70,000 From U.S. Entering The Far West

Within Two Years They Will Be Cultivating 5000 Square Miles of Territory.

WINNIPEG, March 31.—(Special.)—Seventy thousand people from the United States will arrive in Western Canada during the present year and will settle on homesteads in the three prairie provinces.

Sir James Whitney, before recess last night, found it necessary to call attention to a report in The World referring to a division in the cabinet over the withdrawal of Joseph Downey's bill on tuberculosis, which, he said, was very unfortunate.

Hon. A. G. MacKay: "Some hon. members do not apprehend it either." Sir James Whitney: "This is not a subject for mirth; it is a very serious matter. Hon. members may have it on their own way, but I repeat the statement, which I think we made in good faith, that this government will continue, as heretofore, to get information in every possible way on subjects of that description and on every subject in order that legislation may be properly prepared."

Continuing, Sir James made reference to another article which appeared in two newspapers concerning the distribution of territory by the Dominion Government to the provinces, indicating that Ontario and Manitoba could not agree.

"There is no dispute, or disagreement or diverse views held with reference to this question," said the premier. "When the Dominion Government notified us of their intention to divide up the territory, the representatives of the province went to Ottawa with their own proposals. Ontario is simply a marsh. Port Nelson, which is the only place called a port on the shore of Hudson Bay, did not have a harbor and the expense of money could not make a harbor of it."

"It must not be forgotten in discussing this question that we had no claim on the Dominion Government. Mr. Roblin of Manitoba and Mr. Scott thought that they were entitled to a division. THE DIVISION OF TERRITORY WOULD HAVE ONLY A SOVEREIGNTY, ONTARIO WOULD OWN THE TERRITORY. Sir Wilfrid Laurier sent us a copy of the bill, but I have since learned that it is not likely that an act will be passed this session."

Contribution to Defense. Before recess Sir James Whitney referred to the agitation throughout Canada regarding a contribution to imperial defence, and said: "I have been receiving a number of telegrams from different parts of the continent and I may say in reference to this question that I have communicated with no person directly or indirectly on this subject, and I have received no communication directly or indirectly from any person on the subject. I think I have made that as broad as I can. If it can be broader I hope that hon. gentlemen will understand me as using the broader language. I simply have stated in the newspapers what I expect now."

"I have said nothing to anyone in any other province, but I repeat, in my opinion Canada has missed an opportunity which may never come again. Had parliament immediately and spontaneously appropriated the value of a Dreadnought, or even two such ships, with an intimation that further aid would be forthcoming in case of need, that action, coming in concert from other British dominions, would have shown to the world at large that the British communities are ready to meet any attack upon the empire. Such a demonstration would have cleared the atmosphere, saved further expenditure and created a lasting effect among the nations of the world who are looking on." (Cheers.)

Trusts Dominion Parliament. Hon. A. G. MacKay in reply said that if the resolution was unanimously carried at Ottawa was followed out in fact as well as in name he for one would not object to its supplement in any way by any one of the provinces. "I would rather hear Canada unitedly voice her opinion than speak from the Dominion Parliament," he said. "If, under the first lord of the admiralty's advice, we build up at home an auxiliary system of naval defence, with coaling stations, co-operating therein with every British colonial dependency, where British ships can enter, instead of going to neutral ports in time of stress, it will accomplish what Canada desires."

FAVORS A TARIFF BUREAU

Taft Believes Permanent Officials Would Be Very Useful.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—President Taft today declared himself in favor of a tariff bureau to be created at this session of congress. He believes that such a bureau would be of great assistance to him in the application of the maximum and minimum principle of the Payne Bill in the negotiations of foreign trade agreements, as well as in furnishing detailed information to congress and to the White House on various tariff questions as they arise.

"NOW IS THE TIME FOR CANADA." The peril of the new communities (in the west) is that in the effort to gain the world they lose their souls. Our country is just in the process of making. Her future depends largely on the work of this generation. By the time another generation comes on the scene the foundation will be laid and the general character of the superstructure determined. NOW is the hour of our supreme Opportunity. —N. W. ROWELL, K.C.

WORK OF MISSIONARIES IN PAST — FOR FUTURE

N. W. Rowell's Clarion Call In Emphasizing the Great Opportunity That Now Confronts Us.

"And the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

One felt the strange power of this word stirring the serried ranks of the thousands of delegates who assembled last night in Massey Hall at the formal opening of the Canadian National Missionary Congress. A great gathering of earnest and devoted men has under any circumstances a dynamic which can be felt even by the least sensitive, but this concrete and tangible expression of the solemn conviction that Jesus Christ means everything to this earth and its people, held as the motive and determination of the religious representatives of the nation, and in a very real and intimate sense of Canada itself, carried the power of a Pentecostal outpouring and moved mightily in all hearts.

"We can think of nothing else but the glory of our Lord," was the speech of Sir Andrew Fraser, K.C.S.I., whose 37 years in the service of the crown in India gave his remarks the distinction that comes from those who stand before kings. His military bearing, his white hair and moustache, his message from the native Christians of India made actual and real the object of the congress, and testified to the practical nature of the work in hand.

CHOIR PLANNING FOR TRIP TO EUROPE

If All Goes Well, in 1911 the Mendelssohn Singers Will Visit Britain, France and Germany.

Like Alexander sighing for new fields to conquer, the eyes of the Mendelssohn Choir have been turned to lands beyond the ocean wave. As Virgil sang in days of old, so have been, the thoughts and hopes and desires of Dr. Vogt's famous band of singers: "Crux ingens horribilium aequior."

THE WORLD'S DEBT TO THE MISSIONARY (1) He has largely helped to open up the dark corners of the universe. (2) To him we largely owe our knowledge of the world's languages and literature. (3) For generations, the world's diplomacy was practically dependent upon the missionary. (4) He has atoned for the moral shame of our western contact with the east. (5) Thru him, the whole attitude of the western nations to the heathen nations has been transformed. (6) The missionary agency has launched and directed the great movements which stir Africa and Asia to-day. (7) He has confirmed and strengthened for the church at home her pure and simple evangelical conviction. (8) He has brought to the Church a mighty inspiration. (9) He is leading the Church on to unity. ROBERT E. SPEER.
