SALARIES OF COLLEGIATE TEACHERS.

In connection with the proposed re-adjustment of collegiate salaries on a more liberal basis, which the pressure of circumstances is forcing upon the board of education, it is to be hoped that the latter body will be just enough, and at the same time wise enough, to deal as fairly with those now upon the staff, as they will have to do in the case of all future appointments. It must be remembered that the high school teachers of Toronto constitute the cream of the profession in this province; for the vast majority were selected at a time anterior to 1896, and when Toronto positions still possessed an attraction for outside educators. Under the pressure of insufficient remuneration many of the best of our collegiate teachers have left the profession, and are now prominent in other lines of activity—many well-known names will here suggest themselves. Certain heads of departments have received flattering offers from outside sources, offers which would have been accepted were it not for the prospect of relief afforded by Dr. Embree's proposed schedule. Should the action of the board this spring disappoint that hope, we greatly fear that a decided migration of collegiate teachers from the service of the Toronto board will result.

Just here it might be mentioned that even Dr. Embree's schedule discriminates in favor of outsiders as against those now on the staff. If an outside teacher has had at least nine years' experience and now joins the Toronto staff, the pecuniary value of his three units is felt at once by him. But in the case of any one teaching in the city, with the same length of outside experience to his credit, the increase to which he is entitled is not to be given him at once, but is to spread over three years. Cannot a great city like Toronto afford to be just in the matter of such public servants as the teachers in our colleges, who certainly give more than value for every cent of city money they receive? Let the board have the courage to deal generously when they can do so justly with those who have served them faithfully in the past. Public opinion will certainly applaud their act.

FOSTERING IMPERIAL TRADE.

Complaint has often been made that the British Government has not been energetic enough in assisting the development of imperial and foreign trade, and it is true that until a comparatively recent date no special effort was made to utilize the diplomatic and consular services for that desirable purpose. It was only as late as October, 1899, that, as the result of recommendations made by a departmental committee, appointed by the board of trade in 1897, a commercial intelligence branch of that government office was established. Nothing very considerable, however, appears to have been accomplished till April, 1904, since which the branch, according to a report issued in the fall of last year, has performed an increasing amount of useful work in the interests of British trade.

The growing attention paid by British manufacturers and traders to the promotion of their imperial and foreign business is distinctly shown by the large increase in the number of personal and written enquiries answered by the commercial intelligence branch that has taken place. In 1901 these totaled 1614, but have risen by yearly increments till in 1908 they reached 11,267. Between 1904 and 1907 alone they increased by 2700, and every effort has been made to supply the latest and most accurate information touching the subjects which the enquiries referred. This has been collected largely by means of commercial missions, one of the most important being that entrusted to Mr. Richard Grigg, and prosecuted by him in Canada between September, 1906, and June, 1908.

His reports, issued in January and June of the latter year, attracted special attention, and together with the reports on other British overseas states and in foreign countries led to the resolution to extend, improve and give permanent form to this means of collecting and disseminating commercial and industrial information. In 1908 four agents, entitled His Majesty's Trade Commissioners, were appointed. Mr. Grigg being assigned to Canada. His work has been supplemented by the appointment of eight local correspondents in Canada, two acting in Ontario being Mr. F. W. Field, Toronto, and Mr. John Bain at Ottawa. Their duties consist mainly in answering enquiries, but these also include the procuring of information on specified subjects and the preparation of reports, as occasion may require, on all matters likely to affect the trade of the United Kingdom, with their respective spheres of action. Judging from the tenor of the report of the advisory committee on commercial intelligence, it is plain that a vigorous and well-considered effort is being made to increase the volume of business among the imperial states, an object with which Canadians in general will have entire sympathy.

GET UP STEAM FOR GOOD ROADS.

The World's news columns of yesterday contained information of four different movements, all in the direction of improving our roads. First of all, and perhaps the most important, was the report of the parks commissioner, Mr. Wilson, outlining a system of boulevards around the entire city. To realize this excellent proposition, a small expenditure would be required, as the basis of the whole is in existence to-day.

Next there was the meeting of the Ontario Motor League, where the retiring president, Mr. Dobie, was able to show in his speech that the automobile interest was widening. That good roads were coming, and that motorists were preparing to do all they could to respect the law of the roads.

The third item concerned the conference at the city hall between a deputation of the board of trade and other friends of good roads and the city authorities, in which both declared that they were willing to join hands with all the municipal powers in order to secure good main roads within a radius of 20 miles of Toronto.

The fourth item referred to a conference between the municipalities of the town of North Toronto and the Township of York, as to the two new parallel roads that are authorized by bylaw east and west of Yonge-street respectively. The World is sorry to record little progress in this proposal; apparently some unseen force is steadily working thru the North Toronto Council to prevent the construction of the parallel roads. They are absolutely essential to the development of Toronto to the north, as they would be relieving highways of the pressure on Yonge-street, as well as open up a lot of new territory.

What will make all these things come in the way of good roads is to get the enthusiasm going, and once the enthusiasm is under way, Toronto will have what she must have in order to be a great city good roads radiating in all directions from its centre.

One thing well worthy of the attention of the farming community is the reference in Mr. Dobie's speech to the fact that the farmer must come to the automobile; that in fact one-fourth of the machines being built in the United States this year are for farmers, and that, therefore, the farmers instead of antagonizing the automobile must come to use it. It is the instrument above all other instruments that will bring the good roads; that will increase the value of all lands within 15 miles of the cities and railroad stations, and bring more comfort, convenience and saving to the farmer than anything else.

Here now is a change for Hon. Dr. Reame to start in to realize a provincial policy for good roads.

Any man to-day who opposes good roads and the extension of good roads is a public enemy.

THE TRADERS BANK.

Remarkable progress has been disclosed in the reports published in another column of this issue of The World, presented to the shareholders of the Traders Bank, at their annual meeting yesterday. The figures reflect the recovery made from the financial stringency which prevailed during 1908, and the greater part of last year, in which Canada shared, the fortunately less deeply than most other countries. In that recovery the Traders Bank has materially participated, its deposits showing an increase over 1908 of $4,426,000, equal to 17 1/2 per cent, and now standing at $29,813,194. Last year also saw a striking increase in circulation, the record point of $2,543,000 having been reached, and being accompanied by a notable addition of $5,104,000 to the assets of the bank, as against an increase of $1,139,000 for the preceding period. The assets now reach the handsome total of $29,263,681.17. While the business done has been highly profitable is sufficiently shown by the fact that the net profits earned permitted of the payment of three per cent dividends, and one at the rate of 8 per cent. From this source $200,000 has also been credited to reserve account now standing at $2,200,000, and this increase in banking facilities, coupled with the constant opening up of new business connections, must necessarily stimulate the progress of the bank, and still further establish its prosperity. As all departments of the bank have shared in the advance, the shareholders can have no better evidence of the efficiency that characterizes the management and executive staff.

PROGRESS IN AUTOMOBILES.

For more than a decade the best mechanical experts of Europe, the United States and Canada have been working to secure an ideal automobile engine, and their efforts have met with success in evolving several types, each of which has merits that overcome difficulties that stood in the way of development of the industry. With great perfection of motive power the automobile business has grown rapidly and now can scarcely cope with the public demand.

The Knight engine is probably the highest type of automobile engine yet devised. It has been described as an epoch-making invention, and certainly it has many features that seem to justify the general recognition of its merits. The mechanism of the mushroom valves has been done away with and replaced by two sliding sleeves, interposed between the piston and the cylinder wall. These sleeves have openings cut in them and pass one another in proper time to admit the explosive mixture from the inlet pipe and again let out the burned gases thru the exhaust pipe after the explosion. The result is smooth working, which gives silence and greater flexibility. The Knight apparently gives greater fuel efficiency and greater reliability.

At fifty miles an hour the Knight engine runs silently and the successful demonstration of this claim has made the Knight the most talked-of engine since its adoption by the Canada Cycle and Motor Co. in the Russell cars of 1910. The Knight engine, by winning the Scottish Cup against 65 competitors for lowest fuel consumption, in a run over the hills of Scotland, justified the Canadian enterprise in securing the rights for this country, along with the rights on all future improvements that may be devised for the Knight engine.

RATES FOR POWER.

At a conference of engineers representing municipalities in the Niagara Power Union at the city hall yesterday afternoon recommendations as to rates to be paid by various classes of power users, and also rates for commercial lighting, were considered, and when ready to be submitted to the municipalities for approval. The discussion was of a technical character.

R. A. Ross of the hydro-electric commission presided, and there were 18 engineers present.

Dr. Miles' Canadian Laboratory.

The Dr. Miles Medical Co. of Elkhart, Indiana, has established a Canadian laboratory at Toronto. This firm, whose advertising will appear regularly in our columns, has been in business in the States for 30 years, and their line is known wherever there is a drug store.

For the convenience of their many patrons in Canada and to satisfy the rapidly growing demand for their goods (though never before in Canada), the Dominion Laboratories have been established.

While in no manner responsible for specific statements appearing in the advertising columns, we believe the Dr. Miles Medical Co. of Toronto is entitled to that large share of our confidence of the trade and public, which they enjoy in the States.
