

TO THE PUBLIC.

No circumstance will be neglected, no feature omitted, no expense spared, to render the work permanently useful, as well as immediately interesting. Clearness, authenticity, and impartiality will be especially aimed at. The views of the adverse political parties will be stated from documents put forward by themselves, and as often as practicable in their own words. By these means, it is hoped to enable the public to judge of the true character of the struggle. In a word, the aim of the publisher is to present to the public a work, in every way worthy of its support and confidence, at an unusually moderate price. To ensure these ends, the superintendence of the work has been placed in the hands of a

Gentleman long resident in the Canadas,

And otherwise peculiarly qualified to fulfil the task, from the earnest attention he has for many years paid to the welfare of those Colonies and from the possession of
