Port Hope "Faithful" Inclined to Rebel Against Government's Treatment.

PORT HOPE, June 30 .- (Special.) The Liberals of this town are "stark mad" as one puts it over the action of the Liberal convention in Newcastle Friday. The government, they believe, still has a grudge against thanksgiving solo. The bride's dress Port Hope for turning down Hon. A. was of cream silk eolienne. The house B. Aylesworth, K.C., when he ran in was prettily decorated with orange Durham. With the Trent Valley canal outlet scheme given up as a lost inheritance in prospect, the ardent admirers of Sir Wilfrid's sunny ways and astute statesmanship focused for Port Hope the Canadian end of the Grand Trunk ferry connecting with Charlotte, N.Y. Delegations, personal interviews, correspondence extenso occupied the time of the Ottawa ministers, but all without avail, the combined efforts of the whole Liberal cohort having been met with flat refusal and the rival and muchfavored neighboring Town of Cobourg was given the plum. And now to make humiliation more certain, the make humiliation more certain, the cage went up again with equal or great field pieces, the two cannon that greater speed than on its descent, and, have stood like sentinels near the statue of the late Colonel Williams of sacred memory to thousands of Durhamites have been moved to Cobourg and the gravest apprehensions exist on the part of his loving fellow citizens lest the almost-worshipped statue itself may be found missing from the pedestal some morning. Convention Divided.

But the latest cause for chagrin the action of the Liberal convention Friday at Newcastle, when the delegates from West Durham in overwhelming force vanquished the deci-mated forces of the east in selecting manville, as the standard bearer in the next general election for the com mons. He was once turned down to A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., when Hon. Robert Beith retired from representing West Durham, and the two Durhams were united, and he felt some disgruntled over it, too, but what time brings its changes and the re doubtable K.C. of Durham has finally triumphed, so far at least, as to se curing the nomination. Still, the conditions of his success were so centred in the smallness of the East Durham delegation that they are likely to cause some embarrassment in the campaign, when arrives, because the East Durham Liberals refused to attend the annua meeting at Orono over a fortnight ago and the resolution to hold the convention to nominate a candidate was carried by a bare majority, opinion being about equally divided regarding the advisability of holding the convention when such bitter feelings prevailed in Port Hope against the government. Accordingly, a concert ed attempt was made at the nominat ing convention to put off the nomina tion till a later date. Believing that their wishes would find ready acquies cence on the part of the western dele gates, only a small number of East Durham delegates put in appearance there being only 29 present, while West Durham was almost up to the limit, 62 being present besides several alternate delegates.

Ballots Taken. The conflict began when a motion was made to proceed with chopsing a candidate and a counter motion was launched to defer it till fall, owing to the small representation from the eastern side of the county. Dr. R. A. Corbett, W. H. McCallum, Councillor John McMullen, M. A. James, and Mayor Giddy spoke strongly in favor of deferment. W. R. Allin, D E. Simpson and A. B. Cryderman urged a choice being made. Mr. Simp on thought it would be a fatal misake to put off the choice of a Libera candidate any longer. He should be in the field to look after the revision of the voters' lists in the ten muniipalities of Durham. Elections were ost or won at the judge's courts of On the first ballot D. B. Simpson
