POLICE OFFICER SHOT BY CUSTOMS MEN

Hunting Rum Runners, U. S. Government Craft Fires on Police Boat.

New York, July 15—While two investigations were in progress, Police Lieutenant Dennis Glavin of St. George, S. I., was said to be recovering from three bullet wounds he received when a customs marine patrol boat fired on Police Launch No. 3 on Saturday.

Federal and city officers gave conflicting versions of the shooting, which was off the Rosebank landings, Staten Island. Both boats were on harbor patrol duty, the police launch searching the St. Island waterfront for dock thieves, and the customs vessel hunting for rum runners.

The customs crew in the launch Surveyor, under command of Inspector Percy Johnson, assert the police boat disregarded their hail and was shooting without regulation lights.

Three of the shots fired hit Glavin, two in the abdomen and one in the left shoulder. The bullet wounds were removed in an immediate operation. Glavin had been in charge of the desk at the St. George precinct, but was detailed Friday night to the harbor squad.

The police were bitter after the shooting. They said the two boats had met earlier in the night, when the police hailed the other boat and learned it was the Surveyor. The police boat crew said that, in contrast to their earlier meeting, the men on the Surveyor opened fire before hailing them.

WIFE DIVORCES YEAST MAGNATE

Fleischmann Admits She Obtained Paris Decree—Terms Unknown.

New York, July 15—Setting at rest rumors which have been current since the departure of his wife for Europe three weeks ago, Julius Fleischmann, America's "yeast king," has admitted that a decree of divorce had been obtained by her from the Paris courts.

While the terms of the decree were not made known, they are understood to have included the settlement of $8,000,000 upon his wife by him. It is also said that as soon as the law will permit Mrs. Fleischmann will be wed to Jay O'Brien, Broadway idol and "King of the Movies," with whom she is said to have been friendly for more than a year.

Seated in the golf house of the private course on his country estate at Sands Point, L. I., the millionaire yeast manufacturer reluctantly admitted that a decree had been entered in Paris Friday, synonymous with his own arrival in the United States on the Steamship Benarria. He refused, however, to comment further on the matter or reveal the financial arrangements he had entered into with his wife on the ground that they were none of the public's business.

Four times breaks have been reported, and as many times the breaches healed by the efforts of Fleischmann to win the growing friendship of his wife from O'Brien. The couple frequently were seen together, however, and were regular attendants in Broadway's cabaret night life.

Mrs. Fleischmann admitted suddenly three weeks ago for Paris, presumably to hear her mother, Mrs. Edward Lewis, 78, who had already advised her that she had followed Mrs. Fleischmann a week after her departure. It was said at the time that Fleischmann's purpose in going abroad was to accept service in the Paris divorce action.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleischmann were married in 1920. Both had been married previously and divorced. At the time of his divorce from his first wife Fleischmann settled $2,000,000 upon her and a yearly income of $25,000. Mrs. Fleischmann's former husband was Louis Fleimway, who made a fortune as a silk manufacturer.

DETECTIVE STAIN IN HOLDUP BATTLE

Shot When He and Companion Interrupt Bronx Barroom Robbery.

New York, July 15—Four men drove up to 1,301 Jerome avenue, the Bronx, formerly a saloon, about 4:30 p.m. and while one man stood beside the car the others knocked upon the locked door and demanded that they be admitted. The door had hardly closed behind them when a police automobile with Detective Sergeant Timothy Connel and John Coogan of the Highbridge Station stopped in front of the place. Disregarding the whistled signal of the man who stood beside the other automobile, the detectives entered and found a holdup in progress.

A second later came a fusillade of shots that splintered the windows and the glass of the doors. Before the sound of conflict had stopped three men ran from a side door to the waiting car. There was confusion inside the bar as the counter that had once been the bar was Detective Connel, with a bullet wound over his right eye and another through his body. He died before his comrade returned from pursuit of the fleeing thieves and before any of the men who crouched behind the shelter of chairs and bar would venture out to aid him.

When Connel and Coogan were on auto patrol duty they passed a touring car going south in Jerome avenue at 169th street. The four occupants attracted their attention, and they set out to follow the car. They were only a short distance away and unnoticed by the robbers when the drinking place of Jose Bruno at Jerome avenue and Clark Place. They were so close behind that the door had hardly shut upon them when the man in the car pushed it open. Found a Hold Up.

There was no time lost in preliminaries. Both detectives had their revolvers out on the instant. The robber on the left got in the first shot at the man in the center, still holding his knife, fell into a crouching position so as to be out of the line of fire. The firing became general. About twenty shots were fired. Detective Perrino was struck in the first exchange of shots and as he sagged and held to the bar to keep in the fight, the thieves ran toward the door. The barroom is under the elevated station at 169th street and the fight in the street brought a great crowd. The killing of Connel, who was one of the best known policemen in that borough, brought a great crowd to the scene to hunt for his murderers.

Connel's service in the Police Department was especially marked for bravery. On December 23, 1921, he and Detective Randall McCarthy on the Bathgate avenue station, killed a hold-up man and arrested another after a shooting affray in which all of the participants were wounded. The encounter occurred in a United Cigar Store at 880 Tremont avenue, the Bronx, which was being looted by the three men. Connel and McCarthy were in a hospital for several months.

Connel, in May, 1922, received a departmental medal of honor for his good work in arresting hold-up men. K-1st Aid Optimism k-r-q-dk, 150 Delegates.

London, July 15—(Canadian Press)—Preparations were virtually completed today for the meeting here at the foreign office "tomorrow morning" of the inter-allied conference, headed by the British, which will be one of the most important of international events in several years. The purpose of the conference, in brief, is to discuss the Dawes committee on reparations to effect.

More than 150 delegates, experts and advisers, will be present when French and British representatives meet in the inter-allied conference with the principal subject of their conversations. Mr. Young indicated that he was willing and anxious to put all his knowledge and experience at the service of the conference and do everything in his power to aid in making the experts' findings practicable.

FINE PIN IS GIFT TO W. C. CROSS

Hall & Fairweather Ltd. Employes Honor Him on 40th Anniversary.

A lifetime of service with Hall & Fairweather, Ltd. wholesale grocers here, was honored by employes of the company yesterday afternoon when Carey B. Black, head of the warehouse department, presented to W. C. Cross, general manager and president, a handsome gold and pearl pin on behalf of the employes. Forty years ago Mr. Cross entered the employ of the company, and when this fact was accidentally discovered, his associates did not fail to seize the opportunity to honor him.

In his impromptu little speech, Mr. Black declared that the circle on the pin stood for the unbroken service given the company by Mr. Cross; the pearl stood for the quality of the service and the bar denoted the straightforwardness in which Mr. Cross had conducted himself. Surprise and emotion affected Mr. Cross when he attempted to reply. He was deeply affected but sincerely expressed his thanks. He voiced the hope that he would be spared forty more years to serve the company, a remark which was heartily applauded by the many present.

IS ROBBED; CALLS FIRE DEPARTMENT

Excited Laborer Turns in Fire Alarm When Pocket is Picked.

New York, July 15—Unable to disavow a policeman after he had been robbed while walking on Third avenue near 114th street, Michael Perrino, a laborer, called the fire department in a fire alarm in his excitement when the engines rolled alongside the curb where he stood. Perrino dramatically explained his misfortune, but the firemen were unsympathetic. At the order of the lieutenant commanding the engine, Perrino was taken by Patrolman Lazowski to the East 104th street station on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Waving his hands, Perrino vehemently explained to the desk lieutenant in broken English that he had been robbed of his week's pay of $40 when he was jostled by passersby in the crowd of a picnic trip. He was held for the night court. Louis Andrews of 2,133 Daly avenue, the Bronx, reported at the Bathgate avenue police station that he had been robbed in front of his home by two men, overpowered by them and robbed of a diamond ring worth $900 and $50 in cash. When the robbers started away their victim pursued them but he was soon overtripped.
