge. I was likewise much pleased with a charge made by my personal escort under Cornet Stannus, which did great credit to himself and the small body of the 5th Light Cavalry, which formed it.

Several acts of individual heroism occurred on this day; none exceeded those of Maj-Gen. Churchill, C. B, Quartermaster, and all access to the poll by Mr. Molson's friends and the Government found the manufacturing interest too strong and the Government found t sent on Brigadier Cureton's brigade, to communicate to me the Income and the movement of the corps. These two gallant officers nobly fell, having received several wounds in personal rencontre. In Maj-Gen. Churchill, her Majesty's service will experience a great loss, but have just referred, one elector, attempting to get up to the poll, it may be said that the opening of the ope have just referred, one elector, attempting to get up to the poll, was thrown down, his clothes literally torn from his back, and he would certainly have been murdered but that the soldiery scued him, though not without inflicting some severe bayonet

The absolute impossibility of clearing the polls without ilitary execution, which must have been attended, not merely with the entire suspension of the election, but with the shed-ding of torrents of blood both of the innocent and the guilty, by indiscriminate firing, must have been evident to every one. The Returning Officer, Mr. Delisle, was incessant in his attenions in every quarter; but expostulations and menace were alike disregarded; his authority was utterly despised. In some instances, he succeeded in saving some of Mr. Molson's friends m the fury of the diabolical wretches who surrounded them by affecting to take them prisoners, and send them off under rescued. In this day's proceedings, as in the last, there would be no end of the task were we to attempt to enumerate specific outrages. The number of persons suffering from contusions or other more serious injuries is very great, especially considering that so little opposition was offered to the Drummondites, and their brutalities were altogether gratuitous.

The polls being deserted by Mr Molson's friends, and open to all who chose to go up in Mr. Drummond's name, a great names were of course, recorded without question in his favour (From the Montreal Courier.)

We have seen several English gentlemen, who have resided in the States for years, who say, that they have often seen riots at elections in New York and Philadelphia, which have been properly stigmatized in the United States papers, and alluded to by the British and Canadian press, as evidences of the want of authority in the Republic, but that the worst of these were mere trifles compared to the scenes that were enacted in this city during the last two days. The excuse always given by the American journals for the want of means to suppress these riots, is, that they have no standing army to assist the Civil powers-but, we regret to say, that the only excuse which our neighbours can plead for themselves, is here of no avail, as there was plenty of force at hand, which had it been called out earlier, and properly directed when called out, might have effectually prevented the atrocious occurrences of these two days.

(From the Montreal Transcript of Saturday.) Yesterday at noon, about one thousand persons assembled on the Place d'Armes, to hear the return made by Mr. Delisle, the Returning Officer. Accordingly Mr. Delisle made his appearance at the hour announced, and after stating the number of votes recorded, declared Lewis Drummond, Esq., duly elected to sit in the present Parliament. The announcement was received quietly enough, and the crowd immediately separated, a large portion returning to their business, and the rest fol-lowing Mr. Drummond to his house, where, as we are informed, some speechifying took place.

Thus ends the Montreal Election. Mr. Drummond, as a matter of course, takes his seat, and it will remain for a Committee of the House to confirm or reject Mr. Delisle's return.
