

of entertaining <sup>hours</sup> I therefore write you, as I felt I must head off the letter, you were kind enough to say, you would write to Lord Byron,

It is a disappointment, but I don't fancy I could have had much chance of being selected with politicians in the field.

I am so sorry to have worried you Sir, but it was wonderful to be received in the same kindly sympathetic way in wh you have always received this useless old crow bait, I wish something would turn up that I could do, but if it doesn't I have had
