Few citizens in Toronto know that mere is a fuel factory in this city. Situated out on Greenwood avenue, this plant is turning out some forty tons of fuel daily. All of the in-gredients entering into its manufac-ture are waste materials-city gar-bage, street sweepings, trade wastes, mine refuse, anthracite dust and water tar.

this plant is turning out some forty tons of fuel daily. All of the in-sredients entering into its manufac-ture are waste materials—city gar-bage, street sweepings, trade wastes, mine refuse, anthracite dust and water tar. Numbers of citizens are now using this fuel, which is said to be giving more efficiency and satisfaction than most coals. Government analysis re-veals its economic and heating value. In heat units it ranks with the best bituminous coals and with semi-anthracites. Its fuel ratio of tixed carbon and volatile is 4.1, the vola-tile matter being 15.3, fixed carbon It is a provine.

The ties for the street car intersection at Bloor and Danforth were laid yester-day; a temporay cross-over was put down, and the tracks of the Toronto Railway and the municipal system on Danforth west of Broadview are about to be joined. The larger steel pieces for the curves of one system into the other were delivered on the ground last night, and will be fastened to the ties today. The construction trucks for derricks and tools are also on the rails. It is a sootless, non-coking, clear and sanitary product, and burns wherever coke, coal or wood will burn. The promoters of the process and plant state that they will, if a satisfactory arrangement can be made with the city, be able to produce fifteen hundred tons of this fuel daily, which amount would insure the citi-zens against fuel famines, combined with the efforts of the coal dealers to keep up the importations of the past three or four years.

Looking for a leak in the gas pipe with a lighted match at the two-storey brick dwelling owned and occupied by John Fraser, 128 Chester avenue, caused an explosion about 9 o'clock last evening, causing damage about $50. The reeis were quickly on the scene. No person was injured. The present plant has not been equipped for commercial purposes, out for demonstrating the practicaoility of the process to the cities of Canada, but so practical has the demonstration proven itself, the com-pany operating it has decided to con-tinue its operation, and to enlarge its capacity as rapidly as possible.

Discussing the subject with a re-presentative of the company, it was learned that every portion of the city's gabage, with the exception of tin cans, rags, bones, bottles, metals and non-combastibles, can be utilized in the manufacture of this fuel. Street sweepings, trade wastes, etc., all Discussing the subject with a re-presentative of the company, it was sweepings, trade wastes, etc., all enter into the product, these being ground into a fine pulp, then assem-bled with coal dust, and mixed in vats containing boiling water and tar, and carried into a huge press, from which the fuel is moulded into briquettes, LARGE FUNERAL FOR dried and marketed.

The company claim there is suff-clent waste material in this city to enable an output of at least 1500 tons per day, and that it is costing this city nearly $80,000 per annum to burn this garbage and other materials at the incinerator. The company now have some four hundred tons of the new fuel in their yards, and are delivering to all parts of the city. That it is an economic and highly satisfactory fuel is evident from the numerous attestations on fyle in the company's office. The company states that citizens can at least look forward to a local fuel supply, irrespective of the city's garbage, since the company states that it will, next season, be manufac-
